Brittin Goes to Jail for Contempt.

House postoffice committee announced that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and officers of air mail companies whose contracts have been canceled will have an opportunity to state their cases before a permanent bill on the re-award of contracts is agreed on.

Former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown issues statement denying there was any collusion in awarding of air mail contracts.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The senate investigation of air mail contracts took on more than ever today the aspect of a contest between Democratic "ins," and Republican "outs." Vociferous oratory upon the senate floor, where a Republican senator charged and Democratic leaders denied that the senate air mail committee was being swayed for favoritism, drowned out the news that L. H. Brittin, former air mail operator whom the senate found guilty of contempt yesterday, had gone to jail to serve out his ten day sentence.

A partisan debate, which finally resulted in the announcement that Walter F. Brown, Hoover's postmaster general, would be heard by the investigating committee next Monday, overshadowed the word that William P. MacCracken Jr., former Republican assistant secretary of commerce, had been released on bond as the first step in proceedings which will take his ten day sentence for contempt to the United States Supreme court.

Lacks Funds to Appeal.

In point of time the jailing of Brittin came first. Lacking funds to carry his case to the higher courts, fired by Northwest Airways, which he had long served as vice president, the elderly air mail operator announced this morning that he intended to serve out the sentence imposed on him by last night's senate verdict. Over the protests of his attorney, Seth W. Richardson, he said he would not fight his conviction of having tampered with air mail correspondence which had been subpenaed by the senate committee.

At noon, accompanied by Senate Sergeant at Arms Jurney, he was driven to the district jail and there put through regular routine to which ordinary prisoners are subjected. Meanwhile MacCracken and his lawyer, Frank J. Hogan, were appearing before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia Supreme court. Upon MacCracken's stipulation that, should his appeal finally fail, he would begin serving his sentence, even though the senate were not in session, Justice O'Donoghue consented to a $5,000 bond for MacCracken's release.

Demands Hearing for Brown.

News of these events reaching the senate found Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] opening what was to turn into a bitter partisan argument with a demand that his friend and constituent, former Postmaster General Brown, be heard by the committee.

Immediately the question of immunity came up. As chairman of the committee, Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] announced that Brown would be heard at any time—whenever he was ready to waive immunity.

Mr. Brown has called him by telephone and demanded to be heard, said Senator Fess. The Ohio senator referred to the statement made yesterday by Democratic Postmaster General Farley explaining why domestic air mail contracts throughout the country had been canceled.

Reads Brown's Letter.

"The inference from that statement," said Senator Fess, "is that these contracts made under the administration of the former postmaster general were the result of collusion and in violation of the law requiring competitive bidding.

"In all fairness," the senator explained, "I should read into the record a letter which I have received from Postmaster General Brown."

The letter demanded a hearing and defended the air mail system.

As he came to the conclusion of the letter Senator Fess paused for emphasis, looked over at Chairman Black, and then read Mr. Brown's final paragraph:

"In so doing you will please state for me that I will appear voluntarily that my testimony will be given without compulsion, and that anything

NEW CRISIS HITS AUSTRIA; CIVIL WAR DIES OUT

Storm in Europe

The storm created in the chancellories of Europe by the three cornered struggle to gain control of Austria by the Hitler dominated Nazis, the Mussolini-minded Fascists and the Socialists grew in intensity yesterday. Chief developments of the day were:

VIENNA—The Socialists capitulated to Fascism after four days of civil warfare, in which conservative estimates place the death toll at 1,000 to 1,200.

BERLIN—A Hitlerite spokesman denounced the Dollfuss government of Austria in a radio speech as "murderers" and charged that the Austrian warfare was a "clash of foreign powers on German soil."

PRAGUE—Acting foreign minister of Czechoslovakia advocated international action, possibly through the league of nations, to adjust the Austrian situation.

ROME—Italy accused Czechoslovakia of arming Austrian Socialists for their insurrection. About 75,000 Italian troops are stationed near the Austrian frontier.

BUDAPEST—Hungarians accuse Czechoslovakian government of arming Socialists in Austria.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Pictures on Back Page.)

VIENNA, Feb. 15 [by telephone to London to avoid censor].—Social democracy appeared to have capitulated to Fascism in Austria tonight. Forty thousand members of the schutzbund [Socialist semi-military force], who for four days resisted all armed forces of the nation, are broken and in retreat. Many of them are dead and many in the prisons of Maj. Emil Fey, ambitious Fascist leader and vice chancellor of the republic.

Occasional shots were fired in the streets of Vienna tonight and sniping broke out from time to time in the Socialist haunts which have not yet been completely "mopped up" by the process of tossing a hand grenade into the cellar.

But organized fighting has ceased here as well as in other parts of Austria.

New Crisis at Hand.

All signs tonight, however, indicate another phase of this momentous struggle in which perhaps the peace of Europe may be involved is at hand and that it will take many years to clear away the bloodstains.

Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, commander of the Fascist heimwehr, which has been assisting the soldiers of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss put down the civil war, is threatening to kick over the traces.

Tonight he accused leaders of Dollfuss' own Christian Social party of being responsible for the bloodshed. In a funeral oration for a fallen comrade at Ausfelden the Fascist prince said:

"The blame that so much blood had to be spilled rests with democratic corruptionist politicians who betrayed the native population of this country with their shameless bickerings with the Reds."

Dollfuss Between Two Fires.

Leaders of the Christian Social party responded to the accusation by petitioning the chancellor to reconvene parliament, which he discarded over a year ago in order that he might rule as dictator.

This new crisis places Dollfuss in a bad situation. If he heeds his party's plea and restores parliament the Fascisti will have two courses to pursue. One would be to overthrow Dollfuss by a putsch. The other would be to meekly surrender. This would be a heavy blow to the heimwehr's struggle to take over the reins.

Some political observers believe Dollfuss has cast aside his party, jumped into the Fascist band wagon, and intends to place heimwehr members in the cabinet, thus creating a purely Fascist state.

See Mussolini's Hand.

Others claim that the adoption of "authoritarian" government schemes under the coaching of Premier Mussolini is already under way.

As proof they point to tonight's announcement that in Tyrol the provincial council had been dissolved and will be replaced by a Fascist committee. Dissolution of the provincial

DOCTOR IS CALLED TO HOME; SHOT BY JEALOUS HUSBAND

Dr. Otto J. Rabe, 50 years old, 6727 Merrill avenue, was shot and possibly fatally wounded last night by Adolph Robert Paulson, 44 years old, 1620 East 55th street, a jealous husband. The physician had been summoned to the Paulson home to treat a child and the shooting took place there.

Dr. Rabe was taken to the Woodlawn hospital, of which he was a staff physician, and was operated on by Dr. R. K. Packard. It was reported that one bullet had struck Dr. Rabe ove. the eye and that another had penetrated his neck. His condition was regarded as critical.

Following the shooting Paulson calmly laid down his pistol and called the Hyde Park police station, announcing his deed. Questioned later, he declared that his wife confessed to him a month ago that she and Dr. Rabe had been intimate for fourteen years. Thereafter, he said, he awaited his opportunity for revenge, and summoned the physician to his home last night to kill him.

Mrs. Corda Paulson, the wife, who is 38 years old, declared the story was absurd. The doctor, she said, had never been in their home except when Paulson summoned him in his professional capacity. Her husband, she added, was insanely jealous. Paulson is a janitor. He and his wife are the parents of four children and Mrs. Paulson is again an expectant mother.

Richard Will Stand Just So Much of This

Richard Eschen, a mild appearing little man of 45 years, who lives at 3411 East Washington street, Joliet, is an amateur breeder of birds and animals. Usually Mr. Eschen's temper is most placid, but yesterday, after twenty-four hours of meditation, he decided that he had had more than his share of trouble and he took his woes to the Joliet police.

He informed the desk sergeant that he wanted to take out a warrant for the arrest of two men who have abused his fourteen canaries, thirty guinea pigs, two dogs, eight chickens and twenty rabbits. The men, he said, were two former convicts, Charles Babb and Frank Misda.

How It All Started.

"You see," drawled Eschen, "these two men used to live at my home. I didn't complain when my wife took them in and had them sleep in the only bed in the house while I spent my nights on the floor or on the sofa.

"And it was not too much to stand when they made me nervous by handling guns in front of me and talking about railroad robberies. They spent all their time with my wife and she wouldn't even look at me. But that was all right because I still loved my pets.

"I couldn't blame my wife for not wanting all the animals in the house. I remember one evening that she got a little peeved because I brought in a guinea pig and she had her two convict friends throw both me and the pig out. They threw us through the front room window, but I wouldn't have objected to that except that they broke the window with us."

This Is Too Much.

"But last Tuesday evening I got good and mad," he resumed, throwing back his shoulders. "I saw those two throwing rocks at my dogs and kicking my guinea pigs around. I ran right out and ordered them to get off the place.

"Well, they stopped annoying the animals, but they began kicking me instead. Finally one of them rapped me on the head with a blackjack, and when I woke up I found that they had disappeared. So had my car and also my wife. I suppose they all drove off together.

"That seemed to me to settle the affair. But all day Wednesday I kept thinking about those men kicking my pigs and throwing rocks at my dogs, and I finally decided I'd have them arrested. And so here I am. I'm going to charge them with cruelty to animals."

The Joliet police agreed that Mr. Eschen had reason for his anger. A warrant was issued for the two men and Mr. Eschen was sent home to his pets.

FORMER CHICAGO ARTIST DIES; WIFE CARRIES ON SHOW

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The sudden death here today of Sewell Collins, noted American born theatrical producer, failed to deter his wife, Margaret Moffat, from courageously "carrying on" with a show which could not do without her.

SEWELL COLLINS.

Forcing back her tears after the night's performance of "Wind and the Rain," Miss Moffat said, "It was what my husband would have wished." She had gayly carried through her part as the chief laugh maker of the performance.

She even refrained from telling her fellow actors of her bereavement, fearing the effect on the success of the performance.

Collins, widely known as an author and journalist as well as producer, was 57. He was born in Denver, Colo., and educated in Minnesota and at the University of Notre Dame and West Point. He began a journalistic career as a cartoonist on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and became subsequently a dramatic critic.

During the world war he served throughout with the United States forces. He was decorated by Great Britain in 1919.

A man said by Chicago police to be Edward La Rue, alleged kidnaper and associate of "Handsome Jack" Klutas, slain leader of a $500,000 kidnap gang, was arrested by federal authorities in St. Petersburg, Fla., Wednesday. He was reported last night to be on his way to Springfield, Ill., under heavy guard. His wife was nabbed also.

La Rue is wanted in Chicago for the kidnaping of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, for which Gail Swolley and Frank Souder, downstate hoodlums, have already been convicted in local courts. Lincoln, Neb., also wants him as the suspected leader of the gang that in 1930 stole $2,500,000 from the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company.

Federal officials in Florida seized the suspect and his wife in a home which they had purchased last month for $7,500. The two were briefly questioned, then secretly taken to Tampa. It was said that La Rue was questioned about the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, and other crimes, which he denied. Technically he is being held on an automobile theft charge.

Willett Tells Court He, Too, Is Artistic

Howard L. Willett, head of a trucking company, admitted on the witness stand in the Superior court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday at a hearing of his wife's motion for temporary alimony, that both he and Mrs. Willett were "dramatic and artistic."

The admission was made without a moment's hesitation in reply to a question by Attorney Benjamin B. Davis of the firm of Socrates, Davis & Cohen, counsel for his wife, Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett. In his questioning of Willett, Davis endeavored to show that if Mrs. Willett is to continue the scale of living to which she is accustomed, that $25,000 a year, the alimony she is asking, is not too much.

Not a Life of Hardships.

The line of questioning also was intended to bring out that since Jan. 6, 1933, when, Mrs. Willett charges, her husband deserted her, his life has not been one of hardship.

As a witness, however, Willett did not show the faultless stage presence of Mrs. Willett, who proceeded him in the witness box. Nor did he appear to feel the sheer joy of testifying before a crowded courtroom that Mrs. Willett indicated whenever a playful sally of hers brought a laugh from the courtroom or a reluctant smile from Judge Desort.

Before she relinquished the witness chair to her husband, Mrs. Willett was asked by Attorney Jay Fred Reeve, representing Willett, about a check for $1,000 she had given to Attorney David Stansbury. She replied: "O, yes, that was for a retainer's fee for a lawsuit he's conducting for me." Then, with a tinkling laugh, she inquired coyly: "You really don't want me to go into that, do you?"

$1,000,000 Alienation Suit.

The "lawsuit" she alluded to is her alienation of affections suit pending against Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, wealthy widow of 5480 South Shore drive, in which Mrs. Willett asks $1,000,000 for the theft of her husband's love.

Attorney Davis, questioning Mr. Willett, asked him if he recalled the intimé which he and his wife had had built in their penthouse home at 2130 Lincoln Park West, where Mrs. Willett still lives, for amateur theatricals. Mr. Willett did.

ATTORNEY DAVIS—Do you yourself give readings? A.—Yes, at times.

Q.—And Mrs. Willett gives readings also, doesn't she? A.—Yes.

Q.—Both you and Mrs. Willett are dramatic and artistic, aren't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You were proud of your wife's ability in these directions, were you not? A.—[Hesitates, then slowly]—I have on occasions expressed publicly my admiration for Mrs. Willett.

Mr. Willett drew the line, however, at expressing approval of the Willett roof garden which adjoins the penthouse. Mrs. Willett previously testified that from $500 to $700 of the $25,000 a year she needs in temporary alimony is required for upkeep for the garden.

Enjoys Her Garden.

"Mrs. Willett enjoys her garden, doesn't she?" Attorney Davis asked with a sweep of the arm, as if to suggest a broad vista of daisies or anemones, buttercups or daffodils.

"I presume she does," replied Willet, apparently unmoved.

"And how about you?" the attorney persisted pleasantly. "Have you enjoyed this roof garden?"

"Nope," replied Mr. Willett, his jutting chin becoming more decidedly set.

Q—How often do you entertain? A—For business purposes, about three times a week. I have a traveling and entertainment allowance from the company of between $200 and $250 a month.

Q—Do you have large parties? A—No. At the last there were only 22

The second trial of Roger Touhy, and two of his gangsters for the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator, will open tomorrow morning in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg. The jury was completed yesterday with the rapid selection of eight jurors. Two days were consumed in getting the first four.

That the state had abandoned hope of winning the death penalty was indicated when Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley accepted one juror without qualifying him on this point. A second juror was allowed to remain in the box after he had announced that he considered the death penalty too severe in a kidnaping case.

Priest Will Not Testify.

As the jury was completed an important development outside the courtroom promised to substantially strengthen the state's case in the second trial of Touhy and his two co-defendants, Albert Kator and Gus Schaefer. An announcement from Indianapolis assured the prosecution that the Rev. Joseph F. Weber of that city, a leading defense witness at the first trial, whose testimony was said to have indirectly caused the jury's disagreement and subsequent mistrial, would not testify at the second hearing.

Dispatches revealed that Acting Bishop Joseph Elmer Ritter of Indianapolis was reported to have invoked a church rule which denies a priest the right to leave his home diocese for such a purpose, thus automatically making impossible Father Weber's appearance as a witness at the trial.

Father Weber verified the report and said that he had unknowingly transgressed the rule during his appearance as a witness in the Chicago court. This ruling was greeted with favor by the prosecution, as the testimony of Father Weber was believed to have been of major importance to the defense.

Talked with Gang Chief.

At the first trial, in which the only direct testimony against the alleged kidnapers was that of Factor himself, the priest testified that last July, while Factor was held captive, he [Father Weber] came to Chicago at the request of Lieut. Leo Carr, who was directing the search for the abducted speculator. Father Weber said that Lieut. Carr, knowing that he was acquainted with Roger Touhy, asked him to talk with the gangster in regard to the kidnaping.

He went to see Touhy, the priest testified from the witness stand, and questioned the gangster directly concerning the kidnaping. Touhy made a vehement denial, according to the testimony of the priest, and said that if he were holding Factor as a prisoner he would release him to Father Weber.

Expects Extradition Fight.

Meantime Capt. Dan A. Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, who is in Baltimore to take into custody Basil Banghart and Isaac Costner and return them to Chicago to stand trial for the kidnaping of Factor with the other three Touhy gangsters, said, in the Maryland city, he had information that the pair would fight extradition. Earlier in the day it had been reported that Costner had confessed, that Banghart was willing to talk, and that neither intended to fight extradition. Both men have been identified by Factor.

Capt. Gilbert said he anticipated little trouble in the event of an extradition fight. He is ready for an immediate hearing, he said, and added: "We've got a the pap we need, and, what's more important, we have the complainant [Factor] here."

Women Ready to Return.

Though Gilbert expects Banghart and Costner to fight extradition, he said that the two women arrested with them in Baltimore, Mrs. Tom Touhy, sister-in-law of the gang chief, Roger Touhy, and May Davis, had indicated that they would go along without any fight.

Sergt. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's office and five other detectives will arrive in Baltimore today with extradition papers for Banghart and Costner. All obstacles to the return of the gangsters were said to have been removed.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland said: "I will honor the Illinois extradition papers immediately after I receive them. If a hearing is demanded by the prisoners, it will be set at once."

Stewart Refuses Comment.

Told of the ruling making impossible Father Weber's appearance at the second trial, of the possible testimony of Banghart and Costner, and concerning the personnel of the new jury, Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart refused to comment beyond saying "we are satisfied with the way things are going."

The prosecutors, Crowley and Marshal Kearney, expressed their confidence that the new trial has assumed a decided turn in their favor, and went so far as to construe Attorney Stewart's refusal to comment as evidence of genuine worry on behalf of his clients.

Attorney Stewart duplicated his surprise move of the first trial yesterday when he accepted the second panel of jurors tendered by the state after only a few questions. The indication that the state had lost hope of inflicting the death penalty came during questioning of the final panel of four jurors.

Juror Clayton F. Wells, 45 years old, 1001 North Hayes avenue, Oak Park, a foundry superintendent, was accepted without being questioned concerning his ideas on the electric chair as a punishment. Juror W. C. Burmeister, 53 years old, 6143 Melrose street, a railroad clerk, was allowed to remain on the jury after he had announced that he did not believe death the proper penalty in the present case.

Burmeister, questioned by Prosecutor Crowley, said that he had no scruples against the death penalty, but added that "he did not believe it the correct punishment in the present case." Prosecutor Crowley denied that acceptance of Wells and Burmeister was a blow to the state hope of sending the defendants to the chair.

"I did not need to question Wells," he said, and explained his acceptance of Burmeister by the fact that the juror said that he had no scruples against the death penalty. "I can't go beyond that," he said.

Names of Jurors.

The other members of the jury are:

WALLACE L. CURTIS, 50 years old, 3742 North Hermitage avenue, valuator for a salvage concern.

JESSE E. WILLIAMS, 45 years old, 18004 Hermitage avenue, Homewood, grocery clerk.

Preparatory steps toward the return of Costner and Banghart were taken yesterday in Springfield and Chicago before the detectives left for Baltimore. An extradition warrant for Banghart was issued yesterday by Acting Governor Thomas F. Donovan. As Banghart was indicted at the same time as the defendants now on trial the warrant and the indictment will allow his return without further formalities. A warrant charging Costner with the kidnaping of Factor was issued by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Felony court, the step being necessitated by the fact that Costner was not indicted previously.

Opening of the trial was delayed until tomorrow because Attorney Stewart is to appear today before the Supreme court in Springfield in another case.

Acting Gov. Donovan also honored a request in Springfield yesterday for the extradition of Edward [Father Tom] McFadden to Walworth county, Wisconsin, on a charge of possessing a machine gun. McFadden is being held here. He was one of the original defendants with Roger Touhy in the first Factor kidnaping trial, but was freed. The Wisconsin charge is based on his arrest with Touhy and others near Elkhorn last July 9.

New Stream Lined Train Inspected by President

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today inspected the new streamlined Union Pacific railroad train on exhibition here. The inspection was made with Carl Gray, president of the road. Mr. Roosevelt was accompanied by Secretary Morgenthau, Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, and Mrs. Anna Curtis Dall, the President's daughter. They remarked that no purchase was made.

Touhy Gangsters Claimed by Chicago Authorities

The case was dropped so that Chicago authorities might claim them for trial in the kidnaping of John Factor. Factor has identified them.

DILLINGER MEN MUTE IN FACING MURDER CHARGE

Pierpont, Clark Face Court in Ohio.

Lima, O., Feb. 15.—(AP)—While hidden machine gun nests kept guard, Harry Pierpont and Russell Clark, members of the notorious John Dillinger gang, were arraigned in court here today on charges of murdering Sheriff Jess Sarber.

When they refused to plead, Judge E. E. Everett entered pleas of not guilty for them and set March 6 for Pierpont's trial.

Two postponements, one as a strategic move of the state and one yesterday because defense counsel found a flaw in an indictment, placed the arraignment on today's calendar.

Now, however, there are two indictments against the prisoners.

Copeland May Plead Guilty.

Greencastle, Ind., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Arraignment of Harry Copeland, Dillinger gang member, on charges of robbing the Central National Bank of Greencastle, was continued today. A delay of approximately ten days was granted after Miss Bess Robbins, Indianapolis, his attorney, promised she would be ready within that time to "dispose speedily of the case without further expense to Putnam county taxpayers." This was taken to indicate a plea of guilty.

Mary Kinder Ordered Held.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Kinder, sweetheart of Harry Pierpont, gangster, went back to county jail today despite efforts of counsel to set her free.

Mrs. Kinder, who was captured with Pierpont, John Dillinger, and others of that gang of desperadoes in Tucson, Ariz., was charged with aiding them in escaping.

The original indictment was noll prossed by the prosecuting attorney. Then Judge Frank P. Baker, acting on his own motion, ordered her held on a $20,000 bond to await action of the grand jury.

Madelynn Obenchain's Kin Held for Attack with Knife

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Glenyse Barnes, 30, who told police she was a half sister of Madelynn Obenchain, on trial twice in connection with the Belton Kennedy murder here, was held today for asserted assault with a knife upon Edward C. Ahearn, her former husband. Ahearn said that they were married Nov. 7 last but the marriage was annulled by local courts because of a technicality.

BROKER'S FATHER SUES SANKEY, WHO ENDED OWN LIFE, FOR $10,000

Sioux Falls, S. D., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Claude K. Boettcher of Denver today sued the late Verne Sankey, the kidnaper who committed suicide in prison here last week, for $10,000. Sankey's gang kidnaped the Denver man's son for $60,000 ransom.

Boettcher's complaint set forth that Sankey owed him $50,000 and that this sum was "often demanded" of Sankey but never paid. He has already recovered $10,000 of the ransom money which was found on the Sankey ranch near Gann valley.

Documents filed today in the garnishment action to seize more than $3,000 which Sankey had when he was arrested in Chicago. The action also asks interest at the rate of six per cent from Feb. 12, 1933, when Charles Boettcher II. was kidnaped.

EXHUMING BODY OF HEART VICTIM; HINT AT MURDER

The body of Owen Henry, 35 years old, 2033 Osgood street, which was buried yesterday morning in Mount Carmel cemetery, will be exhumed today by orders of the state's attorney's office. Henry died Wednesday in the Alexian Brothers' hospital, supposedly of heart disease, but investigation has convinced the police that he may have been a victim of murder or manslaughter.

Capt. William Stapleton of the Hudson avenue station yesterday took into custody Thomas Bolger, 57 years old, owner of a saloon at 2108 Sheffield avenue, and his son, Thomas Jr., 25 year old. Reports had reached the police that the Bolgers had beaten Henry in a quarrel on the sidewalk near the saloon. Although they denied the charge, both were locked up pending reëxamination of the body.

Miss Delia Henry of St. Louis, a sister of the man who died, announced she would sign a complaint charging the father and son with murder if the autopsy indicated death was caused by beating.

TWIN CITIES NEED "CLEANING UP," SAYS CUMMINGS

Bremer Case Arouses Ire of Attorney General.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—St. Paul and Minneapolis were labeled tonight by Attorney General Cummings as two cities which needed "cleaning up."

The attorney general directed his castigation principally at St. Paul. Discussing the Bremer kidnaping case with reporters, he expressed disappointment that the family of the victim, Edwin G. Bremer, "had not given us better coöperation."

Asked if the police were fully coöperative with federal investigators, Cummings replied:

"There are segments of the police which have our confidence and segments which do not."

"Need Cleaning Up."

When questioned whether the lack of coöperation extended beyond police circles, Cummings rose to his feet and remarked:

"I will say this: If there are any two cities which need cleaning up they are St. Paul and Minneapolis."

St. Paul was the scene of the abductions of Haskell Bohn, William Hamm Jr., and, more recently, Edward G. Bremer.

Verne Sankey, who recently committed suicide at Sioux Falls, S. D., had confessed the Bohn kidnaping before he died; some of the members of the Touhy gang, now in the hands of the law for the John Factor kidnaping, were acquitted in the Hamm case, and the Bremer investigation is now on.

Officials' Ire Aroused.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Minnesota's sister cities stuck out their tongues at each other and at Washington today when Attorney General Cummings wagged a finger at police efficiency here as a result of the $200,000 Bremer kidnaping.

"There has never been a lack of coöperation between the federal and local police officials," asserted St. Paul's mayor, William Mahoney. "If the federal department of justice has any special knowledge of how to anticipate one of these kidnaping raids and how to capture the kidnapers it should employ such knowledge itself and communicate its wisdom to a victimized public," he said.

The Minneapolis chief of police voiced the years old animosity between Minneapolis' and St. Paul's civic consciousness when he objected vigorously to the attorney general's classification of Minneapolis with St. Paul.

GRUBER GIVES UP IN $600,000 CHAIN STORES SWINDLE

Ruse Brings About His Surrender.

Louis W. Gruber, who is accused of embezzling more than $600,000 from the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, which formerly employed him as a purchasing agent, surrendered at the sheriff's office late yesterday.

The surrender of Gruber, who had been sought by police since his indictment by the grand jury a week ago, was accomplished by a ruse of Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, who had temporarily detained Gruber's wife, Elizabeth, and his sister, Cecilia Gruber of Union City, Ia., for questioning. The wife was taken into custody on Wednesday when Gruber's safe in his home at 609 Stratford place was opened. The sister was seized early yesterday when she appeared at the home.

Ruse Brings Surrender.

Two lawyers, Charles M. McDonnell and Ward Swalwell, appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday and offered to surrender Gruber if the women were released. Mr. Brown, who had already released both women, told the lawyers to bring Gruber in and promised to release any one in custody at the time.

Although a $10,000 real estate bond had been scheduled and approved by the state's attorney's office, Gruber surrendered too late to have it approved by a court, so he went to the county jail for the night. The bond had, apparently, been posted by some professional bondsmen without Gruber's knowledge, for he said he knew nothing about it and expressed his contempt for "my so-called friends who wouldn't stand by me in this trouble."

Refuses to Discuss Case.

Gruber refused to discuss the case with Prosecutor Brown, and when asked where he had been merely replied that he had been out of town. The prosecutor said he did not believe this.

Securities, accounts and records indicating that Gruber lost $400,000 were found when the authorities opened his safe on Wednesday. Mr. Brown said he had discovered another depository which he would open today in the hope of finding further securities.

Operations Explained.

Gruber purchased large amounts of supplies for the A. & P. stores at prices which would enable them to undersell competitors and then sold them to his employers at higher prices through the use of dummy companies, according to the prosecutor.

When Gruber learned that his wife had been released he asked permission to call her on the telephone, but was not permitted to do so. He is 34 years old and a graduate of the University of Chicago.

BABY DIES OF BURNS.

PLAN TO UNIONIZE 15,000 IN CHICAGO CULINARY WORK

The first step in a campaign to unionize 15,000 unorganized culinary workers in the hotel and restaurant industry will be a meeting today at the Garrick theater at 2 p. m., where Edward Flore, president of the Hotel and Restaurant Employés International Alliance, and Robert B. Hesketh, general secretary, are scheduled to address the workers, according to Max Caldwell, business agent of the Waiters' Alliance.

"Of the 30,000 culinary workers in Chicago, 15,000 are organized, but some of these are working in large hotels under the "open shop," said Morris Cohn, secretary of the Waiters' Alliance.

While the International Alliance is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, another opposing group connected with the Amalgamated Hotel Workers, who tied up the New York hotels with a strike recently, are now trying also to sign up the unorganized culinary workers, an official of the Waiters' Alliance stated.

While some of the large loop hotels operate under the closed shop agreement with the Waiters' union, seven of them have the open shop.

SEXTON RULES CHICAGO HAS NO DRY TERRITORIES

Old Acts Voided by New Law, He Holds.

The city council was advised by Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton yesterday that there are no dry territories in Chicago. The state law relating to alcoholic liquors, approved by Gov. Horner on Jan. 31, completely revises all control legislation and limits the licensing powers of municipalities, in the opinion of the corporation counsel.

The ruling of Corporation Counsel Sexton and his assistant, Joseph F. Grossman, applies to the Northwestern university four mile limit zone as well as Hyde Park and other local option territories in the city which were dry in pre-prohibition days.

Sought Before Law's Adoption.

The opinion of the corporation counsel was requested before the enactment of the state control law because of the confusion in the minds of citizens in former dry territories.

Mayor Kelly said last night that he was certain the voters of these districts would have a chance to vote on the question of liquor sales before applications for licenses could be sufficiently investigated for approval. The first opportunity to determine whether the districts shall be wet or dry will come at the April primaries.

Sets Forth Old Rules.

Mr. Sexton's opinion states that prior to the adoption of the 18th amendment all the territory in the city was divided into four classes with respect to liquor sales: [1] That territory in which the sale was permitted under licenses issued pursuant to ordinances. [2] That territory where licensing was prohibited by local option. [3] Where licensing was prohibited by local ordinances remaining in effect after annexation to the city. [4] The territory within four miles of Northwestern university, where liquor sales were prohibited by an amendment to the university's charter.

Mr. Sexton held that the 18th amendment and the Illinois prohibition and search and seizure laws repealed, by implication, the local option law. The last act of the general assembly repealed all the other liquor laws and revised the licensing powers of the cities, the opinion says.

Revises Laws of State.

"That act is a complete revision of all the laws of the state relating to the powers of the city to license, regulate and prohibit the sale of alcoholic liquor, and . . . it impliedly repealed section 18 of the annexation law and all the prohibition ordinances of the city of Lake View, the village of Hyde Park, the town of Lake, and of other cities, villages, and incorporated towns which were effective prior to their annexation to the city of Chicago," says the opinion.

The opinion explains the provisions of the state law whereby the people of Hyde Park or any other district may become dry by precincts or groups of precincts. The question, to be submitted to the voters, must have the approval of 25 per cent of the voters in any district.

Amend Liquor Ordinance.

After the receipt of this opinion the council yesterday elected State Senator Harold G. Ward as the third member of the Chicago license appeal commission and amended the city liquor ordinance to require publication of the names and addresses of all applicants for licenses. The other members of the license appeal commission are Milton J. Foreman, minority member of the Illinois liquor control commission, and Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes. The city liquor commissioner is Mayor Kelly.

A full pardon for all persons serving prison terms for violation of the prohibition laws and the restoration of their citizenship rights was asked yesterday by Ald. John F. Healy [6th]. His resolution was referred by the city council to its committee on judiciary.

persons and the one before that 36. I counted them.

Q—Where do you entertain? A—At the Tavern club about once a month, and at the University club.

$90 for Suit of Clothes.

Q—Isn't it true that you pay $150 for a suit of clothes? A—No. I did once, but never again. I pay $90 for a suit now.

Q—You have your shoes made to order, don't you? A—Yes, at $35 a pair.

Q—Isn't it a fact you pay $45 a pair? A—No, they've come down. I rarely buy shoes now, I'm economizing. For two years I went without shoes. That is, I mean, I wore out my old ones.

Willett under questioning by Attorney Davis recalled that in September, 1932, at his son's suggestion, he had agreed to put his company stock, his salary and all his regular income into a trust fund, one-third to be paid to his wife, one-half to himself and one-sixth to his children [Howard Jr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Taylor III.], and that the income would be $23,000 annually for his wife. Willett pointed out, however, that that was when Mrs. Willett "wanted a divorce, not separate maintenance."

Annual Salary of $29,500.

He testified that his salary as president of the two companies, the Willett Motor Coach company and the Willett company, totaled $29,500 annually, a small decrease over that of the previous year. Asked if his stocks were not from 100 to 150 per cent higher than they were in September, 1932, he replied that they were.

To the question, "Did you lose any money in speculation?" Mr. Willett replied, "Plenty."

Attorney Davis questioned him in detail about his present quarters on the top floor of the 333 North Michigan avenue building, under the penthouse. He described the "dais" in his room on which a couch rests and from which the view is "one of the finest in Chicago."

Willett said the murals in his room were painted by Janet Busby, "a friend of my daughter." She is the daughter of the late Leonard Busby, traction magnate.

Mrs. Willett's Education.

Q.—Who is Clark Getz? A.—[In sprightly manner], O, I suppose you have that check for $350 there. Mr. Getz is an agent. And that check was for what you might call my education. You see, Mr. Getz is an agent for lecturers, and he was much interested in my lectures on homes and gardens. He represented the Home Life Rebuilding program conducted by women's clubs, and thought that other women would be interested in my telling them how to transform their houses and gardens for the benefit of their husbands and children. But it was disastrous.

Q.—What do you mean? A.—It was a complete failure, Mr. Reeve. It cost me $350, and he booked me for only one lecture.

Q.—Who's Ray? A.—He's the boy who took care of the incinerator. You see, on account of the garden the incinerator couldn't be burned all the time. I had to pay extra for having it turned off.

Q.—Who is Ella Peel? A.—She waves my hair and does my fingernails once a week.

Q.—And here's an item for a press clipping bureau. What was that? A. [smilingly unperturbed]—That, Mr. Reeve, was for the clippings from the newspapers containing all the dreadful things appearing about me——

A Friend Keeps Them.

Q.—You collect those? A.—Yes, I have them in a book a friend is keeping for me—there are also clippings on my daughter, and on Mr. Willett.

ATTORNEY REEVE [in a rasping voice]—He's only in the papers in connection with litigation, isn't he? A.—And when he talks on business——

Q.—O, does he lecture, too? A.—Yes, beautifully, Mr. Reeve.

Q.—Well, eliminating attorneys' fees and checks you sent your family, and the $250 you said you used to send Mrs. Byrd Smith on a vacation——[Mrs. Smith, an Evanston psychiatrist, has been mentioned as a possible witness in Mrs. Willett's alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Hall.]

MRS. WILLETT—Yes, I felt that I was obligated to send her, when her health was being ruined by detectives——

ATTORNEY REEVE—Yes. Well, eliminating all those things and the upkeep of the garden, you have lived actually on the $918 a month your husband has allowed you the last year, haven't you? A.—No, I can't agree with you there.

The hearing was adjourned to 2:30 o'clock next Wednesday, when Attorney Davis will continue questioning Willett.

A "Clumsy Dancer"

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—It's cruelty when a husband tells a motion picture beauty her feet are big and she's a clumsy dancer, according to divorce testimony by Sheila Terry, which won her a decree from Maj. Laurence B. Clark, ex-New York banker, today. They were married Aug. 16, 1928 and separated Aug. 15, 1930 and he didn't support her, the actress testified.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Pat Patterson, 22, English actress, and Charles Boyer, 34, French movie star, who met for the first time at Fox studio here a month ago motored to Yuma, Ariz., yesterday and were married, the couple declared. The ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace. Both recently came here from abroad to carry out screen contracts.

HOSPITAL HELD UP BY GANG OF HOTEL ROBBERS

Three gunmen who robbed the Pearson hotel on Tuesday afternoon appeared at the offices of the North Chicago hospital, 2551 North Clark street yesterday. Threatening the switchboard operator, Loretta Walker, they ordered her to take them to the office, where the hospital pay roll is kept. Miss Walker convinced the men that the pay roll had not arrived and they fled after taking $18 from the cash drawer and a watch from Michael Jacobson, a druggist, who has a pharmacy in the lobby.

Dr. Harold Miller, staff surgeon in the hospital, followed the gunmen to the street, where they departed. He saw them jump into an automobile in which a fourth man was at the wheel. As they drove off the driver scraped his fender against a street car. Three of the men jumped out and fled on foot, but the driver extricated his machine and drove away.

The police traced the license number on the automobile and discovered that it was the same as that used by the Pearson hotel bandits.

CHICAGO YOUTH ON DERING YACHT IS LOST AT SEA

26 Are Saved on Greatly Damaged Craft.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Badly battered fore and aft by high seas and terrific wind, the auxiliary yacht Uvira, with 25 adventuresome men and women on board, arrived here this afternoon in tow of the coast guard cutter Pontchartrain.

Jackson K. Dering, Chicago, part owner of the boat and leader of a proposed expedition into Central America, reported the loss of Hubert Kuechenmeister, 21, who resided with his parents at 4838 Cullom avenue, Chicago. He said the youth was washed overboard last Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock while the Uvira was battling a northwest gale and seas were breaking all over the vessel. Kuechenmeister was a freshman at the University of Chicago. Kuechenmeister was trying to lash down a sail when a heavy sea knocked him against a lifeboat," Dering said. "Then another sea picked him up and rolled him over the lifeboat and into the sea. We threw him a life belt and we saw him grab it. He could not hold on. Then we threw chairs overboard, hoping he would be able to hold on until we could pull him back on the boat.

Three Hour Attempt Fails.

"All this time we were trying to bring the yacht closer to the man in the water. The sails were flopping and tearing all around us. We tried for about three hours to rescue him. Then he disappeared.

"The hatches were in bad shape. I did not know that when we sailed last Friday from Brooklyn. When the seas broke over the ship the water poured down into the cabin through the leaking hatches. Everything got wet below and at one time there was two feet of water below our decks. All of it came through the hatches. The vessel's hull was not leaking."

Mrs. Dering, who was among five passengers on the boat, said she had not had any sleep since last Monday.

"The storm struck about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning," she said. "It had been blowing all day Monday, but the boat seemed to be making good time. Suddenly there was a heavy crash upon deck and my husband and the crew rushed up to see what was wrong. They said a boom had broken. After that the ship pitched and rolled and water poured down on us."

Young Woman Ill.

Miss Margaret Howse of Chicago, another passenger, said she was badly frightened, but did not get ill until after the Pontchartrain had picked up the yacht.

She said she and Mrs. Dering would proceed to Miami by rail or plane and she was not certain she would continue the cruise. The Uvira is supposed to stop at Miami to pick up Howard Kresge, son of the chain store king, who is to accompany the expedition.

Robert Kuechenmeister, brother of Hubert, who lost his life, and Nicholas di Napoli, a photographer, said they would quit the expedition at Norfolk. Kuechenmeister said his father is an electrical contractor in Chicago and that he and his brother Hubert had volunteered to make the cruise so as to keep the electrical equipment on the yacht in good condition.

"I have not wired my mother about Hubert and I hate to send her a message," he said. "She did not want us to go on the cruise. And now that Hubert is not coming back, it is hard for me to tell her about the affair."

BANKER'S WIFE, WED 43 YEARS, ASKS A DIVORCE

Accuses Husband, 64, of Infidelity.

After forty-three years of wedded life Mrs. Julia C. Windsor yesterday filed in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva a suit for divorce from Herbert Windsor, president of the Batavia National bank. Mr. Windsor is 64 years old and his wife is 61.

Unfaithfulness was the ground alleged against Mr. Windsor. One "Jessie Doe" of Aurora was named in Mrs. Windsor's bill as co-respondent and the bill related that she had "by her hypnotic and unwomanly but effective female attractions caused the defendant Windsor to abandon the plaintiff." Specifically it was asserted in the bill that Jessie Doe and the banker occupied nearby rooms in the same hotel in Aurora and also associated in public places both in Aurora and Chicago.

Banker Away from Home.

Mr. Windsor is now absent from his home in Batavia and his wife declared in her bill that she had reason to believe he intended to establish a residence elsewhere and sue her for divorce. She asked and was granted by Judge Frank Shepherd an injunction restraining her husband from instituting such a suit anywhere but in Kane county.

The wife's bill demanded that the banker make an accounting of $200,000 which she had inherited and which was placed years ago in his hands for management.

Emil Benson, attorney for Mr. Windsor, said his client was traveling in the southwest, but had only gone away for a rest and was expected back in a short time. His departure about a month ago, the attorney averred, had nothing to do with any contemplated divorce action.

Trip for Health, Lawyer Says.

"He went away because his friends had urged him to do so for the benefit of his health," Mr. Benson said.

There was no public hint of the identity of Jessie Doe, although some friends of the Windsors professed to know who she is.

The Windsor family has been prominent in the Fox river valley for several generations. Their former home, a great stone mansion between Batavia and Geneva, is one of the show places of the valley. It was sold several years ago to Ernest Cowalt, wealthy lotion manufacturer.

Mr. and Mrs. Windsor have a son, Lawrence; a daughter, Mrs. A. W. Hobler, and four grandchildren.

KENNETH ROUSE, FOOTBALL STAR, IS OUT FOR SHERIFF

Kenneth Allen Rouse, former football star at the University of Chicago, was announced yesterday by the Newton Jenkins Republican group as its candidate for nomination for sheriff. He is only 28 years old.

Rouse was captain of the Chicago team in 1927 and that year won the silver football trophy awarded by THE TRIBUNE to the most valuable player in the Big Ten conference. He is now assistant to the secretary of the university.

Even in his undergraduate days, Rouse had determined on a career in police work. He took a graduate course under Chief August Vollmer of Berkeley, Cal., and did research work in Illinois penitentiaries. In 1932 he took the Chicago police examination simply as a test and won third place on the eligibility list. He declined appointment to the force.

ETTELSON GRILLS UTILITY COUNSEL AT INSULL QUIZ

Conducts Extraordinary Cross-Examination.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, striving to overthrow the receivership of the Middle West Utilities company as collusive, yesterday conducted one of the most extraordinary cross-examinations ever heard in federal court. It was at the Insull "town meeting" in progress before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. Bruce Johnstone, co-counsel for the Middle West receiver, was on the stand.

With no serious remonstrance from the judge or assembled counsel, Ettelson explored Johnstone's history from the day of his birth, through kindergarten, grammar school, high school, night law school, a clerkship and eventual admission to the bar. He tested the memory of the witness with questions about the number of students in his classes forty years ago, and they sparred over whether a kindergarten could be called a school.

Knowledge of Diversions.

One significant point developed during the afternoon was that Samuel Insull's bankers had knowledge of "corporate diversions" in Middle West at least six weeks before the company plunged into receivership, and that the bankers were prepared for immediate receivership at that time. The receivership occurred April 16, 1932.

Another was Johnstone's admission that immediately after he agreed to become counsel in the case here he went ahead to prepare bills for ancillary receiverships in New York and Delaware, this before his appointment was confirmed. Judge Lindley commented that such action might be "subject to criticism," but permitted the attorney to explain. Such haste was essential, the lawyer said, "if hostile receiverships were to be prevented and the properties held together under the friendly receivership contemplated."

Is Visited by Banker.

Mr. Johnstone testified that on the preceding Feb. 29, Edward Eagle Brown, vice president of the First National bank, went to Johnstone's home, 5305 Greenwood avenue, and asked if he would consent to serve as co-receiver of Middle West with Samuel Insull. Mr. Brown mentioned "corporate diversions" at the time, the witness said.

Q.—Did he say what the corporate diversions were? A.—No, he did not.

Q.—Did he say they were made by Insull? A.—I presumed they were made under control of Samuel Insull Sr.

Q.—Did he say they were irregular and improper? A.—I did not know much about it, but I would say yes.

The next day, Johnstone said, he meditated whether to become co-receiver, but the following day dismissed the matter from his mind when Mr. Brown notified him there would be no receivership. He thought no more about it, he added, until the week of April 11, when Mr. Brown advised him a receivership was imminent and asked his firm to serve as co-counsel.

Lawyers on the Alert.

During this questioning the score of lawyers in court were alert. It was the earlier line of examination which gave the proceedings an extraordinary aspect and provoked Mr Ettelson, himself, to remark that one of his adversaries was "falling asleep." The questioning:

Q.—Where were you born? A.—St. Paul, Min.

Q.—Where did you go to school? A.—Well, I went to kindergarten in St. Paul.

Q.—Would you call that a school? A.—Well, I might call it that, I don't know.

Q.—Would you or wouldn't you?

The judge broke in good naturedly to observe that he had a boy in kindergarten and wasn't quite sure whether that might be designated a school or not.

"Is that the boy who was in court here this morning?" Ettelson inquired. "If it was, I want him back here this afternoon. He'll have a chance to learn some law."

They Exchange Smiles.

He and judge exchanged smiles and the questioning of the witness was resumed.

Q.—Where did you go to school after that? A.—At the so-called Oakland school in Chicago.

Q.—What do you mean—so-called? Do grammar schools have names or so-called names? A.—I don't just remember whether a name was chiseled on the door. I know it was called the Oakland school.

The witness was restraining his temper with difficulty. He got a moment's respite as Ettelson's sharp eye caught his present adversary and former law partner, Charles Weinfeld, leaning back with folded arms and eyes closed in an attitude of boredom.

"How does your honor feel about some one sleeping in the courtroom?" Ettelson demanded, striding before the bar. Weinfeld opened his eyes.

"Why, I hadn't noticed any one sleeping," the judge observed. "If there were, maybe it was some jobless man who had no place else to go and came into court for refuge."

Returns to His Witness.

Ettelson tartly observed he was referring to opposing counsel. He returned to prodding the witness.

"May I call you Bruce?" he demanded suddenly. The witness replied that in accordance with the practice and ethics of his profession, he preferred to be called Mr. Johnstone.

"What is your name—legally?" The witness said he had been christened Frederick Bruce Johnstone, but had dropped the first name ten years ago.

"Take a hypothetical case," Ettelson commanded, "and no offense intended. Suppose a man named Bruce Johnstone had been indicted, let's say, as William Bruce Johnstone, would that indictment apply to Bruce Johnstone? Do you know anything about criminal law?"

The witness admitted having scant knowledge of criminal practice. Ettelson passed on to Johnstone's attendance at the Chicago College of Law, whether the building faced east or west, what salary he first drew as a clerk for the Chicago Title and Trust company, and whether he knew his later legal acquaintance, Julius Moses, could command a fee of $1,000 a day.

Q.—Did you know Hugo Pam? [alluding to a former judge]? A.—I did, yes.

Q.—Did you know him as a lawyer of great ability and a judge of integrity? A.—Yes, I think I did.

Q.—Do you think so or do you know so? A.—I think I would say I know so.

Q.—Do you make a distinction between thinking so and knowing so? A.—No sir.

Q.—You think comparisons are odious? A.—Not necessarily.

At this point Attorney Frederic Burnham of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt made the first serious objection so far interposed. His chief, Isaac Mayer, who had been kept in court by subpoena throughout the morning, had earlier been excused. Another subpoenaed witness, Charles A. McCulloch, receiver for Middle West, who wished to leave to sign the Middle West pay roll, was also permitted to go. Ettelson stipulated, however, that he must remain subject to thirty minutes' call.

Denies Bank Influence.

At the morning session Robert Stevenson, investment banker and secretary of a committee representing fifty per cent of Middle West preferred stock, took the stand to deny that any American banks had influence over his group. He said he had agreed to form the committee at the suggestion of a Mr. Hely-Hutchinson, agent for Robert Fleming & Co., London bankers, and of a New York attorney for Adolph Boissevain, a banker of Amsterdam, Holland. These foreign interests have deposited with his committee, he said, but the Chicago banks to date have not.

Greek Government Decides Not to Expel Samuel Insull

ATHENS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Samuel Insull will remain in Greece indefinitely.

This was decided by the cabinet after a two-hour meeting today when the 74 year old fugitive from American justice, termed a "very sick man," was given permission to stay here until his health improves.

It was an important victory for the former utilities magnate who is wanted in Chicago on charges growing out of the collapse of companies he headed.

"Man Without Country."

His American passport had expired and his permit to continue sojourning here had not been renewed. It seemed he would have to leave Greece as a "man without a country." Today's action by the cabinet, announced by Premier Tsaldaris, gives him the right to retain his temporary residence here indefinitely.

However, he faces, some time in the future, another official health examination, and may, some persons believe, have to remain in bed to avoid the possibility of expulsion from Greece.

Says Fugitive Is "Dying."

P. Rhallis, his lawyer, said "it is impossible to imagine Mr. Insull traveling. He is practically dying as it is."

Twice the aged fugitive was victorious in Greek courts when the United States government sought to extradite him. Later an official medical examination was ordered, and he was declared fit to travel. He then was ordered to leave Greece by Jan. 31. He appealed on the grounds of illness and his appeal apparently has been granted.

STRIKE OF WAITERS IN NEW YORK HOTELS IS SETTLED BY NRA

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The strike of waiters, bus boys, chefs, and other employés of New York City hotels, which went into effect on the evening of Jan. 26, has been settled, Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, acting chairman of the NRA regional labor board, announced this afternoon.

The terms on which the strike was ended were:

1. That the strike be called off immediately by the union, and that all picketing of hotels and other strike activities cease.

2. That the hotels reëmploy their former workers, as far as conditions permit, in the place of those hired since the strike, and that they give former employés preference in filling future vacancies.

Maj. Woods Is Fined for Breaking Police Windows

Maj. Frank O. Woods, Illinois National Guard officer, was fined $15 by Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief. Maj. Woods was arrested Feb. 3, by Lincoln Park police after he had driven past a stop light. At the Lincoln park station he broke the windows and kicked out a glass door of the detention room. Maj. Woods told Judge Hartigan that he had objected to his treatment by the police.

G. O. P. ROBINSON SAYS ROOSEVELT TRIES TO GAG U. S.

Arkansas Robinson Calls It Political Talk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—What the senate has come to know as "the battle of the Robinsons" exploded noisily in the senate chamber's august precincts today as Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic senate leader, and Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Indiana Republican, jumped from a squabble over the air mail controversy into a knockdown and drag out verbal battle over the New Deal and war debts.

It was the Republican Senator Robinson's appeal, "Let us be fair," during the air mail argument, that set Democratic Senator Robinson to steaming and led from there into charges and denials of "gag" rule by President Roosevelt.

Raises Question of Fairness.

"I do not know of a senator whose course in debate here less fits him for an appeal to fairness than the senator from Indiana," shouted Democratic Robinson, and the fight was on.

"If there is one man on the floor of the senate who should never talk about fairness, it is the senator from Arkansas," shouted Indiana's Robinson. "Constantly he interrupts everybody who attempts to debate a question."

Democratic Robinson had about cooled off and was ready to be genial about it, but he couldn't stand the Hoosier's jibes any longer. He tried unsuccessfully to break in.

Insists He Won't Be Bulldozed.

"He may bulldoze senators on the other side," shouted Indiana's Robinson, "but he can't bulldoze me."

"I wouldn't think it worth while to try," sniffed Arkansas Robinson.

"He tried it, until he found it didn't work," Indiana Robinson vociferated. "I represent one of the sovereign states of this Union and so long as I have my commission to sit here I propose to speak my mind. The senator from Arkansas cannot gag me, nor can the President of the United States, though they have succeeded in gagging the other house at the other end of the capitol."

"Does the senator imagine that either the President or I have attempted to gag him?" he inquired.

Charges Effort to Gag Country.

"This administration has attempted to gag the country," yelled the senator from Indiana. "There is no question about it and the country is terrified at this moment. Does the senator from Arkansas not understand that people over this nation, all over the country, are utterly alarmed about the direction in which we are going, with a 32 billion dollar national indebtedness staring us in the face within the next year, and no suggestion from the other end of Pennsylvania avenue as to how that enormous indebtedness is to be paid?"

"Does he not know that the average man can see no other method of paying it except by printing press money? Does he not know that the whole country has been gagged? Does he not know that the house at the other end of the capitol has been gagged to such an extent that they can not represent their constituents back home as free men?"

Democratic Leader Replies.

"I will answer the senator," he barked. "I believe that the country has more confidence in Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, than it has in any other one man, or in any other one group of men, in the United States, and I do not believe that the people are alarmed at the course that is being taken by the President.

"I will answer another of the senator's questions. I do not believe that the President has gagged or attempted to gag any one, nor do I believe that the senator from Indiana, can justify his assertion that I have attempted to gag him. He has made more bad speeches in this chamber than all the other senators of the United States combined."

Gallery Laughs at Indianan.

Senator Robinson of Indiana weathered the laughter from the galleries and then really got mad. If the Democratic leader was so liberal, how about bringing out and passing the resolution that he (Robinson of Indiana) had introduced asking the President, if not incompatible with public welfare, to explain whether any representations concerning revision or token payments had been made to the European debtor nations.

It was a resolution seeking to transgress the powers of the executive, Arkansas' Robinson replied; besides that, the motive behind it was almost wholly political.

"The money is the people's money," asserted Indiana's Robinson. "It's not the President's. It's true we have just given the secretary of the treasury two billion dollars to sit in on an international poker game. But is that any reason why we should not ask the President what arrangements he has made, if any, about the cancellation or reduction of the eleven or twelve billion dollars of indebtedness due this country from foreign nations?"

Calls It Sniping at President.

Robinson of Indiana accused the President of "sniping" at congress.

"If we were in a place where we could say exactly what we think without being amenable to some form of process, perhaps we could express ourselves more accurately than we are permitted to do under existing circumstances," remarked Democratic Robinson.

"However, I am saying to the senator from Indiana that I think I know what would be in the mind of any one if he were not proceeding in the senate and had in mind the resolution which the senator from Indiana has submitted. I think it would be in mind to try to capitalize the unpopularity of proposals for the reduction of debts in a political way. I think it would be in mind to embarrass the executive who happens to be of another political party. Far be it from me in the senate of the United States where its rules apply from intimating that either the senator from Indiana or I will be influenced any under circumstances by gross political considerations."

"Would it be in order," inquired Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.], "that I move a vote of confidence in both the senator from Arkansas and the senator from Indiana?"

"I should object to that for two reasons," quoth Democratic Robinson of Arkansas. "Neither the senator from Indiana nor the senator from Arkansas wish such a motion from the senator from Louisiana."

TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED OF FURS.

Three hi-jackers yesterday kidnaped William Metzky, a truck driver for the Joseph Metzky company, furriers at 190 North State street, and robbed him of a cargo of furs valued at $2,222. The stickup occurred at Division street and Damen avenue.

PUBLICITY ON INCOMES ENLIVENS DEBATE ON NEW TAX MEASURE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Tax exempt securities and failure of the tax bill to provide for publicity on all income tax returns featured the second day of debate in the house today. About 11 hours of debate remain before the measure is voted upon and it is now certain that the $258,000,000 measure will not be approved before next week.

Legislation imposing penalties on tax-exempt securities, in view of statements by responsible members of the committee and reports circulated about the capitol today, will not be attempted during the present session.

Representative Patman of Texas objected to the failure of the committee to authorize publicity for income returns, saying that "we have got to quit conducting the business of the government in secret." As matters now stand, he said, the people don't know if the treasury department is collecting income taxes legally, or whether it is making refunds in a legal manner.

There were several reasons why publicity would be dangerous, Representative Treadway of Massachusetts said in reply. It would reveal the secrets of business, result in a veritable harvest of so-called tax experts and lawyers who would profess to help the taxpayer save money, and would offer a great possibility of blackmail, he said.

LOUISE LAROCHE GIVEN DIVORCE IN CARSON CITY

Carson City, Nev., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Louise Rehm LaRoche, daughter of the late Frank A. Rehm, Chicago capitalist who committed suicide in February, 1932, obtained a divorce from Emanuel LaRoche of Berne, Switzerland, in a secret hearing here on Tuesday, it was learned today. Mrs. LaRoche, it was learned, charged cruelty and alleged incompatibility. It is reported that she obtained custody of her two children. The couple married in Paris in 1928, the ceremony being one of the events of that social season. LaRoche is well known in the cosmopolitan set in Paris by the nick name of Manon.

FIND BODY OF SLAIN BABY.

JURY CONTINUES QUIZ IN DEATHS OF 2 FROM FUMES

Police Get Jensen Inquiry; Insurance Cited.

Unable, after hearing considerable testimony, to determine whether the deaths of Mrs. Evelyn Jensen, 26 years old, and Edward Muehlenbeck, 29, 3607 North St. Louis avenue, were accidental, a coroner's jury yesterday continued its investigation indefinitly to allow police sufficient time to conduct a further inquiry.

Muehlenbeck and Mrs. Jensen, wife of Harry Jensen, former member of the state pardon board and former labor chief, were overcome by fumes in the Jensen home at 5523 Melrose street on Feb. 2. Muehlenbeck, a vacuum cleaner salesman, died in the house. Mrs. Jensen died two days later.

Husband Misses Inquest.

Jensen, who was expected to be a principal witness at the inquest, did not appear. According to Deputy Coroner Emil Selten, Jensen had telephoned the coroner's office early in the day to say he could not attend the inquest on account of business engagements. The coroner's jury, it was said, was unwilling to return a verdict without first hearing his testimony.

Among the important witnesses were Sergt. James Shay; Mrs. Julia Gunderson, 2110 Laporte avenue, mother of Mrs. Jensen, and Oran Edlund, 5124 Nelson street, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Jensen.

Sergt. Shay, one of the first policemen to arrive at the Jensen home after the tragedy was discovered, testified that Jensen had told him that he had left his wife and Muehlenbeck in the house at 11 o'clock in the morning, and that he had found one dead and the other unconscious on his return home at 5:30 that evening.

Family Rift Revealed.

After police had, in further testimony, stated that Jensen was more than twice as old as his wife, Mrs. Gunderson, her mother, was called.

"Mr. Jensen and I are not on speaking terms," said Mrs. Gunderson. "I had always opposed his marriage to my daughter. Jensen is a very jealous man. They went together three years and there was trouble over other men before she married him. Once, before they were married, my daughter went out riding in a car with another man and Jensen chased them, forcing my daughter's car into a tree and causing her to receive injuries."

Then Mrs. Gunderson testified that she had once held an $800 double indemnity insurance policy on her daughter's life, and had turned it over to Jensen last December at her daughter's request. This provided that he would receive $1,600 in event of his wife's death by accident, Mrs. Gunderson said.

Brother-in-Law Testifies.

Edlund, Mrs. Jensen's brother-in-law, testified next. He said he was called to the Jensen home at 7:30 the night Mrs. Jensen and Muehlenbeck were found overcome.

"I went upstairs to where Mrs. Jensen was gasping for breath in bed," testified Edlund. "Her color was bad. I wanted to call a doctor. Harry said she didn't need a doctor, and went downstairs to water some plants in the basement. I called the doctor and the doctor ordered Mrs. Jensen to the hospital."

Much of the remainder of the testimony concerned the heating apparatus in the Jensen home. The furnace is heated by gas. E. G. Dieterling, a heating expert, testified he found the furnace in good shape "but somewhat old." Mark Hurley, a city boiler inspector, testified that tests he made showed that fumes came into the house when the wind was strong from the southwest.

$50,000 Left to Mexican University by D.W.Morrow

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Announcement that the late Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico and father-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, had created a $50,000 trust fund for the University of Mexico was made today by J. P. Morgan & Co.

WOMAN BLEEDING FOR 8 DAYS FROM STRANGE MALADY

13 Transfusions Made in Effort to Save Life.

Eight days ago Miss Gertrude Siers, 30 years old, began to bleed at the nose while suffering from what appeared to be an ordinary cold. Within two days the bleeding spread to her mouth, her ears, and her eyes, and it has continued since then despite the efforts of physicians at the Holy Cross hospital, where she was taken for treatment.

Dr. Charles McKenna, who is Miss Siers' physician, said that she is suffering from a strange malady of the blood stream—thrombo cytopenic purpura—the cause of which is unknown. Since she has been at the hospital it is estimated that she has lost nearly nine quarts of blood. She has been kept alive by thirteen blood transfusions, by means of which nearly ten quarts of new blood has been injected into her veins.

Deficiency of Platelets.

According to Dr. McKenna, the bleeding takes place through the walls of the more fragile blood vessels, because of a deficiency of platelets in the blood stream.

The platelets are tiny ovals or disks of protoplasm, less than one-third the size of the red corpuscles, which have the property of causing corpuscles to coagulate at points where the blood vessels are punctured. When present in a normal quantity they also cause even the most fragile veins, arteries, or capillaries—when unbroken—to become impenetrable for corpuscles.

A normal count of platelets in a cubic centimeter of healthy blood is 250,000. In Miss Siers' blood the count yesterday was 30,000 to 40,000.

The doctor explained that the only known treatment is transfusion, on the thory that healthy blood will build up the platelet count in the patient's blood. The disease has no relationship to hemophilia, a malady which causes its victims to bleed freely from trivial injuries.

Miss Siers is a telephone operator. She lives at 6333 South California avenue. She became ill on Feb. 5. The bleeding began on Feb. 7.

Body Turns Blue.

After the bleeding became pronounced her body became black and blue. There are deep purple rings around her eyes from the blood which constantly seaps from the lids. She has lost fifteen pounds in weight, and until yesterday was unable to take solid food. Her doctor asserted that her platelet count is apparently increasing and he considers her ability to take solid food a favorable sign.

Miss Siers' sweetheart, Edward Broze, 6015 South Fairfield avenue, has provided blood for several of the transfusions.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

NICE, France, Feb. 15.—"Mr. G," Sweden's tennis playing king, who, despite the fact that he is over 70 years old, has entered tournament play again this year, has declared against shorts for women in selecting his partners for mixed doubles.

Most of the leading women players are wearing shorts, but King Gustaf this week in Nice chose Mary Roderick, British player, who wears skirts and for the Beaulieu tournament Joan Ridley, another skirted player.

In his selections he overlooked some of the best women players, such as Mrs. Dorothy Burke, Mrs. Satterthwaite, and Muriel Thomas, who must renounce shorts if they would win the king's approval on the courts.

RUSSIA ARRESTS 2 MORE ALIENS FOR ESPIONAGE

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Two more foreigners, a Greek and a Latvian, have been arrested in soviet Russia's latest spy case. Eleven persons are now held incommunicado on serious charges, the nature of which has not been revealed but which are reported to involve economic espionage.

The case is that of employés of the Controll company, a branch of the Societé Generale des Surveillances, Ltd., of Geneva, an international organization which certifies exports from principal ports of the world.

Persons close to the situation believe it may rival in sensation the celebrated British Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical company affair which resulted in the conviction and subsequent release of two British engineers, charged with espionage.

FUNERAL RITES TOMORROW FOR MELVIN TRAYLOR

Noted Send Condolences to Widow.

Funeral services for Melvin A. Traylor, financier and a figure in national Democratic politics, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Fourth Presbyterian church, Michigan avenue and Delaware place. After the services the body will be placed in a vault at Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Traylor, who was born in a Kentucky log cabin and rose to the presidency of the First National bank of Chicago, died Wednesday night in his home at 426 Barry avenue. He was 55 years old.

The end came suddenly after Mr. Traylor had waged a valiant battle of 35 days against the Friedlander bacillus type of pneumonia. His determination to live, coupled with the efforts of attending physicians, was credited yesterday for delaying death, which usually comes within a few days with this type of disease.

Friends Call at Home.

The body lay in the Traylor home yesterday as friends and business associates called to offer sympathy to the widow, Mrs. Dorothy Traylor; her son, Melvin Jr., and her daughter, Nancy. Representatives of the family said that friends might call at the home until the body was removed for the funeral.

Telegrams of condolence poured into the home and the bank office yesterday. Signatures of the senders indicated the wide range covered by the friendships of Mr. Traylor. Among them was James A. Farley, postmaster general and Democratic national chairman.

Despite the requests of members of the family that no one send flowers the room in which the coffin rested was filled with flowers early yesterday afternoon. Simple church services are planned by the family. The Rev. Thomas Anderson, pastor of the Wellington Avenue Congregational church will officiate.

Bankers to be Pallbearers.

Eight vice presidents of the First National bank were chosen as active pallbearers. They are Harold V. Amberg, Edward Eagle Brown, James B. Forgan Jr., Frank M. Gordon, James B. Kaine, Bentley G. McCloud, John P. Oleson, and Roy C. Osgood.

There will be no honorary pall bearers, as had been planned earlier. According to Col. Kaine, a close friend of the family, who is to be an active pall bearer, Mrs. Traylor desires that the funeral services be simple.

Leaders Mourn Traylor's Death as Loss to Nation

The versatility, the high good humor and friendliness of Melvin A. Traylor were lauded yesterday in hundreds of messages of sympathy on his death that were received at the Traylor home at 426 Barry avenue.

In phraseology the tributes nearly all went beyond the terms of mere formality and expressions of the loss the banking world and Chicago would feel at Mr. Traylor's passing. They tended rather to stress his warm human qualities and the feelings of personal sorrow felt by the writers.

From Gov. Horner.

"I am shocked at the death of Melvin Traylor," said Gov. Henry Horner, now on vacation at Phoenix, Ariz. "He knew how to combine kindness, thoughtfulness, good humor with courage, strength, and fighting spirit. All of the countless trusts that were given him were discharged completely and faithfully. He was my friend, he had my unlimited confidence, and he understood fully all the duties of citizenship and friendship."

In similar vein Postmaster General Farley pointed to Mr. Traylor's "high sense of honor, long revered in American banking circles," and called attention to his services in organizing the bank for international settlements in Switzerland.

"Chicago has lost its most distinguished citizen," asserted Walter J. Cummings, new chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National bank. "He was a beloved character with a host of friends."

James R. Leavell, president of the Continental, said that the world had lost a man "who contributed much in thought and action to bring about more orderly conditions" in finance, and added that "we have all lost a dearly loved friend."

Friend of His Workers.

A tribute on behalf of those who had worked with Mr. Traylor was expressed by Edward Eagle Brown, vice president of the First National bank.

"He was a devoted and sympathetic friend of every man and woman who worked under him," said Mr. Brown.

Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, of which Mr. Traylor was a trustee, stated:

"His most striking characteristic was his catholicity of interests. He seemed to be interested in everything that promoted human welfare. In his passing a dark shadow has fallen over many households."

Send Condolences to Home.

Among those who forwarded their condolences to the Traylor home were Albert D. Lasker, now in Miami; Albert W. Harris, now in Pasadena; F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central railroad; Gov. E. R. Black of the federal reserve board, Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, M. S. Szymczak of the federal reserve board, former Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, Maurice L. Rothschild, clothing merchant; Gerard Swope, president, and Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company.

Others expressing sympathy were D. F. Kelly, City Controler Robert B. Upham, Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to former President Wilson; former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, and Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The city council, in a resolution, lauded Mr. Traylor's contributions to the social, civic, and commercial upbuilding of Chicago and the trust division of the American Bankers' association referred to him as "a bright spirit and one of the most charming personalities that has ever graced the profession of banking." The Chicago Crime commission, of which he was treasurer, and the state senate of Texas, in which state he started his banking career, formulated resolutions of sympathy.

BURGLARS BLIND WOMAN; ROB HER FOR FIFTH TIME

Seventeen years ago, Mrs. Rose McGarity, 7734 Constance avenue, was beaten by a burglar who invaded her home. A blow on the head severed an optic nerve and blinded her for life. Yesterday Mrs. McGarity told Grand Crossing police that her home had been burglarized for the fifth time and $3,000 in valuables taken.

"Everything I owned has been taken," she said. "I don't know why they pick on me unless it is because I am blind. But I'm sleeping with a revolver under my pillow, and I'll get one of them yet."

Mrs. McGarity said the invaders took watches, jewels, wine, and cash after ransacking the house. Mrs. McGarity was at church at the time. Her husband, Daniel J. McGarity, was away on a business trip.

SIXTY DOG TEAMS RACE IN BLIZZARD TO SAVE 100 ON ICE

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Sixty dog teams carrying supplies and clothing were racing through an arctic blizzard tonight to rescue nearly 100 members of Prof. Otto Schmidt's arctic expedition, stranded for the last two days on the ice in Bering strait.

The dog teams departed from North cape today while airplanes were awaiting abating of the blizzard to take off for the spot where the expedition's vessel, the Cheliuskin, sank in an ice jam Tuesday night.

A Moscow commission appointed to direct rescue of the party, which includes women and an infant born only a few days ago, added that all radio stations in the Siberian arctic had been ordered to maintain continuous communication with the survivors.

DIETERICH TELLS WHY ILLINOIS OPPOSES SEAWAY

Answers Chicago Critic of Stand on Treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—A detailed and documented exposition of Illinois' opposition to ratification of the pending St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada was made before the senate today by Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.].

The Illinois senator made his speech a vigorous answer to a recent telegram sent to members of the senate in which Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, declared that the opposition of Illinois' senators to the treaty failed to reflect the large body of public opinion in Chicago and downstate Illinois.

Lists Opposition to Treaty.

On the contrary, Senator Dieterich declared, the opposition to the treaty of himself and Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, was supported and had been encouraged by Gov. Henry Horner, by the Illinois general assembly, by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, and by the Chicago city council.

Then he produced a telegram from the governor, a joint resolution by the Illinois legislature, a letter from Mayor Kelly, and a resolution by the city council. All called upon the Illinois senators to do their utmost to defeat the treaty in its present form, objection being made especially to the treaty provisions internationalizing Lake Michigan and making the curtailment of the Chicago sanitary district's diversion of lake water a subject of international agreement.

"I am sure," Mayor Kelly, for example, wrote, "that not only the people of Chicago and Illinois, but those of the entire Mississippi valley will appreciate your exerting your very best efforts in opposition to the ratification of the treaty as now written."

Cites Many Other Letters.

In addition to these communications from official sources, Senator Dieterich explained, he had received messages of a similar tenor from organizations representing Illinois business men. They foresaw in the ratification of the treaty with its present provisions danger to and possibly the destruction of the Illinois-Mississippi waterway on which so many millions of federal and state money have been expended.

Among those who have sent protests against ratification, said Senator Dieterich, were the Illinois Chamber of commerce, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Real Estate board, the Joliet Chamber of Commerce, the city of Cairo, the Mississippi River Pilots' association, the St. Louis National Stockyards and the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

"In addition to that," said the senator, "we have received hundreds of memorials in opposition to the treaty from various civic organizations and citizens of the state of Illinois."

Replies to Knox.

"So I say," he went on, "that when Mr. Knox gives out the information that the Illinois' senators position on the St. Lawrence waterway fails to reflect a large body of public opinion of Chicago and the state of Illinois, the statement must not be interpreted as the true attitude of the Illinois public.

"I do not know from what he draws his conclusions, or whom he has in mind who is not opposed to it. The state itself, every official subdivision of the state, almost unanimously, including the city of Chicago, every association which controls and has at heart the business interests of the state of Illinois is opposed to the ratification of the treaty."

The Illinois senator told how the telegram had first appeared as an editorial in the Daily News and how the editorial had been broadcast by the publicity agents of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, the organization which was recently disclosed as having spent half a million dollars for propaganda in favor of the St. Lawrence seaway. He did not question the sincerity of those favoring the treaty, said Senator Dieterich, but he was forced to believe that they understood neither the treaty's provisions nor the sentiment of the substantial people of Illinois.

U. S. Pays the Bill.

A question by Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri brought from Senator Dietrich the statement that Mr. Knox had been a resident of Illinois about three years.

"The current rumor was," the senator continued, "that he represented the administration then in power, and the periodical of whch he took charge was made the organ of that administration; that he was sent there to promote the candidacy of the then President of the United States, Mr. Hoover. And of course, it goes without saying that his stand on this waterway has been consistent, because it was used in that campaign as a political drawing card, heralded as an accomplishment."

Senator Dieterich read further from the Knox telegram where it was charged that those opposing the treaty were guilty of log rolling, were being as selfishly sectional as grabbers in a political pork barrel, and were being influenced by interests opposed to the treaty such as the railroads and the so-called power trust.

"If there is going to be the inference that some power trust, which seems to be public enemy No. 1, is behind this," Senator Dieterich said, "I think it would be well to go over the Canadian border and find out if there is not a power trust over there that is somewhat interested in the construction of the waterway which gives to Canada the big share of the water pawer not only of Niagara but in the St. Lawrence rapids and charges us as a co-partner to divide the expense of construction. If we desire to draw on imagination there is a fertile field for imagination.

Points to Slush Fund.

"The Tidewater association seems to be like the sacred bull of the ancients; no one should point an accusing finger at it. But any agency, I do not care on which side of the treaty, which will expend one-half million dollars in propaganda deserves to be investigated, and the senate should have the right to know where its money comes from and to whom it is given and for what purposes it is expended.

"Where the United States furnishes 65 per cent of the water that flows over the Niagara Falls and down the St. Lawrence river, and where the Canadian power interests get 38,000 cubic feet per second at Niagara as against our 20,000 cubic feet and will get more than that when the treaty is consummated, and when they get three-quarters of the water power developed along the Niagara river—if we want to draw on our imagination we can imagine that Canadian power interests are somewhat interested in the ratification of the treaty."

MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS ALL MUST GO UP OR DOWN IN NEW DEAL

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Leaders at Washington, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told 2,300 farm residents in an address here today, cannot achieve the new deal "without your realization that the whole country is one big family—that we go up together or go down together."

"The country has learned, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "that from now on when an economic step is taken it must not be for the benefit of a single group, but for the benefit of all the people. We are coming to a time when our thinking is going to undergo a change. We are going to realize that economics are the bases of social living."

Mrs. Roosevelt was the guest of honor at the dedication of Martha Van Rensselaer hall, housing the State College of Home Economics at Cornell university.

Husband Keeps His Manly Dignity and Wins Divorce

Walter A. Schwartz, 29 years old, 8210 Drexel avenue, who weighs 175 pounds, told Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday that his 100 pound wife, Mildred, 2136 West 63d street, was cruel to him. In asking a divorce Schwartz testified that his wife had slapped and scratched his face and had pushed him into the dining room table. "What did you do then?" asked the judge. "I maintained my manly dignity," responded Schwartz and Judge Desort agreed that he merited a divorce.

WOMEN OF FIVE STATES TACKLE NEW ERA ISSUES

1,000 Open Conference on Major Problems.

One thousand club women from five states assembled yesterday in Chicago to consider the problems of this amazing and oft bewildering age.

Leaders of federated women's clubs of Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, and Illinois attended the opening session of the two-day conference, which was held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. The gathering was acclaimed as one of the most distinguished in years.

The first annual conference on major problems, as the assemblage has been designated, was inaugurated, to use the introductory words on the printed program, "to bring to the federated women's clubs of five central states the latest and best thought on current topics affecting American life and to provide a social interval for closer contact between these organizations." The conference is sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

Hear Address on New Era.

The club women present at the afternoon session listened to two stimulating addresses on phases of the new era which has opened in the United States since the depression of 1929 put a definite end to one period of American history. They displayed their interest by intelligent questions put to the speakers, who were Miss Helen Bennett, of the social science division of A Century of Progress, and Frank Bane, director of the American Public Welfare association.

The women were entertained in the evening. They witnessed and heard the regular weekly program of the W-G-N Concert orchestra broadcast from a stage in the grand ballroom and also listened to selections from several noted singers.

The meeting was opened by Miss Kathleen McLaughlin, women's editor of THE TRIBUNE, who welcomed the women to Chicago and promised them an instructive and informing program. She announced that, despite the size of the gathering, chairs were available for hundreds more and that all the sessions were open to the public.

Plight of the Graduate.

Miss Bennett, in her talk, depicted the plight of the high school and university graduates of the depression years who find themselves thrown upon a world which has no place for them. She put forth the novel suggestion that the student henceforth must study not one trade or profession, but several, and develop a sounder cultural background if he or she is to find an occupation in society after graduation.

"Success in the past has meant power, money, fame, adulation," she said. "We have talked about success for many years to our boys and girls coming out of school, but all our standards today are falling, in view of the fact that to most of the graduates the end of school means a period of frantic and unusually futile attempts to put their talents to some use.

"In the days of prosperity, boys and girls were asked by their vocational advisers first what they would like to do and second, what they were able to do. They found, upon graduation, most of them, that they could get the positions they wished. But we now have a vocational problem such as was never presented before. The graduate, trained for a trade or a profession, finds men and women walking the streets who are admirably trained for the very jobs they seek."

Suggests Varied Training.

As a solution, the speaker proposed that the student hereafter "have more than one string to his bow." Young people of today find themselves agast at the fact that there is nothing for them to do, she said. If trained for more than one trade, business, or profession, they may be better enabled to discover some niche for themselves in the civilized world, she pointed out.

"The student must develop all his abilities instead of just one in a definite direction," she continued. "Let them make over their avocations into vocations. It is not true that most people can do only one thing well. There are many illustrations of the fact that an expert in one line can develop similar skill in another."

Children have been pampered, Miss Bennett asserted, and taught that life is an easy matter. From the most tender age they must henceforth be educated that life is difficult and full of responsibilities, she said, and made more ready for the hardships which they will encounter when they leave school.

Speak Today at Women's Conference

Prof. W. F. Ogburn (left) and Dr. Melchoir Palyi, two of speakers on today's program of Conference on Major Problems at the Palmer House.

The somewhat startling experiments of the federal government in the welfare field in the last year were discussed by Prof. Bane in his speech. The entry of the government into welfare work has put an entirely new aspect upon this branch of sociology, he asserted.

It is yet too early to render a judgment upon the various experiments put forward by Washington to meet the problems of unemployment and poverty, the speaker said. Commenting upon the opposition to some of these ventures, he pointed out that there was resistance to poorhouse reform years ago on the ground that rehabilitation of such institutions would discourage thrift, an argument which has been proved unfounded, he asserted.

"Until 1930, private philanthropy was relied upon to treat the problem of the poor in our midst," Prof. Bane recalled. "Then the local communities were called upon and after that the states began appropriating sums which grew into staggering amounts to care for the unemployed and needy.

U. S. Lending for Relief.

"In 1932 it became apparent that all three combined could not begin to handle the problem. In July, 1932, the federal government decided to lend money to the states, and in less than a year 300 millions had been borrowed by practically all of the states, and we have heard nothing up to this time about any of them paying any of the money back.

"In 1933 the government definitly entered the picture with the appropriation of 500 millions for the federal emergency relief administration. Then came the extremely interesting period of government experimentation."

Prof. Bane outlined some of these experiments, including the civilian conservation corps, which put 250,000 single men to work and the educational program by which the government plans to pay part of the cost of educating 100,000 young men and women of destitute families in universities, the states to pay the remaining cost.

"By far the most interesting experiment has been the civil works administration program," he said. "It was based upon the undisputed premise that the average destitute person wanted a job, not a ticket to a breadline. Four million persons were put to work under that program.

Points Out Measure's Faults.

"It was an emergency measure designed to get the poor through the winter and as such it had faults. Speed was essential and the old maxim that haste makes waste was proved. There was a considerable amount of waste and some corruption, although there was comparatively little of the latter when the size of the undertaking is considered.

"One result these experiments did produce—the winter of 1933-'34 was a far easier one for the poor to exist than its predecessors since 1929.

"The 150 years of the United States thus far show a history which has been one grand joy ride of exploitation. The next 150 years must be ones of conservation."

Writer Unable to Appear.

The third speaker scheduled for the afternoon session, Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes, novelist, was unable to appear. Miss McLaughlin announced that an infection, caused by a burn incurred while the writer was getting a permanent wave, had caused Mrs. Barnes' physician to order her confined to her home.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. F. Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. On the platform with her were Mrs. Edwin N. Canine of Terre Haute, Ind., former president of the Indiana Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Frederick H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., president of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Eugene Henely of Grinnell, Ia., president of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Sears R. McLean of Holland, Mich., president of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs; and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, wife of the president of A Century of Progress, who told the women briefly of some of the 1934 plans of the Exposition.

The broadcast last night was heard by an enthusiastic audience. Pierre Andre did the announcing, Adolphe Dumont directed the orchestra, and Attilio Baggiore was the soloist. Lawrence Salerno and Allan Grant, baritone and pianist; Olga Kargau, opera star, and Wadeeha Altyeh, young Syrian soprano, were other artists who performed.

Speakers at Today's Session.

The program today is packed with interesting features. Prof. W. F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago will talk on "New Inventions and Economic Prosperity." Supervising Captain John Stege of the Chicago police department will give an analysis of "Laws and Lawbreakers." Dr. Melchior Palyi, guest professor at the University of Chicago; Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin of Washington; Mrs. W. W. Seymour, chairman of the American home committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Col. R. R. McCormick of THE TRIBUNE will speak at the afternoon session.

NEWFOUNDLAND ENDS 81 YEARS OF SELF-RULE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Feb. 15.—Newfoundland will formally lose the self-government it has enjoyed for 81 years as a colony and dominion tomorrow when Premier F. C. Alderdice and his cabinet hand in their commissions to Gov. Gen. Sir David Murray Anderson. The governor will then swear in the British commission to govern the territory.

Sir John Hope Simpson and Thomas Lodge, members of the commission, arrived today from England. Simpson, head of the commission, was governor of the Andaman and Nicobar islands in the bay of Bengal, and has had great experience in reconstruction work.

Newfoundland surrenders its government as the result of financial difficulties. Last year a commission investigated the dominion's condition and recommended that it's debt be underwritten by the mother country and that it be deprived of self-government until its affairs are straightened out.

RECONCILIATION OF DOUG, MARY BALKED BY PEER

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Mary Pickford had effected a compromise to end her divorce action and a reconciliation of the screen's most famous sweethearts was expected by their friends, it was learned today when Lord Ashley recently instituted divorce proceedings against Lady Ashley and named Fairbanks the co-respondent.

The Ashley case meanwhile proceeded another step with the filing of appearances by lawyers of the American film actor and Lady Ashley, the former Sylvia Hawkes, an actress.

The filing of appearances will enable Fairbanks and Lady Ashley to move to contest the suit within the next two weeks, but it was learned from an indisputable source that the American star was advised to let the action simmer out quietly and not fight it. Rumors that Fairbanks will marry Lady Ashley were described as "ridiculous" by this informant.

FEDERAL BANKS PLANNED TO AID SMALLER FIRMS

Suggested 12 Be Set Up to Supply Capital.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Plans to expand still farther Uncle Sam's banking business, already the largest in the country, were considered today by President Roosevelt and Eugene Black, governor of the federal reserve board.

It is proposed to establish 12 new government banks to supply working capital to small industries. The banks would be capitalized at 80 million dollars and would be able to furnish 300 millions of capital to industries.

"Nothing is being done that I know of that will compete with private banks," said Gov. Black, as he left the White House after lunching with the President. "The only thing is something to supplement the banks."

Plans Emergency Action.

Recognizing that many small businesses have been snuffed out because they could no longer float bond and stock issues, the President has had advisers in the federal reserve board, the NRA, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation work out plans for obtaining business capital in the emergency.

The plan for the 12 new banks is being studied by Gov. Black and the federal reserve board. The NRA, where Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside is investigating credit needs, is understood to have a plan for government indorsement of private bank loans to industry.

Both plans are to be submitted to the President when fully worked out, and it is understood that the final plan may be a combination of both suggestions. There probably will be 12 intermediate credit banks owned by the government. On the other hand, these government banks may offer to share their loans with private banks.

No Competition, They Say.

At present Gov. Black and his assistants are regarding the proposal as an emergency one. They are emphasizing that it brings no competition with banks. They declare that banks should furnish short term credit and not the working capital which the new banks will advance.

Money which the proposed federal intermediate capital banks would advance is comparable to money which businesses formerly raised by floating stocks or bonds.

Small businesses have not been able to resort to the security markets recently, however, because what money has been available has been borrowed by the government itself or large industries.

Urge Less Borrowing.

Realizing that the voracious demand by the government for funds has been a major reason for the drying of private capital, proponents of the new plan are urging the President to bring large scale government borrowing to an end with this fiscal year. Banks and investors, no longer able to buy new issues of government securities, would then lend to industry, making the proposed banks no longer necessary.

Reserve board officials are also urging the President to relax any sections of the security act and the Glass banking act which may be inhibiting private finance. They are arguing that the government would do well to compromise on restrictions at least until private credit flows freely again.

Because they espouse these views they are insisting that the new banks be a temporary measure, filling a gap until security markets revive. Plans for the banks are not yet complete. Little has been established, except that they will lend directly to business men, an innovation in government finance. Loans will be of the "intermediate" type, that is, running for from three to five years. Security probably will consist of mortgages on the property and earnings of the business.

At present the administration is determined to confine the loans to small industries. Large businesses are assumed to be able to raise money through banks or the stock market, especially through the latter if security and bank laws are relaxed somewhat.

Within the federal reserve group discussing the plan for the new banking system there is still some difference of opinion over whether the banks should be entirely owned by the government or whether the ownership should be shared with private banks and businesses. The question of sharing the individual loans with private banks, the government bank lending part and a private bank the rest, also still is unsettled.

Generally speaking, the banks will be patterned after the 12 federal intermediate credit banks which now make agricultural loans, except that these farm banks lend only to coöperatives and financing institutions, whereas the industrial banks would lend directly to the private borrower.

NEW CRISIS HITS AUSTRIA AS CIVIL WAR DIES DOWN

Fascisti Blame Dollfuss Party for Conflict.

councils in all other nine provinces will follow.

The program apparently is as follows: First, substitute government prefects for all elected provincial governors; second, dissolve all provincial legislatures; third, outlaw all political parties.

Chancellor Dollfuss' appeal of peace last night and Vice Chancellor Fey's heavy artillery brought about the end of the Socialists' resistance. The death list is conservatively estimated at between 1,000 and 1,200 men.

At noon today government forces claimed the fighting has been reduced to a mere man hunt and search for arms. This man hunt will continue for weeks.

2,000 Make Last Stand.

Tonight one band of 2,000 Socialists was making a last stand, it was reported, in the Marchfeld district of rich farm land. The Marchfeld district is east of Vienna toward the border of Czechoslovakia. The armed schutzbund members retreated from Floridsdorf and Simmering before the artillery fire. At a late hour troops were hurrying along roads across the Danube in pursuit of this escaping rear guard.

There may be a battle or the Socialists may reach the Czech border. Truckload after truckload of soldiers sped across the Reichs bridge and on toward the farm lands to the east.

The last stand in Vienna was made on the bleak hill of Laaerberg, south of the capital. On this hill 2,000 or 3,000 schutzbund men were entrenched in strong positions for several days.

Government propagandists tonight said they surrendered in response to Dollfuss' appeal for peace and his promise of clemency. It seems more likely they gave up in response to the six inch guns which moved up against them.

Hill Taken by Troops.

At noon today the hill was cleared of Socialists and tonight it was occupied by troops. Those fighting Marxists who have not taken advantage of Dollfuss' amnesty have joined the forlorn hope—that the group retreating across the Marchfeld will seek aid from Czech Socialists. There were reports all day long that they had been joined by the Czechs and were marching back on Vienna.

Meanwhile infantry and artillery relinquished strategic positions, but soldiers still patrol the streets of Vienna. Members of the heimwehr were allowed to do patrol duty in some of the more dangerous sections, but for the most part they have been kept inside the inner city of Vienna.

Search for Arms.

In 45 apartment houses authorities said they had confiscated 100 machine guns, thousands of rifles, and enough ammunition to last for weeks. The government newspaper, Reichspost, said that the roofs and cellars of all these community houses were designed as fortresses. Government officials claim artillery had to be used to smash these "fortresses."

Meanwhile in Graz members of the schutzbund, who had occupied a glass factory, refused to accept an ultimatum to surrender. When artillery fire began most of them surrendered. Others fled into the mountains.

In view of the high wave of indignation that has arisen in this country and abroad against the ruthless shootings, maneuvering was begun today to rally popular sentiment around Dollfuss and camouflage the activities of Fey and Starhemberg, probably the real authors of the killings.

Planes Drop Handbills.

Airplanes dropped handbills in Vienna appealing to the workers to turn on their leaders. The leaflets said, "Dollfuss is the only man that can help Austria in this hour of danger."

Late tonight it was reliably reported but officially denied that Karl Seitz, imprisoned Socialist mayor, had died of a heart attack. It was impossible to verify this report.

In Vienna alone it is estimated 3,000 disarmed Schutzbund men are in prison. Most of them will be tried by court martial.

A court martial today sentenced to death Robert Kalab, a young worker, who led the Socialist defenders in the Reumannhof, an apartment building, but President Wilhelm Miklas saved him from the gallows. He will serve a long prison sentence. Newspapers have been forbidden to publish this pardon.

Julius Deutsch, commander of the Socialist defense corps, wounded in the head and arm, crossed the border into Czechoslovakia at Presburg with 47 of his men this afternoon. He reported himself to the police and went to a hotel. Otto Bauer, another Socialist leader, was with him.

FRANCE REVEALS NEW "SPY PLOT"; SEIZES SUSPECT

METZ, France, Feb. 16.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Police early today uncovered what they described as another espionage affair.

An inhabitant of the city, Sarre Mueller, was arrested. Police said he had been seeking information concerning equipment at the Metz military garrison and had a book of addresses in his possession. Authorities were withholding further information.

The alleged plot recalled the round-up of many persons a few weeks ago. Among those arrested were two Americans, Robert Switz and his wife. Switz is still in jail.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Feb. 15.—More than 100,000 Jews from Vienna have arrived in Warsaw and other Polish towns during the last few days. They are fleeing Austria in fear of a repetition of what happened in Germany. The victory of the Fascist heimwehr in Austria means the same thing to them as did the victory of the Nazis in Germany. A big crowd of Socialist Jews demonstrated in front of the Austrian legation here today. They were dispersed by police and the legation placed under guard.

CITY ASKS POWER TO KILL BOARD OF IMPROVEMENTS

The city council yesterday approved a resolution introduced by Ald. John Toman [23d] and a report of the finance committee appealing to the state legislature to give the city authority to reorganize local governmental agencies within the city and to broaden the city's licensing powers.

The council specifically asked the legislature to return the city's oil inspection powers, the loss of which under a former Republican mayor cost the city $300,000 a year, authority to reorganize the board of local improvements and powers to license other businesses which now do not require a city permit to operate. The report of the finance committee urged the abolition of the present board of local improvements, the salaries of which total $22,500 a year and in its place suggested that the mayor be empowered to appoint members of his cabinet to act without compensation.

The council also approved an increase in the fees of the Municipal court, which was requested by two-thirds of the judges. This increase will increase the court's revenues, according to estimates, by at least $300,000 a year.

BIG FIRE ON GALTON FARM.

Tuscola, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—A barn, a double corn crib, 5,000 bushels of corn, ten tons of broom corn, two tractors, and much farm machinery were destroyed in a fire at the Arron Swick farm at Galton.

INFORMS FRIEND OF MATE'S TRYST; BEATEN, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Mabel M. Wessling, Maywood clubwoman, complained last evening that she had been beaten in her home last Saturday evening by William Fantozzi, a violinist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, because she informed Fantozzi's wife, Elmira, that her husband had been seen in company of another woman. Fantozzi was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging assault and battery and ordered to appear before a Maywood justice of the peace next Saturday. He was released on $100 bond.

Peering out of swollen eyes, Mrs. Wessling at 1814 South 6th avenue in the suburb, asserted that she and Mrs. Fantozzi, in company with a detective, had seen Fantozzi in company of another woman at the World's Fair last summer. Recently, she said, when Fantozzi was seen with another woman she informed Mrs. Fantozzi, who has been her friend for sixteen years.

"A short while later," said Mrs. Wessling, "Fantozzi came to my home. He hit me on the nose and then picked up a hammer and struck me over the head. He fled when my mother telephoned the police."

The Fantozzis live at 1617 South 16th street in the village. They could not be reached yesterday.

AUSTRIA TO HANG REVOLT LEADERS AT STEYR TODAY

600 Socialists Are Jailed; Mayor Faces Death.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STEYR, Austria, Feb. 15.—Many Socialist insurrectionists in prison here will be tried tomorrow before a special tribunal, from which there will be no appeal. Before the day is over some of these men are expected to pay on the gallows for their part in the short but bloody civil war. Steyr is heavily populated with Socialists.

Exactly how many men are coming up for trial will not be revealed until the last minute. The crimes charged against them are armed rebellion, murder, and arson.

Burgomaster Sichelrader, who is under arrest, is expected to get the death penalty. The same punishment is predicted for Vice Burgomaster Arwanger.

Street skirmishes and sniping took place today between members of the Socialist schutzbund and the Fascist heimwehr. Six hundred Socialists were imprisoned. Heimwehr leaders tonight estimated their casualties at three killed and fifteen wounded.

Inspection of the town today showed Socialist tenement houses had been badly damaged by artillery fire. Relatives of members of the schutzbund were rounded up by the heimwehr. Many were women. They were confined in the courtyard of the town hall. They were kept out in severe cold weather. Troops dispersed sullen crowds trying to catch a glimpse of the shivering prisoners. Later the prisoners were removed to a place of shelter.

Steel helmeted members of the heimwehr are patroling the streets with rifles. Machine guns are mounted at all strategic points. Barbed wire has been piled up in the streets for the erection of barricades.

Asks International Force to Supervise Vote in Saar

GENEVA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Geoffrey G. Knox, commissioner of the Saar territory, told a committee of the council of the league of nations today that he had insufficient forces to maintain order in connection with the plebiscite next year. The committee is considering advocating an international police force to supervise the vote, which will determine whether the territory will go under French or German jurisdiction or remain under that of the league.

Czech Official Calls for World to Act in Austria; Border Warfare Is Feared

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Czechoslovakian parliament's foreign affairs committee was told today that it is doubtful if the Austrian situation can be adjusted without international action.

The statement was made by Dr. Krofta, Czech ambassador to Berlin, who is acting for Foreign Minister Eduard Benes during the latter's absence. He said the action would be taken probably through the league of nations.

He said Austria is bound to permit no foreign power to obtain such great influence as might endanger Austria's independence.

Prepare Big Protest Meeting.

His statement, considered one of the most outspoken recently affecting central European affairs, was made while Czechoslovakian and German Socialists were preparing for a gigantic massmeeting at Bratislava in protest against measures taken by the Austrian government to suppress Socialism.

"Austria is compelled to maintain its independence and to permit no foreign power to gain excessive influence in the country. If from any side an attempt were made to touch the independence of Austria, then all the powers, including the great powers, have the opportunity to intervene. Undoubtedly this would be through the league of nations."

General Five Minute Strike.

Czechoslovakian labor joined in a five minute strike as a manifestation of sympathy for the Austrian Socialists. So bitter was the feeling among the workers of the country against the Dollfuss régime in Austria that the government was said to believe that only cool leadership could prevent another great war.

All railway and street car traffic halted, factories shut down and mines suspended operations during the strike. A union labor leader said the strike was 100 per cent effective. The unions of this country are closely allied to those of Austria, and there was considerable fear in official circles that the stand of the workers might lead to serious trouble at the border.

Yesterday's resignation of the Czechoslovakian government as a result of expressed dissatisfaction over currency devaluation moves, passed almost unnoticed as all attention turned to the Austrian conflict. Premier Malypetr quickly organized a new ministry.

Italy Attacks Czechs.

ROME, Feb. 15.—(AP)—An attack on Czechoslovakia for allegedly supporting and arming Austrian Socialists for their insurrection was launched today in the Italian press.

The unanimity of the broadside was interpreted as pointing to a government instigation of the attack. The newspapers referred also to what they said wa sthe in explainable attitude of France in the crisis.

It is understood that Italy is not in agreement with the other powers on the advisability of bringing the Austro-German situation before the league of nations. She is convinced, an official spokesman said, that such a step would merely stir up muddy water and bring no beneficial results.

The wisest move the big powers could make now, according to the Italian thesis, would be to give Austria all possible economic aid.

For diplomatic reasons no official statement was made with regard to the charges that Czechoslovakia assisted the Austrian Socialists.

Roberto Forges-Davanzati, editor of La Tribuna, tonight used the word complicity in referring to Czechoslovakia and said France and the little entente were responsible to a lesser extent for directly or indirectly aiding the Socialists in Austria.

The victory of Dollfuss was regarded here as a triumph for the Italian viewpoint as against that of France and her allies. Italy has maintained that the Dolfuss government was best able to hold the country together and prevent an anschluss.

France or at least strong French political factions, it was said here, favored supporting the Austrian Socialists because of a greater confidence in their enmity toward Hitlerism and a union with Nazi Germany.

75,000 Troops at Border.

The Italians do not share the fear, said to exist in France and the little entente, that Dollfuss may eventually reconcile his strong Fascist leanings with Hitlerism or agree to an anschluss.

Meanwhile, Italian troops to the estimated number of 75,000 were stationed at strategic points near the Austrian frontier prepared for any emergency, but all persons in a position to know asserted no concentration order had been given recently. Reports of a mobilization and concentration order were denied in all quarters.

Hungary Also Accuses Czechs.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The newspaper Magyarsag today accused the Czechoslovakian government of giving weapons to Austrian Socialists to wage civil war. It said:

"Dr. Edouard Benes, minister of foreign affairs of Czechoslovakia, being afraid that the Austrian heimwehr would restore the monarchy in Austria, gave money to the Socialists hoping that if they came into power they would bring Austria into the little entente."

Denies Czechs Furnished Arms.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Edouard Benes, minister of foreign affairs of Czechoslovakia, flatly denied today that his government had furnished money or arms to the Austrian Socialists, as charged by newspapers in Budapest and Italy.

"These charges are frequently made, but they are absolutely without foundation," Dr. Benes, who is en route home from London, said.

It was stated authoritatively that the French government "is seriously concerned" with affairs in Austria, "but considers the conflict is internal rather than external and direct intervention is therefore impossible."

British Hope for Clemency.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 15.—In what the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph terms "a most discreet and friendly manner" the British government has expressed to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and the Austrian cabinet the hope that they will display clemency in their hour of victory.

NO ECONOMY IN CHEAP SOAP CHIPS

Lack of real soap makes weak suds and hard rubbing which wears out clothes . . . Weak suds "die down", cause "spotting" and "specking" . . . More chips are needed to "hold up" the suds . . . Free alkali, strong water softeners and bleaches fade colors and roughen hands . . . Free fatty acids slow down sudsing . . . Rancid fats give clothing unpleasant odors . . . Experience always teaches that, "It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes."

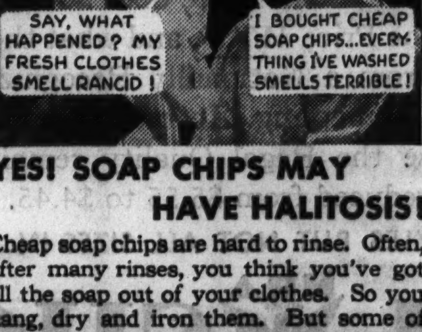
BUT WHEN SHE TRIED TO MATCH IT
BUT, MADAM, YOU JUST SAID YOU WASHED IT IN CHEAP SOAP CHIPS!
BUT I'VE ONLY HAD IT SIX WEEKS! AND YOU TOLD ME IT WAS COLOR-FAST!

PROFIT BY THE EXPERIENCE OF MRS. J. F. MALOY

Mrs. J. F. Maloy, of 5113 Ainslie St., Chicago, says "I used American Family Flakes for years; but switched to cheap soap chips to save pennies. Instead of saving, I ruined my clothes and hands. Now I'm back to good old American Family Flakes again. And I'll never change. I have learned my lesson. Believe me, it's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes."

THEY LAST ALMOST TWICE AS LONG

When you're tempted by cheap soap or chips, consider this: Ounce for ounce, American Family Flakes and Soap last almost twice as long, go almost twice as far, do almost twice the work . . . better, quicker, safer. Remember the long life American Family guarantees your clothes; the short work it makes of laundering; the labor, energy and money it saves you. Chicago women buy more American Family than all other laundry soaps combined.



SAY, WHAT HAPPENED? MY FRESH CLOTHES SMELL RANCID!
I BOUGHT CHEAP SOAP CHIPS... EVERYTHING I'VE WASHED SMELLS TERRIBLE!

YES! SOAP CHIPS MAY HAVE HALITOSIS!

Cheap soap chips are hard to rinse. Often, after many rinses, you think you've got all the soap out of your clothes. So you hang, dry and iron them. But some of the soap remains, meshed in the fibres and weave of the fabrics. In that soap, the thin, weak grease begins to turn, to grow rancid. Soon, the clothing begins to give off an unpleasant odor. In contrast, clothes washed in the double-suds of American Family Flakes rinse quickly, easily, thoroughly; smell as sweet, as fresh as flowers.

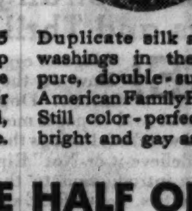
Duplicate silk after 5 washings in cheap soap chips laden with free alkali and strong water softeners. Faded, dull, lifeless, all its beauty gone.



Duplicate silk after 5 washings in the rich, pure, double-suds of American Family Flakes. Still color-perfect. As bright and gay as new.

AND THAT'S NOT THE HALF OF IT!

Above you see the tragic outcome of using cheap soap chips containing free alkali, strong water softeners and bleaches which are death to colors. And that's not the half of it! Cheap chips lack real soap; make weak, thin, lazy suds which fail to remove dirt unless assisted by the hardest of rubbing on your part. And you know what hard rubbing does to fabrics. Why use cheap chips? American Family Flakes are far more economical. They give double-suds; creamy, hard-working, fast-washing, quick-rinsing suds that float out the dirt; pure suds free from the slightest danger of fading, from the slightest harshness to your hands.

FRENCH DEPUTIES BLAST WEEK OLD POLITICAL TRUCE

Partisan Hates Flare as Premier Wins Support.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Premier Gaston Doumergue got his vote of confidence today—a thumping 402 to 125, with 68 deputies abstaining—but the political truce which he invoked to form his cabinet after last week's political riots rapidly evaporated in a blaze of partisan hatreds.

At the close of a brief debate, just before the government's proposition was voted to put off all interpellations until after the budget is passed, the growing class hatred between left and right was illustrated in a way reminiscent of the German reichstag on the eve of the Nazi revolution.

Communists stood up in a body and began to bawl the "Internationale." The right replied with a thunderous "Marseillaise," while boos, cheers, whistles, and various other noises rose from intervening benches.

Vacation Seen for Deputies.

In view of the dangerously high temperature evident today, it is believed Doumergue, as soon as the budget is voted, will send the delegates on a long vacation to cool off while talk of dissolution of parliament and new elections is increasing. The Socialists today formally demanded dissolution and many deputies of all political complexions voiced approval.

Doumergue's white hairs and the veneration which nearly the whole country has for him did not save him from vicious heckling by the communists. Shouts of "Assassins" and "Down with fascism" rose from benches at the extreme left when the premier mounted the rostrum this afternoon.

The former president, despite his unfamiliarity with the turbulent atmosphere of the chamber, did not lose composure.

Tells Why He Became Premier.

"I received a telephone call a week ago Wednesday," he declared, "and was informed that blood was flowing in the streets of Paris. I was told if I would accept the formidable responsibilities of power, peace would be restored. I came immediately.

"If you are not blind and deaf you must realize the seriousness of the international situation. I am not a saint nor maker of miracles, but you men can do miracles if you inspire confidence in the country. I came to Paris with great hope. If I find I am mistaken I will go back where I came from, but full of anguish at the thought of the calamities which partisan spirit will have brought on our country."

Doumergue's speech was frantically applauded as was his brief and effective ministerial declaration calling for a rapid vote on the budget, a party truce and cleaning up of scandals, and a firm and vigilant foreign policy. But when the deputies began to speak bedlam broke loose.

Attacked by Socialists.

The lanky, gloomy faced Socialist chief, Leon Blum, viciously denounced the national union cabinet, demanded new elections, and declared the government had been carried to power by a Fascist coup.

A Socialist war veteran raised a storm when he attacked veterans who had participated in last week's rioting and a nationalist veteran, his head still bandaged from wounds, engaged in a hot word battle with him.

Former Premier Camille Chautemps, speaking as the new president of the radical party, did nothing to calm the atmosphere with biting references to "mob rule." He pledged complete support to Doumergue, but made clear it is only for a limited time and purpose.

The final vote, which was followed by an almost identical one supporting Doumergue's demand for a gag rule on budget debate, gave the cabinet an unshakable working majority, but the 68 blank votes from the ranks of its normal majority is considered an unfavorable omen.

COUNCIL ADOPTS MASSAGE PARLOR LICENSING LAW

An ordinance providing for the licensing and regulation of massage parlors was adopted yesterday by the city council after its introduction by Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the license committee. The ordinance gives to the police supervision over the morals of the establishments. The board of health will supervise sanitary conditions.

A fee of $10 is required for each establishment with two employés or less, including the proprietor. For each additional employé an annual fee of $2.50 is required. The ordinance also directs the segregation of men and women patrons.

The council gave authority to B. J. Curtis, commissioner of streets and electricity, to contract for the disposal of garbage and refuse at dumps and loading stations for prices ranging from 15 to 25 cents a cubic yard. The authority was necessary because the state has refused the city permission to dump refuse in the old Illinois-Michigan canal.

The next meeting of the council will be Feb. 28.

FOREIGN POWERS BEHIND AUSTRIAN CLASH: HITLERITE

Exiled Nazi Leader Assails Dollfuss.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Not since the world war has hatred among enemy powers flamed as sulphurously as it did tonight when Theodor Habicht, exiled leader of Austrian Nazis, spoke over the German radio. He denounced "those responsible for the mass murder of Germans by Germans in Austria in the greatest tragedy in new Germanic history."

Habicht, who was ousted from Austria last summer on a charge of attempting to incite a revolt, boasted of what he called the absolute "neutrality and perfect discipline shown by Nazis in Austria and Germany—standing aside, rifle by the foot, awaiting their hour." The speech was broadcast over all German stations.

Called Mass Fratricide.

"We accuse the Dollfuss government of the crime of mass fratricide, acting only out of personal vanity and lacking all sense of responsibility to the nation," Habicht said. "We accuse the foreign powers who supported the Dollfuss government and who equipped the agitators and murderers with French steel helmets, Czechoslovakian guns, and Russian ammunition.

"We accuse the Catholic bishops who declared themselves solidly behind the Dollfuss government and who covered its crimes with unctuous words. None of the victims fell for high ideals. It is not true that the present fight is being waged for the reconstruction of Austria in the German spirit. The fury raging on German soil is a clash of foreign powers using Germans as mercenary legionnaires. It is our indomnitable will this bloodshed shall be the last of its kind.

Assails Dollfuss' Contention.

"Dollfuss and the Fascist heimwehr leaders are attempting to create the impression that they were compelled to fight bolsheviks. The Marxist leaders they now brand as traitors were their allies behind the scenes of yesterday. It is only because a shift of power in the relative strength of their foreign financiers and advisers has taken place that the Austrian government is now proceeding with grenades and bombs.

"Dollfuss' brutal war on women and children will kindle an undying hatred among millions, which will not be extinguished until the terrible guilt of his government is expiated.

"Until yesterday the Nazis were Dollfuss' only enemies. They are a majority of Austrian people. Dollfuss was unable to vanquish them without calling for the aid of foreign countries. Now the Marxists loathe Dollfuss. Between these two millstones his government will be ground to death if it is insane enough to continue a fight which is bound to cost unbelievable sacrifices of the best German blood."

Suggests Meeting.

Habicht appealed indirectly to the Austrian army to mutiny.

"The Austrian army is firing upon Austrian workers who, though misled, nevertheless are good Germans," he said. "The army must decide whether it is ready to shoot Nazis tomorrow, and the day after tomorrow possibly be compelled to march against Germany at the side of Germany's enemies.

"Austrian Nazis will not sacrifice a single man or a single bullet in this struggle because, whatever its outcome, the result would be against Germany and against the German people."

Oswego Pioneers

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lantz of Oswego, six miles southeast of Aurora, will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary today. A luncheon will be served in the afternoon to the five children and 21 grandchildren of the couple, and other guests will be received from 2 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Lantz, who farmed 160 acres near Plainfield before their retirement, came to Illinois from Pennsylvania with their respective families when they were children. Mr. Lantz is 88 years old and his wife is 84.

ENVOYS BULLITT AND EARLE SAIL FROM NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—William C. Bullitt, the ambassador to soviet Russia, and George H. Earle, American minister to Austria, sailed to their posts today on the United States liner Washington.

Mr. Earle was distressed by the events in Vienna. He said he had asked the state department to permit him to return to Vienna at once in order to take up his duties as minister and to care for his wife and family.

Mr. Bullitt was accompanied by members of his staff. He is going to Moscow to open the embassy and furnish its offices. Peter Bogdanov, president of the Amtorg, the Russian trading agency here, led a delegation of Russians who presented a bouquet, the gift of the wife of the Russian ambassador to the United States.

Woman Arrested as Seller of Home Brew to Pupils

Mrs. Mae Boles, 54 years old, 242 West 59th place, was arrested by police yesterday on a warrant charging her with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The charge is based on allegations that Mrs. Boles and her husband, Neil, sold homebrew to pupils of the Englewood and the Parker High schools. Boles, for whom a warrant was previously issued, is now out of town. Police found 150 quarts of homebrew in the Boles flat.

FRANCE ASSAILS HITLER; CHARGES HE HAS REARMED

Slams Door on Further Direct Negotiations.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler has already rearmed Germany, the French government charges in a firm note made public today, which virtually slammed the door to further direct arms talks between them.

The French, officially for the first time, said Germany had rearmed beyond treaty provisions, which "can no longer be taken as a basis of disarmament discussions."

The note, replying to Hitler's memorandum of Jan. 19, expressed "astonishment" at Germany's arms attitude, and said bilateral negotiations were useless on a basis of "rearmament." France is willing, it said, however, to discuss "disarmament."

Charges Berlin Changes Mind.

Thus the latest exchange in the long series of efforts to get together apparently only widened the already great breach between the two over Germany's demands for 300,000 troops and defensive equipment. The note was delivered to Hitler yesterday.

France charged that Germany had changed its mind, and expressed astonishment that the country "does not feel it can even live up to proposals which it previously presented" at Geneva.

In its note of Jan. 19, Berlin said France's stand seemed to offer no practical possibilities of general disarmament, and that Germany was discriminated against in regard to defensive strength. It denied Germany wanted to build up armaments, but added that other countries would not reduce their fighting equipment, and Germany should have some methods of defense.

Brings Up Security Issue.

"The element of security," the note said, "is too important to be passed over in silence when it concerns substantial reduction of armaments."

France stands by the policy of disarmament taken by previous French governments, it was added. France, the note said, does not see the utility of bilateral discussions which "cannot be conducted to a good end without participation of states interested.

"An examination by France and Germany of these questions have no useful object unless an agreement could be realized on precise principles which would leave no point of dispute between the two countries. It is far from being thus."

Germany Will Reply.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Government circles consider the firm French note of today does not help bring the problem of disarmament any nearer a solution. The German government will, in due course, reply, "despite the final remarks of the French note, which are not very encouraging."

FATHER ADMITS KILLING MISSING ROCKFORD BOY

Threw Child's Body in River, He Says.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Charles Backus, part Indian vegetable peddler, broke down tonight and confessed that he killed his 3 year old son, Charles Jr., a week ago yesterday and threw his body into the Rock river. He claimed, though, that the killing was accidental.

The confession virtually cleared up a mystery that had this entire district tense with excitement and that had led to a general search by school mates and others for the boy's body. Thus far young Charles' body is still missing, but authorities now know where it can be found as a result of the father's confession.

Disappeared on Feb. 7.

The boy disappeared on Feb. 7. Several days ago Backus' wife, Emma, charged that her husband had slain him. She asserted that he had beaten the boy to death. He denied this, and kept up his denials under police examination until tonight, when he confessed beating the boy into insensibility on the day the latter disappeared.

"All right," Backus finally said after hours of questioning, "I'll show you where the body is."

Then he pleaded: "I don't want to go to the electric chair for this." Incoherently, he moaned he would be willing to go to prison.

Tried to Revive Child.

"Charlie came home and he looked white and sick," said Backus. "I thought he must have eaten poisoned candy. We had a little argument—it was just after school—about whether he should change his clothes. Then I struck him. I carried him onto a bed and worked on him to bring him to. But he was dead. It must have been poisoned candy. Then I put his body on my truck and drove to the river. I found a hole in the ice and I pushed his body through the hole."

Accompanied by dozens of police, Backus went to the river and showed where he had thrown his son's body into the water. Police found truck tracks in the soft ground leading to the river which they regarded as substantiation of Backus' story that he had driven there.

Will Dynamite River.

However, the air hole in the river was gone and there was a thick layer of ice on the water. It was impossible to search for the body tonight. Police said they would dynamite the river in the morning. They expressed high hopes of finding the body and thus completing the solution of what had been a mystery.

Prosecutor Robert E. Nash said he would summon the grand jury for next week, at which time he would seek Backus' indictment. At this time, the prosecutor said, he could not announce whether the indictment would be for murder or for manslaughter.

The confession of Backus ended a wide search here. At the time it came 200 volunteer workers were searching the countryside, river banks, and gravel pits.

Brittin Starts to Serve Ten Days in Jail.

may say may be used against me in any court in the land."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, was on his feet; hoped Mr. Brown actually meant what he said, and that another week would not find Senator Fess again on his feet wondering why the Hoover cabinet member had not been heard.

Chairman Black announced his willingness to have Mr. Brown appear, and later, after Senator Fess had communicated with Brown in New York, it was announced that the former postmaster general would come before the investigating committee next Monday morning.

Then Senator Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana, the Republican Robinson of the two by that name in the senate, projected himself into the picture. And the fireworks started.

"I hold no brief for Mr. Brown," he began. "I know nothing about the facts, and I do not suppose anybody in the senate knows what the facts are in this connection.

Forget Party, He Urges.

"So far as I am personally concerned I shall refuse at all times to vote to whitewash any man just because he happens to be a member of my party. If a Republican official insists on using the Republican party selfishly, for his own personal interest, regardless of the injury he does to the party as a whole, then he may expect no mercy from me, so far as my vote is concerned.

"I recognize thoroughly that there is just as much crookedness in the Democratic party as there is in the Republican party——"

The sally was too much for the Democratic Robinson.

"That just cannot be possible," he growled, and the galleries laughed.

"I assume that Democrats interested in the party would take the same position I take on this question," Indiana's Robinson went on. "But I am wondering why it is, if it is true, as is reported in the press, that in this sweeping cancelation of air mail contracts one company has been spared. A responsible member of the congress yesterday, according to the press, made that statement on the floor of the house of representatives. Since then I understand he has named the company.

Casts Suspicion, He Declares.

"It is suggested that this one company was a large contributor to the Democratic national campaign fund in the last campaign, when Mr. Roosevelt was elected. That casts suspicion on the entire matter of these hearings, and of everything else connected with the matter."

The senator referred to charges that have been made by Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.] that Pan-American Airway's contract was not canceled because it was headed by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, who ran for congress in 1932 on the Democratic ticket, and who is reputed to have been a contributor to the Democratic national campaign fund.

"If the senator desires to submit any names now or hereafter I should be very glad indeed to summon them and I should be very glad indeed to notify the senator to be present and I shall be very glad to ask the witness myself to what party he contributed or permit that privilege to be given to the senator.

"I would suggest that he summon Representative Fish of New York," said Senator Robinson. "There ought to be some reason shown for just one company being spared while all the rest with one sweep of the pen had their contracts impaired instantly."

AUTOPSY SHOWS SLAIN DOCTOR WAS POISONED, CHEMIST TESTIFIES

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A post-mortem examination of the abdominal organs of Dr. John Preston Kennery, Greenwod surgeon, disclosed the presence of mercury, Dr. W. F. Hand, state chemist and dean of science at Mississippi State college, testified this afternoon in the murder trial of Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, 33 year old woman physician.

The organs were sent to Dr. Hand at State college at Starkville last summer after Dr. Kennedy's body had been exhumed at the request of relatives.

The state put the chemist on the stand as one of a long string of witnesses produced in an effort to prove that Kennedy was a victim of poison administered in a whisky highball, allegedly drunk during a midnight "farewell meeting" with Dr. Dean last July 27.

AIR CHIEF STARTS ORGANIZATION OF U.S. MAIL SERVICE

Army Planes to Fly Four Routes Out of Chicago.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam, commanding officer of the central zone of the army air corps' air mail organization which will begin to operate Sunday at midnight, landed at Chicago airport yesterday and immediately plunged into the task of assuring the smooth functioning of his organization within three and one-half days. He arrived from Fort Crockett, Galveston, Tex.

Col. Hickam admitted that the difficult part of his task will not be the actual carrying of the mail, but in learning the many sided problems entailed in the job. Twenty-six pilots of the 3d Attack group, from Fort Crockett, who have been assigned to carry the mail out of Chicago, started to fly their routes yesterday in training for the service they will inaugurate on Monday.

Four Routes Out of Chicago.

Four routes will be flown by Col. Hickam's organization. These are from Chicago to Dallas, Chicago to Cheyenne, Memphis to Fort Worth, and St. Louis to Kansas City. Pilots of the eastern zone, under command of Maj. B. Q. Jones, stationed at Newark airport, will fly the routes from Chicago to New York and Chicago to Jacksonville.

The planes that will fly the mail out of Chicago are of two types, Col. Hickam said. Curtiss attack planes, powered with 700 horsepower Conqueror motors and capable of a top speed of 182 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 145 miles an hour, will fly the route from Chicago to Cheyenne. Douglas observation planes, powered by Wasp 550 horsepower motoros, capable of a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour, will fly the Chicago to Dallas route. Both types will carry a maximum of 650 pounds of mail.

Needs More Planes.

The twenty-six planes that are now prepared to fly the air mail from Chicago probably will have to be supplemented, he said, when he learned that the air mail clearing Chicago approximates 6,000 pounds a day. That figure is expected by postoffice authorities to be increased by about 40 per cent because of the discontinuance of the two southern transcontinental air mail routes in the plans for the original army mail service.

During the afternoon seven of the attack planes landed at the airport and two observation planes came in from the Dallas run. Temporary headquarters were established by Col. Hickam in the hangar of the 33d division aviation, Illinois National Guard. Permanent quarters are being made ready in the old city administration building at the north end of the field.

'BEAN SHOOTER' CLUB WILL COME TO AID OF PRIVATE AIR LINES

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—"The National Association of Bean Shooters" will come to the aid of private air mail companies," H. Weir Cook, National American Legion aeronautics director, said tonight in commenting on charges of collusion in contracts.

"The organization itself has not been chartered, but we have the background of a real club on behalf of employés of the air line and their supporters. The name comes from a phrase used by a congressman to identify Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who came to the defense of the private contractors."

Cook, who testified in Washington before the District of Columbia grand jury sifting air mail contract awarding, is a 38th division staff officer and served as an air mail pilot on the Omaha-Salt Lake City route in 1920.

HE'LL GET USED TO IT, SAY THE AIR MAIL PILOTS

The department of commerce teletype system, over which flying weather information is flashed from airport to airport across the nation, carried an interesting message into Chicago airport last night about dusk. The message read: "Chicago—Lieut. Partridge, army air corps mail operations, held over by darkness at Terre Haute. Leaving tomorrow morning for Chicago with Lieut. Lay as passenger."

Air mail pilots gathered in an operations room of one of the commercial air lines that is going to lose its air mail contract at midnight Sunday, when the army begins to fly the mail, smiled when they read the message. To them night flying is a daily routine.

"Wait till Lieut. Partridge gets a load of letters in the back seat and tackles the country out around Cheyenne after midnight—he won't worry about a little darkness then," one of the pilots said. Others remarked that it was then only dusk, that Chicago airport is well lighted and that Terre Haute is only 177 miles away as the mail pilots fly.

AIRCRAFT HEAD TESTIFIES BEFORE HOUSE GROUP

Tells Committee How to Avoid Huge Profits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The other side of the picture regarding private profits on army and navy airplane construction began unfolding today as the house naval affairs committee heard the testimony of two aircraft company presidents.

On a single order of navy planes, contracted for at a price of $172,157, Sikorsky Aircraft, Inc., lost $320,607, according to Fred Nelson, head of the company. That was in 1933; and in 1931, the company suffered another net loss of $167,326 on a contract totaling $299,813.

Reuben H. Fleet, president of the Consolidated Aircraft corporation of Buffalo, related to the committee how it transpired that his company sold fifty planes to the army at $1 each in order to counteract a huge profit on a previous army contract.

"I was once an army flyer," said Mr. Fleet. "When Gen. Patrick asked me about that profit, I told him to say what he wanted and it would be done."

Mentions Moffett Stand.

The navy bureau of aeronautics then headed by the late Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, had an opportunity to join with the army in protesting the Consolidated profits on service plane construction, Mr. Fleet told the committee, but Admiral Moffett declined.

The Consolidated president read a letter from Admiral Moffett to Gen. Patrick in which the naval officer declared that the navy's plane order, as well as the army's had been placed with the Consolidated company after competitive bidding. The contract was awarded because Consolidated's price was lower than any other, Admiral Moffett's letter pointed out, and for that reason the navy did not feel justified in arguing about the profits of the company had managed to make.

Mr. Fleet said his salary as president of the aircraft company has ranged from $10,000 a year to $18,255. During 1933, it was $13,548. In 1932 and 1933, he stated, he turned back a total of $15,172 to the company treasury to help defray operating costs.

Average Profit 12.4 Per Cent.

Regarding profits on naval plane orders, which governmental audits presented previously to the committee has shown to be unusually high, Mr. Fleet pointed out that Consolidated's average profit on naval contracts since 1927 was 12.4 per cent.

In 1927, he said, the profit was 49.5 per cent. But in 1930, the company suffered a net loss of 51.1 per cent on naval work, and last year on orders amounting to $1,876,000 the net loss was 2.5 per cent.

Experiments now under way, he added, are expected to develop the largest and longest range flying boat in the world.

Mr. Fleet ventured the suggestion that much of the present furor over allegedly high profits to private companies under army and navy plane construction contracts might be averted if the two services joined in a new system of procurement. If the airplane industry is going to be in a position to maintain itself regardless of federal assistance through contracts, he said, "you'll have to change present procurement methods, for something is wrong."

He offered a plan under which the government would pay actual costs for labor and materials used in service craft, grant a 100 per cent allowance based on these costs for plant maintenance and experimental development, and permit a reasonable profit to the company.

NO FRAUD IN AIR MAIL CONTRACTS, BROWN INSISTS

Cites Record of Meeting with Operators.

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Walter F. Brown, former postmaster general, declared here today there was no justification for the charge that any of the air mail contracts awarded during the Hoover administration were given out through collusion among the mail contractors "or by any other illegal method."

In a lengthy statement he dealt with the whole problem of the contracts awarded under the McNary-Watres act and outlined in detail discussions which took place prior to passage of the act. This act converted payments for air mail transport from a poundage to a space mileage basis.

Favors Non Mail Lines.

Mr. Brown revealed that he had been invited to appear Monday before the Black committee in the senate, which is investigating mail contracts. He had appealed to Washington for a hearing.

The former postmaster general, now an official of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad company, said he had favored provisions in the McNary-Watres act designed to assist operators who had no mail contracts. He asserted this was for the purpose of developing air passenger traffic, which he considered essential to the future development of aviation.

In specific denial of certain charges made last week of Postmaster General Farley in connection with the annulment of air mail contracts, Mr. Brown said:

"No suggestion of dividing air mail operations among the companies represented at the May 19 and June 4 [1930] meetings was ever made or contemplated and no suggestion with respect to bidding on air mail contracts or refraining to bid on air mail contracts was made at either of those meetings or at any other time.

Lowest Responsible Bidder.

"The only air mail operations of major importance, the Central and Southern Transcontinental operations, were awarded under the law relating to competitive bidding to the lowest responsible bidder."

Mr. Brown said passenger carriers which had no contracts were disappointed that the clause which would permit him to give them contracts had been stricken from the bill, and that for this reason he invited their representative to the May 19 meeting to work out some method whereby they might be aided.

Mr. Brown was asked yesterday to comment on Postmaster General Farley's telegram to Col. Lindbergh, who protested the air mail contract annulments, stating that if the colonel was acquainted with all the facts he would not feel as he did about the action.

"Col. Lindbergh knows more than any other person outside the postoffice department about air mail operation," asserted Mr. Brown, "and the efforts of the department to promote an economically independent aviation industry.

"The colonel of course had nothing to do with the making of any contracts. He devoted himself entirely to the technical side of air transport."

Farley to Ignore Court Order.

Postmaster General Farley, who was ordered Tuesday by Federal Judge John C. Show to show cause why he should not be restrained from canceling the air mail contracts of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., will not be in court when the hearing is begun here tomorrow.

Martin Conboy, federal attorney, who will appear in behalf of Postmaster John J. Kiely of New York, also a defendant in the TWA action, explained that the government did not regard service of the Show cause order upon Mr. Farley in Washington as legal.

BOMB SMASHES SMOKESHOP; SEE HANDBOOK WAR

A terrific bomb explosion wrecked the front of the Cornelia smokeshop at 3511 North Halsted street, half a block from the Town Hall police station, early this morning and jarred hundreds of apartment dwellers in the vicinity. Windows all around were shattered and total damage was estimated at close to $3,000.

Investigation disclosed, police said, that the smokeshop was a blind for a handbook. In this connection it was reported that the bomb was probably the opening attack in a war between the west and north side handbook syndicates. The Cornelia smokeshop, it was said, was opened six weeks ago by the west side group headed by a man named Fink. This group, according to reports, has been moving into the north side and freezing out established bookies by offering higher prices on wagers.

The bomb was exploded at 12:45. Mrs. Dorothy Nelson, 755 Cornelia avenue, looking out her apartment window, heard the blast and then saw a man run, gun in hand, to a waiting automobile, into which he climbed. He drove away at high speed.

The explosion wrecked the front of the smokeshop, broke windows in the three story apartment building at 3512 North Halsted street, and shattered front windows in a barber shop, a butcher shop, and a tailor shop in the same section.

Bronchial Irritations Need Creosote

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds, and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion, with creosote and six other highly important medical elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

BROWN'S REPLY TO FARLEY IN U. S. AIR MAIL CONTRACT CANCELLATIONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Following is a statement issued tonight by Walter F. Brown, former postmaster general, regarding the charges of fraud and collusion made by Postmaster General Farley in connection with the cancellation of air mail contracts:

There is absolutely no justification for the charge that any of the air mail contracts were awarded through collusion among contractors or by any other illegal practice.

The facts about the meetings of air mail and air passenger operators held at the postoffice department May 19 and June 4, 1930, are as follows:

The air mail act of April 30, 1930, known as the McNary-Watres act, when it was introduced in the house contained a provision designed to assist air passenger carriers who had no mail contracts, because it was believed that the development of air passenger traffic was essential to the permanence of the transport industry.

Quotes Language Stricken Out.

The language to which reference is made was as follows:

"Provided, that when in his opinion the public interests shall so require, he (postmaster general) may award such contracts by negotiation and without advertising for or considering bids. In awarding air mail contracts the postmaster general will give proper consideration to the equities of air mail and other aircraft operators with respect to the routes which they have been operating and the territories which they have been serving."

Opposition to the awarding of contracts by negotiation developed in the committee on postoffices and post roads to which this legislation was referred, and the language above quoted finally was stricken from the bill, although the last clause directing the postmaster general to give proper consideration to the equities of air mail and other aircraft operators was given approval in the discussions of the bill in the committee and on the floor of the house.

This Insert in Measure.

"Provided, that where the air mail moving between the designated points does not exceed 25 cubic feet, or 225 pounds, per trip the postmaster general may award to the lowest responsible bidder, who has owned and operated an air transportation service on a fixed daily schedule over a distance of not less than 250 miles and for a period of not less than six months prior to the advertisement for bids, a contract at a rate not to exceed 40 cents per mile for a weight space of 25 cubic feet, or 225 pounds. Whenever sufficient air mail is not available, first class mail matter may be added to make up the maximum load specified in such contract.

When it was decided to strike from the bill the authority to buy mail space in passenger planes by negotiation, believing that it would be impossible to develop commercial aviation through the air passenger lines that had no air mail contracts, I succeeded in inserting in section 5 of the bill, after the phrase:

"Orders that may be issued by the postmaster general for meeting the needs of postal service and adjusting mail operations to the art of flying," and the following, "and passenger transportation," having decided that passenger operations essential to permanence of the air transportation industry must be developed, if at all, by compelling the air mail contractors to carry passengers.

Had No Air Mail Contracts.

The passenger carriers who had no air mail contracts, but who had been very active in urging the passage of the bill, were greatly disappointed that the proviso for their relief had been stricken from the bill.

A representative of one of them told me that some of the passenger carriers were complaining that I had not made a vigorous fight for the clause in which they were interested, and suggested the propriety of inviting the passenger carriers who had no air mail contracts and the air mail contractors to meet together with me for the purpose of advising them with respect to the department's effort to secure the passage of the bill in substantially its original form, and further to see if under the law as it was enacted any relief could be afforded to the passenger carriers who had no air mail contracts, through the coöperation of the air mail contractors and the postoffice department. The suggestion was made that relief might be afforded in one or both of two ways.

First, by giving additional daylight mail schedules to air mail contractors and permitting them to sublet the same to passenger operators who had no air mail contracts and whose operations paralleled air mail routes, and,

Second—By giving extensions under the provision of section 6 of the act to air mail operators and authorizing the subletting of the same to passenger carriers that had no air mail contracts.

Invited to Meet with Brown.

The air transport operators who had no mail contracts and the air mail contractors were accordingly invited to meet with the postmaster general on the 19th of May, 1930. In opening the meeting I traced in detail the various legislative proceedings connected with the introduction and passage of the McNary-Watres act, stressing the department's efforts to preserve the provisions designed to prevent the abandonment of air passenger operations.

I stated to the meeting the practical difficulties in the way of giving them relief under the provisions of law adopted in lieu of the authority to buy mail space by negotiation, although that language had been written into the act to assist the passenger carriers. I repeated to the meeting the suggestion made for their relief by the subletting of operations from the air mail contractors, without approving the same, however, as I had serious misgivings with respect to its practicability and soundness.

I invited the judgment of the operators with respect to the plan suggested, and told them in a general way our ideas, so far as they had been formulated, for extending the air mail service throughout the country, and invited their opinions as to what air mail and other aircraft operators, in the language of the original proviso of the McNary-Watres bill, had equities with respect to any of the routes then in existence or under consideration.

Turns Meeting Over to Operators.

I then turned the meeting over to the operators. Later in the day I was informed that they had recessed for the purpose of consulting their counsel and executives. Earl Wadsworth, superintendent of air mail, who was present at the meeting, made a memorandum of the proceedings, as follows:

"The postmaster general invited representatives of passenger air lines to meet with him in conference at 2 p. m. on May 19 for the purpose of discussing the provisions of the Watres bill in so far as it offered aid to the passenger lines.

"The following persons were present: Messrs. Russel, Hanshue, Woolley, and Bishop of Western Air express; Messrs. Mayo and Patterson of Stout Air lines; Messrs. Maddux, Sheaffer, Cuthel, Furlow of T. A. T. Maddux Air lines; Messrs. Coburn and Hinshaw of Aviation corporation; Messrs. White and Johnson of United Aircraft corporation; Messrs. Doe and Elliott of Eastern Air transport; Mr. Henderson of National Air transport; Messrs. Marshall and Denning Thompson of Aeronautical corporation; Messrs. Robbins and Hahn of Pittsburgh Aviation industry; Mr. Van Zant; Mr. Lou Holland of United States Air transport; Mr. Ted Clark, representing Earl Hilliburton and Lawrence King from Detroit.

Suggestions Are Asked For.

"The postmaster general opened the meeting by discussing the general provisions of the Watres bill and invited suggestions from those present as to the ways and means of assisting the passenger operators, inasmuch as it is understood none of the so-called strictly passenger lines are breaking even, and it is apparent that they will need some assistance if they are to continue. The P. M. G. expressed the desire to know whether it is going to be possible for the so-called pioneers to agree among themselves as to the territory in which they shall have the paramount interest. He outlined certain prospective routes that were in contemplation somewhat as follows: A southern transcontinental route from Los Angeles to San Diego, thence to Fort Worth and Dallas; also a route from New York to St. Louis and Kansas City and Los Angeles; from St. Louis to Tulsa and Fort Worth; from St. Paul to Winnipeg; possibly from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Omaha; possibly a route south from Cheyenne, and possibly one from Albany to Boston. He referred to the plan mentioned below.

"Col. Henderson said: 'I believe it is quite possible for this group to work out a plan.' He asked for instructions from the P. M. G. as to some policy. He mentioned extensions and then assigning such extensions to some operator who has no mail contract. He indicated the air mail contractors would be willing to agree to such a plan.

Opposes Competitive Bidding.

"Mr. Maddux feels that if they do not receive an air mail contract they could not live, and he hoped the bill would take care of this. He would rather see the plan worked out as mentioned above than competitive bidding. He said, 'That is the view of T. A. T.'

"Mr. Mayo said: 'I think the suggestion is a good one rather than to have competitive bidding.' He thinks the routes we have worked out with the directors on their certificates are fair, etc.

"Mr. Clark said: 'I would prefer the plan suggested rather than competitive bidding.'

"Mr. Lou Holland said: 'I think it should be worked out by agreement, as I am afraid that competitive bidding will result in wild promotions.'

Anyway to Avoid Bidding.

"Mr. Hanshue: 'We are willing to do anything within reason to work out the plan rather than to go into competitive bidding.'

"Mr. White: 'I feel sure that the entire group would be delighted to go into such a conference and work it out along the lines suggested.'

"Mr. Coburn: 'I believe there is a community of interests among the operators in the department, and they are ready to coöperate and find out how to do it.'

"The P. M. G. asked every one to speak if there were any objections to the plan suggested and said that this was the appropriate time to express their opinions or objections thereto. No one rose in objection to the plan.

What MacCracken Suggested.

"Mr. MacCracken suggested grouping the representatives together according to locality in order to work out the details of the plan or any other plan that might be gotten up, suggesting they might even have four committees, or an eastern and a western committee.

"Col. Henderson thinks those who have air mail contracts should be organized into one committee and those who have no air mail contracts should be organized into another committee.

"Mr. Cuthel suggested that certain members of this group present to the postmaster general a grouping of companies to deal with southern and mid-continent transcontinental routes.

"The P. M. G. decided to permit the operators to use the room in which the meeting was held for the purpose of organizing themselves into such groups as may be and to report back to the P. M. G. when they reached a conclusion with regard to the suggested plan. He suggested that they stick to the routes outlined."

[At this point Mr. Brown quoted a statement which the department released to the press on May 19.]

Operators Submit Report.

On the 4th of June the air passenger operators who had no mail contracts and air mail contractors reassembled either in a body or by a committee and submitted to me a report of their deliberations, which is as follows:

Washington, D. C.

"My Dear Mr. Postmaster General:

"Pursuant to your invitation, representatives of the air transport operators met on Monday, May 19, to formulate recommendations for the extension of the air mail service, with a view to the participation in this service of air transport operators now engaged exclusively in passenger and express service.

These Recommendations Made.

"This committee has held numerous sessions during the time which has intervened since the first meeting, and a list of those in attendance at one or more of these sessions is hereto attached.

"The committee also submits with this report a map indicating its recommendations, as well as the problems which remain unsolved.

The committee has made a study of twelve routes, and has agreed upon recommendations as to seven of these, while as to the remaining five there are still some matters in controversy.

"Recommendations:

No. 3—Omaha to St. Paul and Winnipeg: Northwest Airways, now flying entire route.

No. 4—Albany to Boston: Aviation Corporation.

No. 7—Denver to Kansas City: United States Air lines, now flying route.

No. 8—Pueblo to Fort Worth and Dallas: Western Air Express, now flying route.

No. 9—Pueblo to El Paso: Western Air Express, now flying route.

No. 11—Great Falls to Lethridge: National Parks Airways, only party in interest.

No. 12—Seattle to Vancouver: United, first schedule; Varney Air lines.

Second schedule—routes which are still the subject of negotiation:

No. 5—Pittsburgh to Washington and Norfolk: Final terms not yet arranged.

No 1—Los Angeles, San Diego, El Paso, Dallas to Atlanta.

No. 6—Dallas to Louisville: Atlanta to Dallas: Eastern Air Transport and Delta Air service.

Los Angeles, San Diego, El Paso to Dallas: Western Air Express and Aviation Corporation.

No. 2—Los Angeles, Albuquerque, Kansas City, St. Louis, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and New York.

No. 10—Amarillo, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and St. Louis [Tulsa cutoff].

Kansas City to New York—Transcontinental Air Transport and Pittsburgh Aviation Industries. Los Angeles to Kansas City, Amarillo, Oklahoma City, Tulsa to St. Louis, Western Air Express and Transcontinental Air Transport. Amarillo, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and St. Louis cutoff—Western Air Express; Southwest Air Fast Express; Transcontinental Air Transport.

Offers to Abandon Line.

"Because of the line of N. A. T. [United] south of Kansas City seemed to stand in the way of a proper solution of several of our problems, United has suggested that it abandon its line south of Kansas City and take over some other line of equal value, such line to be one that might be properly operated in connection with United's other lines. This would permit the clearing of the Mid-Transcontinental of its N. A. T. contract between Wichita and Kansas City and would open the N. A. T. line south of Kansas City and Wichita for proper disposition in harmony with the postmaster general's ideas. The suggestion has been made that Southwest Air Fast Express might operate the service on C. A. M. 3 south of Wichita and south of Kansas City.

"The operators interested in the routes under controversy have all agreed to submit the issues to the postmaster general in the hope that a satisfactory solution may be reached. They request that an opportunity be afforded them to present their claims for consideration of the respective routes, in such manner and at such time as may be designated by the postmaster general."

Memorandum by Wadsworth.

"At 3:15 p. m. on June 4 the representatives of passenger air lines met in conference with the postmaster general here in the department.

"Mr. MacCracken, who had been named as chairman of the operators' committee, presented to the postmaster general a report together with a map indicating the result of the deliberations of these gentlemen.

"The postmaster general stated he would carefully consider this report and he would inform them of any results that might be reached. Thereupon the postmaster general, Mr. Glover and Mr. Wadsworth retired from the room to the office of the postmaster general and the report was carefully read.

Seeks Controler's Opinion.

"After reading over the report several times it was decided to submit to the controler general the question of just how far the department could go in granting extensions to existing routes. It was thought best to do this before we took any further action with reference to this matter. The postmaster general indicated that he would take the matter up with the controler general himself and seek to obtain a decision with regard thereto.

"In a short while Mr. W. Glover informally returned to the room where the operators were waiting and informed them that the department was somewhat disappointed in their report, inasmuch as they had in effect 'taken all the meat and left the bones.' They were told, however, that the report would be carefully studied and any decision reached would be indicated to them.

"As a result thereof the operators indicated they were preparing a supplemental report and would submit the same."

This report of the operators was placed on file and no further consideration was given to it for the reason that I had reached a definite conclusion that the plan previously suggested of affording aid to the passenger carriers who had no mail contracts was impracticable and unsound, and if passenger operations were to be developed by the postoffice department in order to lighten the burden of the air mail services and ultimately create an economically independent transportation industry, the air mail contractors themselves must be forced to develop a passenger and express business.

Only Extension Granted.

The only extensions suggested by the report quoted which the department subsequently authorized were extensions which the department had under consideration before the meeting of May 19, and which would have been made whether the industry approved or disapproved the same.

No suggestion of dividing air mail operations among the companies represented at the May 19 and June 4 meetings was ever made or contemplated and no suggestion with respect to bidding on air mail contracts or refraining to bid on air mail contracts was made at either of these meetings or at any other time.

The only air mail operations of major importance, the central and southern transcontinental operations, were awarded under the provisions of the law relating to competitive bidding to the lowest responsible bidder.

AIR LINE OFFERS TO SELL AFTER LOSING ITS MAIL CONTRACT

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—W. P. Kenney, president of the Great Northern railroad, tonight confirmed rumors that he and Charles R. Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, had been approached by officials of Northwest Airways on the sale of the air line properties to the two railroads.

No decision on the proposed deal has been reached, Kenney said. Northwest Airways, which operate between Chicago and Seattle, via Fargo, N. D., and Billings, Mont., is losing its air mail contract along with nine other air lines Sunday at midnight. The law under which the mail contracts are being canceled states that the same company cannot bid on new air mail contracts for a period of five years. If the company is sold, or otherwise reorganized, there is a possibility that it will be allowed to bid before that time has elapsed.

Previously Northwest Airways officials had said that the company would cease operations when the mail contract cancelation is effected.

Wife, on Relief Rolls, Sues Wealthy Husband

Edwin Neise, former bank official, has "wads of money" while his wife, Bertha, 729 Montrose avenue, and his four children are on the relief rolls. This was the charge made yesterday by Mrs. Neise, who asked support money for herself and the children pending the hearing of her bill for divorce. Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court ordered Neise to pay $100 a month to his wife and children.

Nature's Way A GENTLE FLUSH

Avoid Laxatives That Constipate!

Ever hear of "cathartic constipation?" Medicine laxatives cause it. Most of them work by irritating the membranes of the digestive tract—and when taken regularly lose their effect. Soon the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip!

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle — but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water — is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish — get results within an hour — and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces) — large bottles (3 times the quantity). At all druggists.

MR. FARLEY PRESENTS HIS CASE.

The release by Postmaster General Farley of the information upon which the air mail contracts were canceled as being invalidated by conspiracy, collusion and fraud leaves the controversy still one in which fair judgment will be suspended judgment.

No one need have any illusions regarding the manner in which many government contracts are manipulated. There are too many heavily influential men not officially connected with government running around Washington now as in the past, in the new as well as the old deal, to leave any doubt as to hopes and purposes. Nor would one be inclined to make any great distinctions between the postoffice under Mr. Farley and the postoffice under Mr. Brown other than the difference that one is Democratic and the other was Republican. Mr. Farley, the former member of the New York fight commission, would bring no greater personal distinction to the department than Mr. Brown did.

The contracts may have been tainted with fraud. The inquiry has been ex-parte and not judicial. There is always the possibility that undeserving Republicans have what deserving Democrats want, but, then, Mr. Farley may have another Tea Pot dome instance. Mr. Brown and his associates and the air companies, who have lost the mails, will have to defend themselves.

One general consideration can be taken into account. When a new service is being established, undertaken by private enterprise and important to the government, the methods of fostering it are not precisely those of dealing with enterprise on known ground, with known risks, and familiar methods. Private enterprise takes a gamble. The government for its own good may back the gamble more heavily than it could in justice or reason back a going concern. Honorable men can do this honestly. Dishonest men will do it corruptly.

When private enterprise takes a chance in which success will benefit the entire nation and failure will injure only the investors the enterprise is entitled to profits commensurate with the risks taken. That is not an excuse for fraud, but it is a reason for arrangements which could not be justified in another case in which the risks were all plain and the return fairly assured.

American commercial aviation took chances and, before this scandal hit it, was doing its job, establishing air transport and providing trained air men, fit to the moment, as a reserve in national defense. The stake the nation has in this venture should not be obscured. If scandal has tarnished it the scandal should be washed out, not whitewashed out but washed out. Then the policy should be to encourage air transport in the form in which the best results can be had and surely that will not be in giving the mail to the army and limiting commercial aviation to passengers and express.

THE TUGWELL BILL.

The propaganda demanding the enactment of the Tugwell bill without important amendment calls for intelligent discrimination on the part of congress and the public. In spite of self-righteous assertion of noble motive, it is unscrupulous and reckless of the public good. It ascribes moral turpitude to any critic or dissenter and attempts to cover the deficiencies of the measure or overawe objections by this means. Fair minded Americans will resent this effort to discredit rational criticism and legitimate objection by a process of bullying which has been employed before to bring about ineffective or injurious legislation.

Generally speaking, the bill even in its moderately amended form provides for broad and vague powers which no government bureau should have, and should be thoroughly reconsidered in the interest of legitimate industry. There has been in our legal policy from the first the doctrine that it is better that nine guilty should escape than one innocent suffer, but this doctrine seems to have been reversed by the authors of the Tugwell bill. The definitions of offenses in the bill should be carefully considered in the interest of clarity and justice. The amendments devised by the subcommittee are not adequate in this respect. The legitimate industries and businesses concerned should not be subjected to impossible requirements or vagaries of burocratic regulation.

Even more important than the correction of defects in the details of the bill is a sensible consideration of its general character and results. The bill as written requires the creation and maintenance of a very large corps of federal agents to operate throughout the country in investigation and regulation. Congress should consider this aspect of the bill and determine whether public policy justifies the expansion of federal burocratic supervision and regulation to the extent provided by the bill. We doubt that it does, but there can be no rational doubt that congress should not authorize any such expansion and public expenditure under the influence of clamor or until it has studied the actual extent of existing evils and considered how they can be corrected or restrained without unnecessarily or improperly burdening and endangering legitimate enterprise and putting upon the shoulders of the taxpayers an unnecessary burden of expense for the maintenance of a huge bureau.

The practical method of correcting the weaknesses of the present system of regulation is to amend it as experience with its operation has demonstrated that it needs amendment for public protection. But this would have fallen short of the ambitions of Prof. Tugwell and Mr. Campbell, the authors of the measure, who seem to have an unrestrained enthusiasm for burocracy and very little regard for what it costs the public or whether its benefits are in proportion to its cost. The nation has just rid itself of an expensive and widely demoralizing experiment in federal regulation, and we are confident if given the chance to consider the new experiment will expect congress to bring it within sensible proportions.

If there are loopholes in the existing Food and Drug acts that jeopardize life, health and fair dealing, they should be closed by appropriate amendment. Advertising and legitimate business should be protected from such abuses. But congress should show some sense of proportion between the evils existing and the means of correction. There is at Washington at this time an unlimited enthusiasm for the increase of the power of federal government and the extension of its activities throughout the life of the nation. Of this the Tugwell bill is an outstanding expression. But the disposal of the prohibition experiment does not indicate that this enthusiasm is shared by a substantial majority of the American people.

SUBSERVIENT JUDGES.

The forthright report of the governors of the Bar association regarding what must be called the master-in-chancery racket should go a long way toward remedying a grave abuse. The report exposes the racket in detail. The president of the association, Mr. John D. Black, left no doubt that if publicity fails to bring about the desired improvement, disbarment, impeachment, and contempt of court proceedings will be instituted, as they assuredly should be.

Judges summoned before the bar committee confessed that they had appointed as masters men whose principal qualification for the office was their political affiliation. The master-in-chancery's fees are substantial, with the consequence that the positions are extraordinarily juicy plums. Between June and November, 1932, George E. Gorman, a master in the Circuit court, received fees totaling more than $95,000 from the 29 most important cases referred to him. In the Superior court, in the same brief period, Louis Behan in 39 cases received fees of more than $79,000. These are the outstanding fees in the two courts, but many other masters have shared in the easy money to greater or less extent. Seven masters in the Circuit court received fees of $27,000 or more from their principal foreclosure cases between June and November and seven masters in the Superior court received fees of more than $15,000 under similar circumstances.

The size of the fees is vastly in excess of the value of the services rendered and should be reduced by the legislature at the first opportunity. The suggestion of the Bar association that the masters receive fixed salaries instead of fees is sound.

It would be unfortunate, however, if excessive fees should come to be regarded as the principal object of the association's attack. It is not. Excessive fees are an abuse of the sort which generally can be found in foreclosure and receivership proceedings. Carrion always has attracted buzzards and always will. The much more revolting and much more dangerous abuse which the association has exposed is the subservience of the judges to their political bosses as shown in the appointment of masters and again in the assignment of cases to masters. Judges who are so lacking in independence are plainly unfit to hold office.

One recommendation of the Bar association can and should be put into operation at once. The association holds that pending a more drastic change in the method of referring cases to masters the agreement of opposing counsel be followed by the court unless it has good reason for not doing so. That practice never should have been departed from.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY TREATY.

[Bridgeport, Conn., Telegram.]

"The excuse for the existence of this St. Lawrence waterway which seemed good at a time when maximum prosperity was the rule and when factories were hardly able to move their goods and raw materials fast enough has ceased to exist since the collapse of 1929 left our common carriers with less business than they needed to stay alive."

◆

[Baltimore Sun.]

"There should be a resurvey of the cost of the project and also of its need in view of the profound alterations that have occurred in our foreign trade relations."

◆

[Huntington, W. Va., Advertiser.]

"No section of the country would feel the blow more than southern West Virginia, dependent as it is for its prosperity and well-being upon the coal industry's profitable trade with the great lakes region and the railroads engaged in carrying the coal to the market.

"The appeal of the Kanawha operators to Senator Neely and Senator Hatfield to set themselves against the waterway project unquestionably speaks the sentiment of every West Virginian who has given a moment of serious thought to the matter."

◆

[New York Times.]

"The more immediate considerations were put with his usual succinctness by ex-Gov. Smith when he said in his report as a member of the national transportation committee headed by the late President Coolidge:

"'I am opposed at this time to the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, because it would be a waste of public funds. Present railway facilities are more than adequate to provide for everything which the proposed canal can accomplish.'"

◆

[Wichita, Kas., Eagle.]

"America will spend $4 or $5 to Canada's $1 in developing the St. Lawrence waterway. But then no nation ever willingly goes fifty-fifty with Uncle Sam."

◆

[Salem, O., News.]

"Unfortunately, it has not been demonstrated by any competent authority that the vastly expensive task of opening the great lakes to ocean traffic is logical."

THE NEWS FROM AUSTRIA must make these very sad days for the pacifists. It would seem as though if nations were prevailed upon not to take up arms against each other, then they start a war inside the nation and fellow countrymen shoot each other into smithereens. And besides the Austrian trouble may start a world conflagration. Germany and Italy are asking right now if this Austrian thing is a private war or can anybody get in.

NO DOOR.

I love my house, its pictured walls,
The rugs upon the floor.
It suits me well. It lacks but this—
It hasn't any door.

Its windows look on lovely lands,
Its chimney reaches high
To let its wood-smoke clouds converse
With rain clouds in the sky.

My firelight glints on brazen dogs
And flickers on old books,
Ancient embroideries gleam out
To brighten dingy nooks.

I think that if I had a door
I'd keep it fastened tight,
Except, perhaps, to let the stars
Slip in some winter night.

Oh, I would surely keep it closed
Except on High-days, then
I'd fling it wide to watch the throng,
Then pull it tight again.

Yes. I would really keep it shut;
I only like to see
A door so I can feel at ease
To open and run free.

I may be foolish, ask too much.
Is it a whim, or more
That makes me somehow feel my house
Should really have a door?

LOOKING FORWARD.

Let clouds be in the sky
But not upon your face.
We cannot govern rain on high
But tears are out of place.

We may not say "it shall not rain"
Or that a day be bright,
Yet we can self-control attain
And judge the wrong from right.

And we can hold our courage still,
Nor weep for things in vain.
The light shall be upon the hill
That we shall tread again.

TEN DAYS IN JAIL for Mr. MacCracken, which was the frightful doom visited on him by the senate for defying its orders and destroying government records, doesn't seem so horrible if you think it over. In the first place some court may knock the sentence out on appeal and in the second place it will probably be a very nice jail with south front, running water and a canary singing sweetly in the window. And maybe the senate will send him a gold headed cane and a box of cigars and ask him what he wants for Christmas. Defying the senate seems to be just a merry indoor game down in Washington.

STILL AFTER DECAY.

A SOLUTION of the problem of dental decay is well on the way. It will not be many years until we know just how and why teeth decay. At this time the process can be prevented, and even the walls of a cavity can be made to become hard or even to be reënameled. In some future day we will have all the information needed, for we have much of it now.

The remaining problems will be how to get the facts to the people, and how to get them to make use of them—neither problem altogether easy to accomplish.

The dentists are waging a red hot battle or, rather, a hard fought war on the subject. When they get through the truth will be available. One side claims that brushing and cleaning the teeth is all important. In their view decay is the result of the action of bacteria. These grow on remnants of food and secrete acids which rob areas of the teeth of its minerals. Next, other ferments secreted by the bacteria destroy the organic matter. The two processes combined make what is called tooth decay.

Another group says decay is the result of poor quality of the tooth which, in turn, is the result of poor nutrition. This group divides into several subgroups, one of which thinks decay is caused by eating soft foods and too little grinding and chewing.

Another side regards it as the result of eating foods deficient in minerals, and especially phosphorus and lime. Several other groups regard it as due to eating foods that are deficient in vitamins. Here, too, there is a further subdivision. Some think vitamin A deficiency is responsible, and advise a diet rich in fruits. Some think lack of vitamin D is the cause, and advise a diet rich in this vitamin. Some suggest deficiencies in vitamin B.

Dr. W. A. Price has made a worldwide study, which has led him to think there is some truth in each of these theories but, in addition, he offers another point of view. His study included groups of people in some parts of the world where there are almost no decayed teeth and in other regions where decay is prevalent.

His conclusion is that fabrication of food is the principal cause of tooth decay. Above all, it is important that when we eat grain we should limit ourselves to grain that has been freed of dirt but, after that, ground or broken in such a way as that it contains all the minerals and vitamins. It is a matter of indifference whether the grain is wheat, rye, barley, or oats, or whether it is ground coarse or fine, but it must contain all the ingredients of the grain.

An important part of his theory is that the key to the situation is the saliva. If this secretion has an ample supply of buffer the teeth do not decay. Otherwise they do.

The litmus paper test of saliva throws no light on its qualities as a buffer. The most important mineral element in the decay problem is phosphorus. It is more important than lime. Dr. Price tells his dentist readers how to test saliva for its buffer qualities and how to show its action on bone as well as on phosphorus and lime.

LOCOMOTOR.

D. writes: My father has locomotor ataxia. Can you suggest some way in which we could help him?

REPLY.

We have a booklet on locomotor ataxia. You can get this by sending 10 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope.

MAY BE DRY AIR.

D. S. writes: What may be lacking in my system? For the last month my finger nails split, although my diet has not been changed.

REPLY.

Probably exposure to dry air is the cause. Cold outside air is very dry. It will not hold much moisture. Warmed inside air is also very dry.

POOR CIRCULATION.

Mrs. S. R. T. writes: I am 78 years of age and troubled very much with poor circulation. When I retire at night it seems that my legs from my knees down get very cold and remain this way all night, even though I have plenty of covers.

REPLY.

Poor circulation is one of the penalties of age. The leg blood vessels in old people are not good blood distributors. Wear loose wool stockings and loose warm shoes. Sleep in flannel pajamas with socks attached.

SEE A PHYSICIAN.

A. H. G. writes: My mother, 72 years old, has had a severe itching on her arms and legs for about four weeks. Now that has passed and she has a pain in her big toe of the right foot, which has turned dark color and pains her.

REPLY.

Have a physician examine her. The symptoms given may mean dry gangrene or something else that needs attention.

REMOVING CORNS.

R. N. writes: Can corns be removed permanently?

REPLY.

Yes, by wearing shoes that fit perfectly. There is no other way.

KEEPING FEET WARM.

H. H. writes: In reference to L.'s suggestion for making bags to keep the feet warm, the writer wishes to suggest a much simpler method. A pair of good soft wool golf hose I've tried on very cold nights and know their efficiency.

ANNULMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What is the procedure necessary to annul a marriage made in Waukegan, Ill., when both parties are under age? 2. Should it be annulled before either party becomes 21 years of age, or after one or both of them reach this age? 3. Must the complainant be over or under 21? 4. Must the parents have anything to do with the annulment? R. W. V.

1. In our opinion the mere fact that the parties were under age is not a valid ground for annulment, but you might be able to find a judge who would be willing to enter a decree. If you wish to make the attempt you should employ an attorney.

2. The sooner you act the better the chances of success.

3. There is no absolute rule on the point.

4. The fact that the parents did not consent might have some influence in inducing a judge to enter a decree.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VATICAN CITY.—The Vatican is marshaling its spiritual forces for a renewed fight against the anti-religion campaign in soviet Russia.

Under the name of its chief editor, the Osservatore Romano on its front page publishes a violent attack against Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov for the alleged anti-Christian campaign in Russia at Christmas time. It is alleged mockery was made of Pope Pius XI. and injuries against Christianity broadcast over the radio.

The Vatican organ's attack is interesting to Americans perhaps in view of the fact that one of the conditions of American recognition was a guarantee of religious freedom.

The Osservatore's editor asks if this Christmas campaign against religion is the consequence of "Litvinov's assurances of religious liberty and respect for religious convictions"—assurances, he says, which would appear to be fundamental and constitutional.

"If in fact these acts are proofs that there is absolute liberty for atheism," continues the Osservatore, "where do you see the liberty which at the same time was to be accorded religion? Can you imagine a similar campaign in favor of celebrating Christmas or for exalting the figure of Christ and of the pope?"

Not content with pointing to these contradictions to the promises of Litvinov and the acts of his government, the Vatican organ makes an appeal to the powers to whom these assurances of religious liberty were given. It declares:

"Since we are concerned with these manifestations against Christ, against capitalism, and against armaments, can we not equally ask: To whom are these significant amenities dedicated?

"Japan was certainly not in question when the Russians published those cartoons of Christ baptizing armaments and ferocities of capitalistic Christians, a fitting greeting to those Christian nations which had just given Maxim Litvinov such a welcome and with whom he had just concluded accords of commerce, friendship, and nonaggression.

"How sincere, how honest were all these manifestations on the part of the Russian? He trades with capitalism on the one side and heaps malediction on it from the other. He proposes to make ties of friendship with those who, at the same time, he denounces as enemies. He makes pacts of nonaggression with those he accuses of preparing aggression.

"The countries of the western world thought they had brought the prodigal Russian son back to the banquet of civilization. There is the toast which his thankful mind offers!"

The virulence of this article is believed in Vatican circles to set at rest reports that projects to negotiate an understanding between the Holy See and the soviet were in progress.

SIXTEEN CODES FOR ONE BUSINESS.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 10.—Your accurate and fearless editorial entitled "General Johnson's Elephantine Pets" compels me to break a lifetime rule, as I feel it necessary to do my small part in support of your stand in this matter.

You may be interested in a phase of the situation as it affects the concern with which I am connected. Ours is a small organization employing less than one hundred people, but makes specialties sold primarily to basic industries. These specialties are of a nature which could not be successfully made on a production basis, but with these specialties off the market the customer would be forced to purchase production products which would serve his purpose less perfectly.

Because of the widespread distribution of our products, we technically are supposed to subscribe to some sixteen codes of fair competition. Several of these code bodies have insisted that not only must we subscribe to the sales regulations of their codes, but must also place ourselves under their entire jurisdiction, submitting to them full details as to our financial setup, profits, stock on hand, raw and finished, and in fact all information which competitive organizations would need to make it possible for them to eliminate an undesirable competitor.

Some of these code organizations have even insisted that we may not sell in certain fields without complying with the regulations provided for in their particular codes.

May I compliment you on your editorial and sincerely hope that you will be able to accomplish something in the way of educating at least a portion of the American public and be able to partially offset the mass hypnotism of the present administration and the rapid spread of such ideas as commission, direct credits and the numerous other collectivisms and radical schemes?

The avidity with which the American public is taking up these radical ideas makes one wonder if there may be much truth in the old adage, "Those whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." H. L.

Highland Park, Ill., Feb. 5.—The United States treasury notes specify that the "interest and principal shall be paid in gold of present fineness and quantity or the value thereof." PLEA FOR A SCHOOL BUILDING.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—I am rather puzzled by the letter written by Mrs. Cora A. Graham, and published last Saturday morning in the Voice of the People. Whether or not an official record exists as to how many children have been taken ill and died as a result of exposure in attending the portable school buildings at 41st street and Lake Park avenue is surely beside the point. The fact that six hundred children living in the territory bounded by 29th street on the north, 45th street on the south, Cottage Grove avenue on the west, and Lake Michigan on the east have for the last sixteen years received their education in temporary portable buildings is an irrefutable argument in favor of a permanent school building. Is it possible that Mrs. Graham and the alleged members of the North Hyde Park Civic Improvement association begrudge the children of their own neighborhood the same advantages that children in other vicinities so freely receive?

Regardless of the excellent qualities and efficiency of the teaching staff at the portables, I fail to see how temporary tin huts, each heated by its own little coal stove, could be termed warm, cozy, comfortable, or well ventilated, especially during our rigorous winter months; now at last that we have a board of education, the majority of whom, at least, are making an honest effort to serve all sections of the city and all classes of citizens equally, I see no reason for discouraging their efforts.

WELL DESERVED CONTEMPT.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—A recent issue of the New York Law Journal laments the widespread stage and screen ridicule of bench and bar. It fears that the legal profession may be brought into disrepute.

That's one of the funniest fears this writer has seen feared right out in public for a good long while. Just a glance at some of the farces lately run off in our local courts gives piquancy to the laments of the learned Journal.

In spite of the upturned eyes of the American Bar association and its pious tut-tuts on the subject of ethics, the criminal branch of the profession has sunk so low in public contempt that it now has to reach up to touch bottom.

Defends Refusal to Ratify Versailles Treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.] — A bitter denunciation of the tactics of English statesmen who blame the present European crisis on the United States' failure to ratify the Versailles treaty was voiced in the senate today by Senator William E. Borah [Radical, Idaho], former chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and one of the "bitter enders" who blocked the treaty's ratification.

His remarks were directed at Stanley Baldwin, former British prime minister, and Harold Nicolson, member of the British foreign office, his text being a recent editorial in an eastern paper in which the two Britons were quoted as laying the blame for the present situation on the United States.

England Shared in Spoils.

High officials who adopted such tactics were emulating the strategy formerly exclusively employed by critics with "no reputation for truth and honor to maintain," Senator Borah said. It was not the United States' failure to ratify the treaty but the treaty itself which brought "economic chaos and widespread human suffering" in its train, the senator declared. Unlike the United States, which received no benefit from the treaty, whose President "sought to assuage its vindictive terms," Great Britain, Senator Borah asserted, had a leading part in making the treaty "the embodiment of the spirit of vengeance and of spoils."

Senator Borah began by saying that "English pride," to say nothing of a due regard for historic facts, should not have permitted British statesmen to make the statements they did

"Perversion of Facts."

"Statements of similar import," he continued, "have become somewhat common and were in the beginning of rather low origin. They sprang up after the war and were put forth by those who had no reputation for truth and honor to maintain. Distinguished gentlemen now adopting as their own slanders of such mean source and such questionable purpose will not be able to give to them respectability or even the color of truth. They are in plain terms a perversion of historic facts and, notwithstanding the high source from which they now come, are an ungracious libel upon a nation whose brave sons helped to keep the English channel from becoming a German lake.

"It is not in harmony with English traditions and presents a rather melancholy spectacle to see British statesmen searching about for some one upon whom to place the blame for their own policies. There has evidently been a break in the hereditary traits of English statesmen They have been known heretofore for the relentless way in which they have driven hard bargains for Britain But whether wise or unwise, they have always in manly fashion assumed responsibility for their own policies The craven spirit was never an attribute of English statesmen."

Discusses Treaty Itself.

Then he turned to a discussion of the Versailles treaty itself, the effects of its terms upon Europe, the manner in which President Wilson had sought to ameliorate its conditions, and the part Britain played in making those conditions utterly harsh.

"No ratification of the Versailles treaty by the United States," he said, "could have stayed the devastating, demoralizing, disintegrating effects of its terms upon the political and economical life of Europe. When finished it was the embodiment of the spirit of vengeance and of spoils. It sacrificed the peace and recovery of Europe to the imperialistic ambitions of a few victor nations."

KILLS HUSBAND AT TABLE; HELD TO GRAND JURY

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Mrs. Dolly Elwell, 28 years old, mother of two children, held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering her husband, James, 35 years old, general manager of a theater program printing company, earlier in the day. Mrs. Elwell confessed that she shot her husband three times with a .45 caliber pistol as they sat at breakfast in their apartment at 6231 South Park avenue.

"I did it to save my own life because he was threatening me with a butcher knife," she said.

Throughout the inquest Mrs. Elwell was comforted by her husband's mother, Mrs. Ellen Elwell, 7035 Emerald avenue. With her daughter-in-law sobbing on her shoulder while she stroked her hair, the elder Mrs. Elwell said: "She shall not be punished for this." Then she told her daughter-in-law: "Don't you worry about the babies. We'll take care of them." The children are young Mrs. Elwell's 15 months old son, John, and her 6 year old son, James.

The younger Mrs. Elwell, who did not testify at the inquest, told police that she shot her husband after an all night quarrel. She said Elwell had often beaten her. On Wednesday evening, she said, he began drinking heavily, and finally he told her to take the children and leave him. The quarrel was renewed yesterday morning when he threatened her with the knife, she asserted. She said she snatched up a pistol he had placed on the buffet in the dining room and fired at him.

COST PER CASE OF RELIEF WAGES INCREASES 91.7%

Boost Occurs Despite Drop in Aid Given.

The unit cost in social workers' salaries for providing relief to families on the rolls of the Cook county bureau of public welfare during the year ended last Oct. 31 increased 91.7 per cent, while the number of families actually receiving relief decreased 13.5 per cent.

During the same period the unit cost in social workers' salaries for providing relief to families on the rolls of the unemployment relief service, a division of the county bureau, increased 133.5 per cent, while the number of families receiving relief under that organization decreased 38.7 per cent.

These salary increases were disclosed yesterday in a study of the records of the bureau of public welfare, which doled out a total of $43,853,717 in direct relief during the year ended Oct. 31. On Wednesday it was disclosed that the salaries of social workers under the county bureau increased 65.6 per cent, while the number of families receiving relief decreased 13.5 per cent.

In the unit cost study undertaken yesterday the amount paid in social workers' salaries each month was divided by the number of active relief cases, to give the monthly cost in salaries necessary to provide each family with relief. Only active cases, those in which families are actually receiving relief, were considered, inasmuch as inactive cases still on the rolls, but not receiving aid, presumably demand little, if any, attention from the case workers.

Figures on Relief Costs.

A tabulation for the months involved, showing the number of active relief cases, the salaries paid, and the unit cost, follows:

	Active relief cases.	Salaries.	Unit cost.
December	136,537	239,452	1.75
Jan., 1933	146,271	252,550	1.73
February	151,911	264,285	1.74
March	158,975	291,547	1.83
April	157,890	318,586	2.02
May	168,239	346,195	2.05
June	148,201	361,068	2.43
July	131,808	373,587	2.83
August	119,363	373,869	3.13
September	109,112	371,996	3.41
October	107,965	372,737	3.45

While this increase in unit cost was taking place in the Cook county bureau of public welfare's relief administration as a whole, the unit cost was increasing greatly in one of the two divisions of the bureau, and being held closely to an established level in the other division.

Unit Cost Rises 133 Per Cent.

One of the two divisions is the unemployment relief service, which doled out about $33,000,000 in direct relief during the year ended last Oct. 31. Its unit cost increased 133.5 per cent while the number of active relief cases on its rolls dropped 38.7 per cent. A tabulation for this division follows:

	Active relief cases.	Salaries.	Unit cost.
December	114,201	185,692	1.62
Jan., 1933	121,072	193,295	1.59
February	125,397	200,348	1.59
March	130,493	219,685	1.68
April	127,549	235,413	1.84
May	120,734	246,236	2.04
June	104,370	256,595	2.46
July	90,226	262,760	2.91
August	76,883	261,666	3.40
September	67,657	254,095	3.75
October	64,633	252,294	3.90

The other division of the county bureau of public welfare, the field service division, handles problem relief cases, which ordinarily would require more attention for each case than do unemployment relief cases.

During the year ended last Oct. 31 the field service division doled out about $10,000,000 in direct relief. However, its number of active relief cases increased about 124 per cent during that period, while the unit cost increased only 14.8 per cent. The unit cost was high at the beginning of the year, 50 per cent greater, in fact, than the unit cost of the unemployment relief service in November, 1932.

	Active relief cases.	Salaries.	Unit cost.
Nov., 1932	19,346	$ 48,490	$2.50
December	22,336	53,760	2.40
Jan., 1933	25,199	59,307	2.35
February	26,514	63,937	2.41
March	28,482	71,863	2.52
April	30,341	82,973	2.73
May	47,505	99,959	2.10
June	43,831	104,472	2.38
July	41,582	110,484	2.65

Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of relief for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said yesterday that the reason for the increase in the cost of administering relief in Cook county, as represented in the increases per unit in social workers' salaries, is the result of the decrease of cases per case worker from 300 to 50 which was put into effect last summer. He said, however, that relief officials had not studied the increases they ordered on a unit cost basis.

REP. BURNS TO HEAD ILLINOIS INQUIRY ON COST OF GOVERNMENT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] was elected chairman of a legislative commission which will study methods of decreasing the cost of government and make recommendations to the general assembly.

Representative A. O. Galvin [Rep., Chicago] was named secretary. Other members are Representatives James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago], Frank W. McClure [Dem., Abingdon], and Hugh Cross [Rep., Jerseyville]. Senators on the commission are Frank J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago], Dan Serritella [Rep., Chicago], Harry C. Boeke [Dem., Freeport], R. W. Karraker [Dem., Jonesboro], and Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline].

Representative Burns made the following statement:

"The high cost of government is one of the most pressing and serious questions of the day. During the period of the present great depression the cost of government has increased. Those in power at the head of the various governments from the township on up are making further demands for the extension of their power and authority, all of which means increased taxation. There has been an utter failure on the part of government officials generally to realize the inability of the taxpayers to assume additional burdens of taxation. A notable exception has been Gov. Horner, who has been sympathetic toward the movement of reducing the cost of government, as far as his authority extends.

"The commission will make a study of township, city, county, and state government and it hopes to submit recommendations to the present or future sessions of the legislature, which will be helpful in accomplishing substantial reductions in the cost of government."

489 N. U. STUDENTS START TODAY ON U. S. RELIEF JOBS

Federal easy money will start 489 Northwestern university students on part time jobs today.

The money, $30,000, was made available to the university by the federal emergency relief headquarters at Washington, D. C. Formal approval was received by the university authorities yesterday from Federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

Of those to receive jobs, 367 are students on the Northwestern campus. The others are on McKinlock campus. Only students who would be compelled to drop out of school because of lack of funds are to be benefited. Most of the jobs will be clerical and stenographical.

Lawyer Fined $500 for Stock Exchange Tear Bomb

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Eugene S. Daniell Jr., Boston lawyer and Harvard graduate, was fined $500 today with the alternative of thirty days in Tombs prison, for the tear gas bombing of the New York Stock exchange last summer.

263,000 CWA WORKERS TAKEN OFF PAY ROLLS

Rest Will Be Dropped at Rate of 10% a Week.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The last pay day for more than 63,000 civil works employés today found Harry L. Hopkins trying to shape the organization's uncertain future should it be found necessary to retain some of the present force of 4,000,000 employés beyond the May 1 demobilization date.

Coincidentally, the civil works administrator and his aids were drafting new rules and regulations for the relief unit. These may set forth the policy already decided upon that those remaining on the pay rolls after tonight are to be dismissed at the rate of 10 per cent a week until demobilization is completed.

Depends on Trade Revival.

The President apparently has adhered to his determination to liquidate the hastily assembled employment organization by the end of April. It has been indicated, however, that thousands may be retained on the pay rolls should the revival in industry looked for by the administration not materialize.

In that event, civil works might form the nuculeus for the work insurance advocated by Hopkins and carefully prepared projects would be chosen for completion. CWA directors admit frankly that its primary aim has been to put men to work and that to do that any number of projects were undertaken which had little economic value.

Hopkins, who also is federal relief director, visualizes work insurance support as a supplement to unemployment insurance similar to the British system which levies a tax on both employer and employé. The government supplies in addition about one-third of the necessary funds.

The new CWA regulations are to conform to the provisions of the $950,000,000 appropriation measure carrying funds for CWA and direct federal relief, which President Roosevelt signed today.

At civil works headquarters it was said today that the weekly dismissal of 10 per cent of the employés had been decided on but that it might be done through field instructions or might be stipulated in the new rules.

The southern states will feel the brunt of the next series of demobilization orders. The fact that farming has begun in many sections there is expected to lessen the shock. Gradually workers will be taken off northern states pay rolls.

Sleeping Sickness Fatal to Girl Patient at Dixon

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Anna Halber, a patient at the Dixon State hospital, committed to the institution by a Cook county court in 1930, died last nigth of sleeping sickness. She was 18 years old.

CWA MEN TALK CREW ON BRIDGE INTO A WALKOUT

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 15.—(AP)—More than 300 CWA workers protesting wages paid on a PWA bridge project here marched to the bridge today and persuaded the employés to quit work. There was no violence.

The CWA men were laid off from their jobs by delay in federal CWA fund allotments.

The wage scale against which the CWA men protested is 40 cents an hour for common labor and 60 cents an hour for skilled labor. They contended the bridge job should pay the NRA scale of 55 cents and $1.20.

The demonstration followed protests both by Iowa labor and Iowa contractors when the contract for the bridge sin Bridge & Iron company of Mil- was awarded Jan. 23 to the Wiscon- waukee for $158,000.

The Wisconsin company contends funds for the bridge job were allotted out of 300 million dollars given to the federal bureau of roads under the department of agriculture, and, therefore, are not subject to the public works administration wage scale.

INDICTED BY U. S. ON CHARGE OF CWA FRAUD PLOT

Samuel Miller, an official of the Miller Supply company, 2100 South Sawyer avenue, was indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government of $3,450 by submitting illegal bids on fire hydrants to be used in civil works and public works administration projects. Judge John P. Barnes, before whom the indictment was returned, fixed Miller's bond at $5,000.

Three other men were named as conspirators in the indictment, but were not charged with any punishable offense. They are Samuel C. Mead, western sales manager for the Michigan Valve and Foundry company, 1 North La Salle street; Frank A. Huntley, Chicago representative of the Mueller company, 205 West Wacker drive, and I. J. Flanagan, Chicago manager of the Kennedy Valve Manufacturing company, 1306 South Canal street. It is said the government plans to use these men as witnesses against Miller.

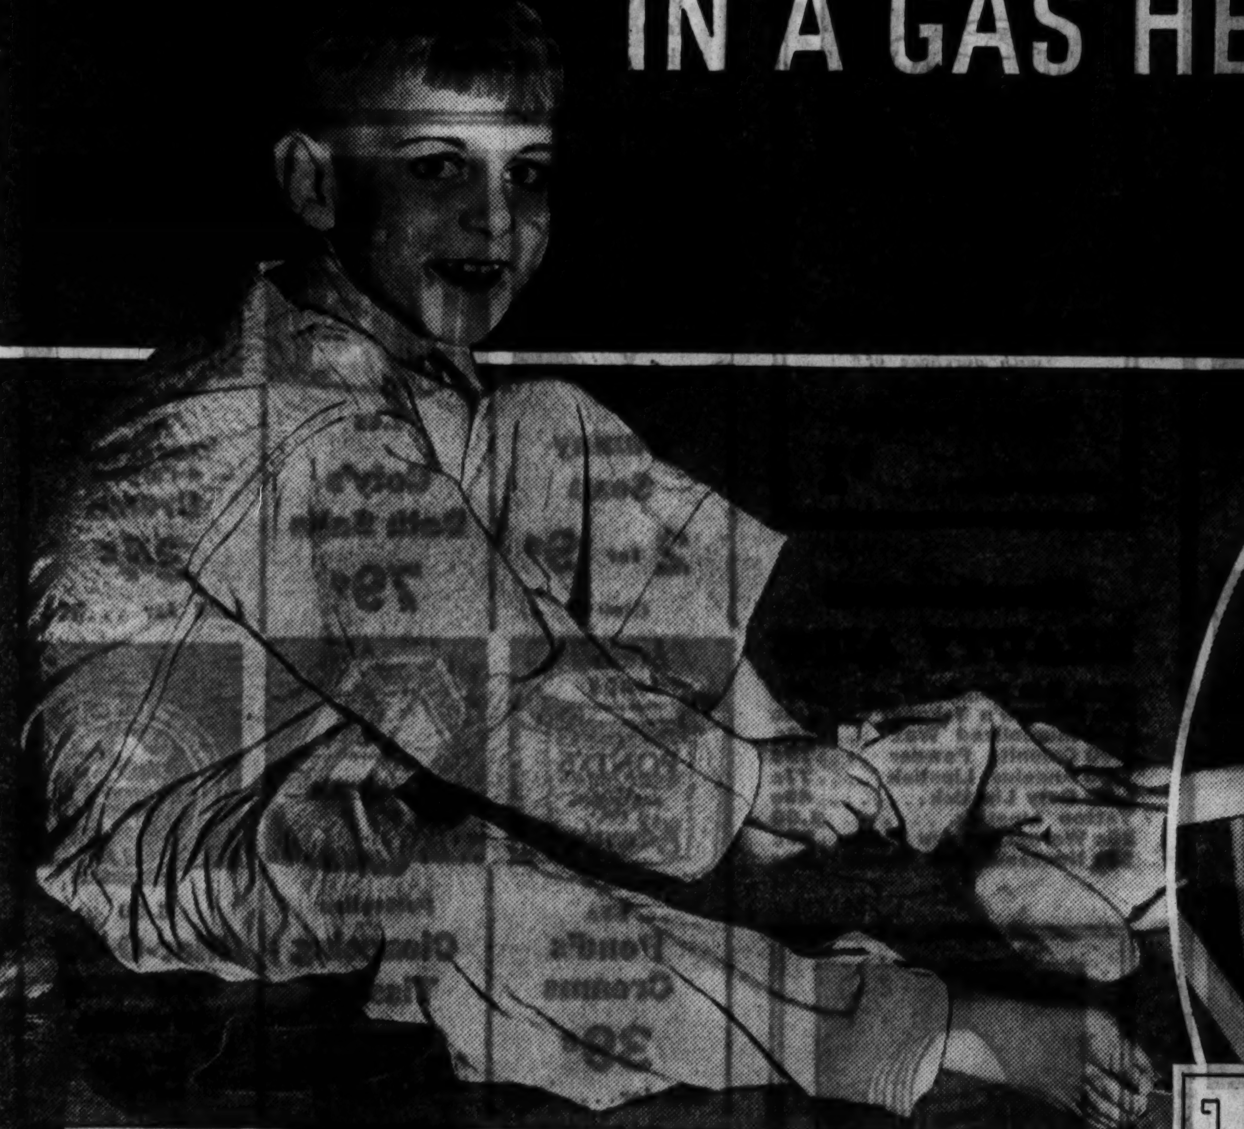
IN A GAS HEATED HOME



No more icy floors and chilled feet in the morning for little Herbert Fuller, at 9600 Seeley Avenue—thanks to gas heat.

Arthur Anderson Jr. makes all sorts of things in his new workshop which has replaced the coal bin in the Anderson home—7328 Michigan Avenue.

Clean basements to play in—warm floors for tiny feet—healthful temperatures, night and day. No wonder thousands are switching to gas heat.

WHAT a marvelous thing for the children—gas heat. No more icy floors in the morning to chill those tiny bare feet. No more sharp fluctuations in temperature that so often result in sore throats, bad colds. And gas heat gives an extra room in the basement where children can be out of the way, and enjoy themselves so much. Thousands of gas heated homes now have play rooms, game rooms, workshops—right where the coal bins used to be!

And for mothers and fathers, gas heat spells the end of furnace drudgery forever! The basement is always clean—and walls and drapes stay clean—because gas gives off no soot or dirt.

Accept this liberal trial offer

Rates for heating homes with gas are now one-half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season. And you can try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment. We'll install gas heat in your home at our expense. You try it for one month, two months, a year. While you are trying it you pay only $3 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If within the first year you decide that you don't want gas heat, we will remove it at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat—and we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Investigate immediately. Don't delay. Call or write your local gas company now for details.

Gas Is One Item For Gala Dinner Unfailingly Ready

It's a big Sunday at the Robinson home. The folks from down-state are up for dinner and the day. Mrs Robinson has ordered the roast, the trimmings, the vegetables and the ice cream.

Sunday morning, while uncles and aunts visit with Dad in the living room, Mrs. Robinson starts the kitchen work. The range oven is lighted; also all four top burners.

In two hours she will use more gas than she ordinarily would use in two weeks. But she didn't have to make any special arrangements. It's one item that's there without ordering.

Every gas customer in Chicago and the suburbs knows he can use all the gas he wants whenever he wants it. It's so dependable he never gives it a thought.

It's the gas company's job to keep its customers supplied with gas—all they want—at all times. And The Peoples Gas Company "made good" on this job for 83 years.

CAPONE ATTEMPT TO GAIN RULE OF CLEANERS TOLD

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

An attempt by Al Capone to muscle into the cleaning and dyeing business in Chicago and to take half the revenue of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute was described yesterday in the racket conspiracy trial by Thomas Quinn Beesley, a press agent and advertising man.

Beesley, who lives at 619 Woodlawn Park, handled publicity and advertising for the institute in 1931 and 1932. The story he told was related to him, he said, by Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, one of the 18 defendants in the trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, who was dictator of the industry under the institute's contract. Squires in turn had got the story from business agents of unions in the industry, who were also defendants, and did not meet Capone himself, Beesley said.

Capone Offer Rejected.

According to Beesley's story, Dr. Squires rejected Capone's offer to supply gangsters who would "organize" recalcitrant owners of cleaning and dyeing plants for the institute.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber charged, however, in an argument outside the presence of the jury, that it was at that time that James P. Gorman, labor commissioner of the institute, began to receive large sums from the institute's revenue. Gorman, Prosecutor Raber charged, never accounted for these withdrawals, totaling about $22,000, and the prosecutor charged that this money went to Capone and members of his gang.

Beesley testified that his first conversations with Squires on the subject of Capone were in May, 1931. They took place in Squires' office in the course of discussions on publicity for the institute.

"Dr. Squires told me," said the witness, "that he had been informed by two of the union business agents that Capone had called them in and told them that somebody in the cleaning and dyeing business was pushing some of his boys around. He was talking about the Drexel Cleaners."

Humphreys Named as Owner.

It has been testified previously that Murray Humphreys, Capone's principal heir in Chicago rackets, and a fugitive defendant under the racket indictment, was part owner of the Drexel concern.

Two days later Dr. Squires told him in another conversation, Beesley said, that all of the union officials in the industry had called on Capone and described the efforts of the institute to "stabilize" the industry, and had remarked on their difficulty in enrolling some plant operators and collecting the institute dues of 2 per cent of the operators' receipts.

"Dr. Squires said," continued Beesley, "that Capone appeared surprised that the institute would have any difficulty and wanted to see Squires. The agents told Capone that Squires was not the kind of man who would talk to him. Capone then offered to get all the cleaners and dyers into the corporation and split 50-50 with the institute."

Confer with Law Agencies.

On direct and cros-examination Beesley completed the story of what followed. Dr. Squires, he said, went to John A. Swanson, then state's attorney; George E. Q. Johnson, then federal district attorney, and to the Secret Six and the association of commerce. The institute issued a statement to the newspapers on May 12, 1931, charging that independent cleaners had formed alliances with gangsters, and asserting that the institute would never countenance such elements in its business.

"Dr. Squires expressed very forcibly his determination to have nothing to do with Capone or with any one connected with him," said Beesley in his cross-examination by James E. McShane, attorney for Squires.

Beesley went on to testify that Dr. Squires was in Florida for his health at the time of the murder in January, 1932, of Benjamin Rosenberg, manager of an independent cleaning and dyeing plant. Attorney McShane asked if Beesley had not warned Squires in a telephone conversation, to guard his own life against gangsters.

"I told him," said Beesley, "that I had received information from a source which I had found reliable that the car of a Chicago gangster had been seen in the neighborhood of his hotel at Miami Beach, that I thought the circumstances suspicious, and that I urged that he take measures to investigate and protect himself."

Hotel Man Arrested.

Harold Johnson, who was manager of the Lexington hotel, 22d street and Michigan avenue, at the time Capone lived there, was arrested on a charge of perjury by state's attorney's detectives yesterday after he had made his third appearance on the witness stand in the racket trial.

Johnson first appeared as a witness a week ago. On cross-examination he declared that he had collected an instalment of Capone's rent at one of the cleaning and dyeing shops of Morris Becker, a previous prosecution witness. Becker had told how Capone, out of friendship, he said, protected his business from other racketeers, but denied that he ever gave Capone money.

Johnson was recalled Wednesday and said that he got the money from Sylvester Butze, a hanger-on of the Capone gang. On his third appearance yesterday, however, he asserted that Butze was employed in the cleaning and dyeing shop operated by Becker.

Changes Testimony.

Johnson also testified last week that Sergt. Thomas Kelly, secretary to Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, was one of the policemen whom he recalled was a visitor at the hotel while Capone lived there. On Wednesday Kelly appeared in court, and on Prosecutor Raber's question, Johnson admitted that he had never seen him in the hotel.

The final witness of the day was James G. Shaw, 7012 Euclid avenue, vice president of the Best Laundry and Cleaning company, 4240 Indiana avenue.

UNDER GUARD

JAY N. DARLING.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—A telegram, believed to be from a Chicago underworld character, was responsible for the disappearance under close guard today of Jay N. Darling, famous cartoonist, of Des Moines, in an attempt to thwart a kidnaping plot.

Darling received the wire on his way to Chicago from Washington where he had been attending President Roosevelt's conference on the conservation of wild life. It inquired as to the time of his arrival in Chicago and his whereabouts while there.

Federal agents were placed at Mr. Darling's disposal in Chicago and accompanied him to the Iowa line, where the cartoonist was met by Iowa state agents, under whose protection he has been since.

Plan Municipal Court Cut Despite Protest.

The city council finance committee last night continued to wrestle with the problem of making the city corporate budget conform within the estimated revenue of $44,000,000. The members continued in session until 1 o'clock, with Mayor Kelly present to advise them. They will resume their work at 2:30 o'clock today.

Late in the evening, when it was discovered that with all the parings already made the proposed budget still stood at about $45,000,000, the determination of the aldermen present to fight for a reduction in the demands of the Municipal court for funds became quite firm.

Sonsteby Seeks Increase.

Chief Justice Sonsteby has demanded for the court and its attendant workers, for whom $1,984,189 was appropriated in 1933, a 1934 budget of $2,505,000. Under the letter of the law the council has no choice but to appropriate what the court demands, and the judges have refused, in general, to accept salary cuts that have been imposed on other city employés.

The finance committee members, in the conversations on the subject, verbally belabored the judges. They estimated the court budget could be cut $485,000 if a 78 day reduction for all its employés were put in effect, and $324,000 if a 52 day reduction were imposed. All other employés have taken the 78 day pay cut.

A decision was reached to lower the court's appropriation by at least this $324,000 figure. The general sentiment among the conferees was that they should ignore the $2,505,000 demand and go to jail if the judges so ordered. The committeemen were hopeful, however, that the Municipal court would admit the fairness of this slash and submit to it.

Cut Improvements Fund.

Another reduction ordered was in the appropriation of the board of local improvements, from $658,136 to $325,581.

The two items, if kept in the budget at the lower figures, would leave less than a half million still to be whittled off.

A decision to cut the appropriations for council committees from $300,000 to $100,000 already made to bring the total near $45,000,000, gave the finance committeemen some trouble.

Mayor Kelly had advised the committee of his belief that the $44,000,000 budget could be reached without any reduction in the police or fire department personnel.

JACOBS DEFENDS EQUITY OF 1932 REALTY LEVIES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $218,535, making a total of $100,451,768 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 15	$ 14,925	$ 60,887
Uncollected	15,250,122	40,840,850
	1930.	1931.
Feb. 15	$ 47,882	$ 94,841
Uncollected	64,662,918	62,298,765

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $449.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday defended the equity of the 1931 real estate assessment under the cross-examination of attorneys for the Chicago Real Estate board before County Judge Jarecki. The board alleges in the petition on hearing that the assessment discriminated against owners of small properties in Cook county and asks that Judge Jarecki reduce these assessments by 15 per cent.

Mr. Jacobs asserted that his deputies considered age, utility, defects, and condition of the individual building in arriving at the assessed valuation and did not use a "blanket treatment" for all of the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in the county. He denied that homes had received less attention than loop properties.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday mailed out the first 1932 real estate tax bills, sending 1,000 of them to the township of South Chicago.

COUNCIL ORDERED TO PAY UP CUTS IN COURT WAGES

Judge Denis E. Sullivan entered a mandatory injunction order in the Superior court yesterday compelling the city council to appropriate $628,353 for payment of wage reductions affecting 550 employés in the offices of the Municipal court clerk and bailif in 1932 and 1933.

Judge Sullivan held that the judges of the Municipal court had the constitutional power to fix the number of employés in the two offices and also to establish their own salaries, and that it was mandatory on the council to abide by the judges' order. The employés were represented by Attorney James W. Breen, who told the court that the clerks had had their wages cut $336,611 in the two years and the bailifs had had theirs cut $291,742.

The city was represented by Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein, who announced an appeal from Judge Sullivan's ruling.

"HIGHEST TEST" AND anti-knock
at the price of ordinary gasoline

WHEN your car is covered with snow after standing out all night in the cold . . . will the motor start promptly at the touch of the starter?

It will!—if the tank is filled with Phillips 66.

Does this sound familiar? Have you seen claims like these before? . . . and been sadly disappointed with the results! Then glance below and see something you won't find in other ads for gasoline—scientific gravity figures which tell you exactly how high the test of Phillips 66 is.

We print our gravity range in plain figures, without fear of comparison, because Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline. Obviously, we can afford to offer extra high test gasoline without charging a penny extra.

Every gallon of Phillips 66, therefore gives you greater value . . . marvelously fast starting . . . quicker warm-up . . . more pep and power . . . more miles per gallon. Besides, this finer performance is always consistent because it is protected against changes in weather by CONTROLLED VOLATILITY. Phillips pioneered this basic principle which matches the gasoline to variations in weather.

If you haven't yet tried it, get a tankful of this high test, high anti-knock motor fuel; and treat your car (and incidentally your pocketbook) to the quickest winter starting and smoothest bunch of miles you've ever had. Get just one trial tankful and feel that difference in your motor.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative, candy, or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C.M.Co.

SENATE PASSES TEACHERS' PAY AND FAIR BILLS

Enabling Acts Are Facing Delay in House.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—World's Fair enabling acts and legislation which will expedite payment of Chicago school teachers passed the state senate today, but later action dimmed the prospect that the Exposition bills will be approved by the house next week. One representative, a Chicago Negro, threw the stumbling block.

The question of equal rights for colored people at the reopening of the Fair was injected into both houses yesterday. Today, the sole Negro member of the upper chamber, Adelbert H. Roberts [Rep., Chicago], recanted and cast the 34th or deciding vote for the Fair bills although he said it "pained" him to do so.

Action Is Blocked.

Then, as efforts were made to advance the senate bills in the house, and thus clear the way for their approval next Wednesday, another Negro, Representative Harris B. Gaines [Rep., Chicago] raised a parliamentary point and stopped the proceedings. As a result the legislation may drag into a third week.

Contracts totaling millions of dollars will be held up in the meantime.

"It is extremely unfortunate that Mr. Gaines took the action he did," commented Attorney Sidney Gorham of Chicago, who brought the Fair legislation to the assembly. "At this time when A Century of Progress is striving so hard to start work for reopening, a monkey wrench of this sort can benefit no one."

This fact was brought home to Gaines a short while after he stopped advancement of the senate bills and he seemed willing to change his mind, but it was then too late.

Has Change of Heart.

His change of heart was influenced by Senator Dan Serritella, Republican boss of Chicago's first senatorial district. Gaines also represents the First district and it was reported that when Serritella learned of Gaines' recalcitrance, a few hot words developed and Gaines appeared willing to withdraw his objections. This wasn't possible, however, because Speaker Roe refused to reconvene the house once action had been taken. If he had, two records of action would have appeared which might have harmed the validity of the legislation.

So the senate bills remained on first reading in the house. If no serious opposition develops they can be sent to second reading next Tuesday and to third on Wednesday. But Thursday is Washingfton's birthday and while the plans were to hold the house for a post-midnight session early Thursday morning, there was some doubt that 102 votes could be mustered at this hour. Since the legislation carries an emergency clause, it must be passed by a two-thirds vote.

Contracts Are Delayed.

But if 102 votes cannot be obtained next week, the bills will drag into a third week and such contracts as the one authorizing the million dollar Ford exhibit at the Fair will be further delayed.

Roberts and Gaines insisted yesterday that members of their race had received unfair treatment at A Century of Progress last summer. They wanted the enabling acts amended so that concessionaires discriminating against Negroes should have their contracts revoked. Charles J. Jenkins [Rep., Chicago], another Negro member, had a similar view.

But today when the bills were called in the senate by Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago] no direct opposition developed. There was much disorder in the chamber and several members reported to harbor grievances against the Fair because they weren't given as many passes as they wished last summer sat silent in their seats on the first roll call. Only one member asked a temporary delay. This was Senator P. J. Carroll [Dem., Chicago], who thought the board of education bills should have first chance. Since it was the plan to call those bills next, Lieut. Gov. Donovan allowed Woods to proceed.

Announces His Support.

When 33 votes had been tallied, one short of the two-thirds necessary, Senator Roberts arose and in the quiet chamber explained that while he felt his people had not been fairly treated last summer—some, he insisted, had had "cruel" treatment—he would not stop the passage in the hopes that the bill could be amended in the house.

Six more votes came in before roll call closed and the bills were then sent to the house, where Gaines stopped their progress. His parliamentary point was that a quorum of 77 members was not present. Since only seven were in their seats, Speaker Roe was forced to deny the motion of Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe to advance the bills.

Meanwhile the senate, upon the urgings of Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], passed the six bills of the Chicago school program which would allow the board to pledge the federal government property which it does not use for educational purposes behind a 42 million dollar bond issue it seeks to dispose of to the RFC. If the loan is made, the 25 million dollars owed teachers and other employés for back salaries can be paid and the board put upon a sound financial basis.

All for Teachers' Bills.

No opposition developed when these bills were called. The program swam through, 38 to 0. The only question raised was whether the bills would really end Chicago's education difficulties. Senator Ward said that if the plan went through all salaries would be paid and this seemed to satisfy the membership.

Attorney Ralph Condee of the board of education was elated over the success of the program and made plans to have Representative Adamowski handle the bills in the house next week.

Before the senate adjourned an incident not wholly explained occurred. Senator Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago] introduced a resolution asking that a committee of five be appointed to investigate "any improper conduct" at A Century of Progress. His resolution mentioned the necessity of "wholesome entertainment" and "good food."

"But wait a moment," said James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] after Mendel had asked that the resolution be adopted immediately. "This Fair doesn't start until June 1 and now we are being asked, in the middle of February, to appoint a committee to investigate it."

The senate then voted to have the resolution printed for consideration next week.

Sanitary Bills Introduced.

Before the Fair bills were brought up, Majority Leader R. V. Graham [Dem., Chicago] introduced five bills in behalf of the sanitary district of Chicago and had them advanced to second reading. All of the measures relate to the 42 million dollar grant given the district by the federal government so that it could construct sewage treatment works required by the United States Supreme court.

New Deal's Economic Santa a Hoax, Educators Are Told

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Educational leaders representing Protestants of the United States were told yesterday that the New Deal's economic Santa Claus is a hoax. They were told that Muscle Shoals as a power development is of one horse national consequence and is surrounded by "the most gigantic real estate speculation in history."

The speaker was Samuel S. Wyer, a consulting engineer of Columbus, O. He addressed the quadrennial convention of the International Council of Religous Education at the Stevens hotel.

Assails Heavy Spending.

Mr. Wyer assailed "national profligacy." Highways, power developments, veterans' compensation, inland waterways, and the Panama canal, he said, are now costing the federal government a sum nearly a half billion dollars a year more than the total amount spent for education in 1929.

The New Deal idea of "spending our way out of depression" with money and resources which the country does not have will lead to tragic punishment, especially for children, Mr. Wyer declared. He said that the country already is bankrupt and that further spending will be devastating to the morale and morals of the coming generations.

Public Debt 238 Billions.

The wealth of America, he said, totals 201 billion dollars while the total public debt of the nation is 238 billion dollars. The debt added under New Deal leadership, Mr. Wyer declared, already exceeds the national debt that resulted from the world war.

"To an already staggering debt the present policy of government is adding more debt," he said. "I am interested in arousing youth to the fact that every dollar spent by the government must eventually come from the pockets of taxpayers.

"With taxes increasing at the rate of $2,000,000 every business day since 1913, we need to realize that it is essential to cut the doles to selfish groups. These doles represent one-fifth of all tax spending."

Discusses Muscle Shoals.

Referring to Muscle Shoals, Mr. Wyer said that the power development there could not supply enough electricity for a city the size of his home town, Columbus. He added that the total power development possible in the entire Tennessee valley project would be less than that supplied by one steam generating station in Chicago.

Mr. Wyer urged that education had a clearer claim on federal funds than projects which the government is now supporting.

He argued that the government should stop tampering with currency and proceed instead to bring about a reduction of building and loan and mortgage rates. This, he said, would result in the erection of 8,000,000 homes.

Prepare Economic Courses.

The religious education council is preparing special economic studies for religious instruction. A meeting of church youth leaders will convene in Pittsburgh on March 26 to lay plans for instruction that will meet conditions of the present day. Five fields of interest will be covered in the studies, "the new personality, the new church, the new community, the new nation and the new world.'

STATE BEER REVENUE STAMPS GO ON SALE IN ILLINOIS TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—First beer revenue stamps, required by the new Illinois liquor control law, will go on sale tomorrow in the Chicago office of the department of finance. They will be sold in the Springfield office of the department on Monday and thereafter, it was announced today by J. M. Braude, associate director of finance.

These stamps, which denote that liquor tax has been paid to the state, must be purchased by brewers and importing distributors and be affixed to cases or barrels containing beer. There are six types of beer stamps—one for each of the following types of containers: Case of 12 bottles, case of 24 bottles, and ⅛, ¼, ½, and full barrels. The tax set by law is 2 cents for every gallon of beer brewed for sale in Illinois or imported for sale here.

Liquor and wine stamps, Mr. Braude said, will be ready for sale at both Springfield and Chicago offices of the department of finance by the middle of next week.

"After Monday all beer offered for sale in the state by brewer or importing distributor will have to bear the stamps required by the law," Mr. Braude said.

PRESS PASSAGE OF KELLY PLAN TO PAY TEACHERS

Officials Optimistic on Return from Capital.

Work on Mayor Kelly's program to pay back salaries of the Chicago teachers and restore the credit of the school board will continue without a letup today. James B. McCahey, president of the board, and Richard S. Folsom, school attorney, who returned yesterday from Washington after making an appeal for aid, will make plans today for obtaining needed legislation from the third special session of the legislature at Springfield.

Folsom's report to the mayor and the school board chief was optimistic. He said that not only had the members of the Illinois delegation to congress thrown their full support behind the mayor's plan but that congressmen from neighboring states and federal officials had become interested.

"I think you have made a good start in the right direction," said Mayor Kelly.

Calls for Bond Issue.

The mayor's plan calls for the sale of a $40,000,000 school bond issue to the federal government. Real estate, owned by the board but unused for school purposes, would be offered as additional security. A bill empowering the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase the bonds was introduced by Congressman A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] and is now before the house committee on banking and currency.

A subcommittee held a hearing on the bill Wednesday, when Folsom was given an opportunity to explain the Chicago situation. The congressmen asked whether other cities would have the same collateral to offer. The Chicago board of education owns $30,000,000 worth of property which is not used for schools or playgrounds.

Upon his return Folsom asked Supt. William J. Bogan to get information from other cities on their school properties. When the data are obtained they will be sent to the subcommittee.

Sends Telegram to Lewis.

Folsom also sent telegrams to United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Congressmen Sabath and James Simpson Jr. [Rep., Ill.], who is a member of the subcommittee and an active supporter of the Sabath bill. The telegram asked that school officials in Chicago be kept informed on the progress of the legislation.

Ralph Condee, assistant attorney for the board, has been in Springfield watching the progress of the mayor's program, but he will return today for the conference with McCahey and Folsom. The legislature is being asked to give the board authority to pledge the property to the federal government. Under the present law the board can only sell or lease its property.

NEW 10,000 TON U. S. WARSHIP IS COMMISSIONED

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The 10,000 ton cruiser New Orleans, one of the most powerful ships of her type in the world, was commissioned at the Brooklyn navy yard today.

The brief ceremonies officialy added to the navy list a man-of-war of radically different design from the 10,000 ton treaty cruisers that have preceded her. At a cost of about $11,000,000 the naval constructors at the yard have turned out, after three years of construction work, a type of ship that has been described as a near match for the much-vaunted pocket battleships of the German Deutschland class.

More than 1,000 of the ship's 10,000 tons represents armor, armor which has been carefully distributed in a side belt, as deck protection, and over turrets, barbettes, bridges, and tops.

The cruiser will carry at peace time complement of six planes, which will be launched from two catapults, but in wartime is expected to carry 12 planes.

4,000 COUNTY EMPLOYES TO BE PAID TODAY

Four thousand county employés will receive $353,696 pay for the last two weeks of November today. At the same time 1,500 mothers with 6,000 children will receive $94,000 in mothers pensions, and another $45,000 will be paid to the child placing and industrial school funds. Announcement of the pay day was made yesterday by County Treasurer McDonogh.

A TRUE STORY
By A TEACHER
whose discovery ten years ago, has made a great difference in his boy's life

INTELLIGENCE is a pretty good thing to have in this world, and a good many people who use it find it makes their lives much easier. One fine example is Mr. George F. L. Bryant, a well-known school teacher, of 24 Elm Street, Fairfield, Maine. Mr. Bryant writes us that ten years ago he had what the doctor said was colitis. Being a school teacher he was not getting the proper amount of exercise, and he tried various kinds of medicines, which relieved him for a time, but nothing gave him permanent results until he discovered Nujol.

"I have tried several other brands," writes Mr. Bryant, "but there is nothing I have found equal to Nujol in effectiveness. The density of it appears to be just right, and Nujol has no unpleasant taste. It is the only thing my youngster of thirteen will take. He has used Nujol since he was three years old. He is strong, and well—and I think Nujol has a great deal to do with his excellent health.

"Fact is, the whole family uses Nujol. When we go on a camping trip our appetites are enormous, and then is the time when Nujol becomes the most important thing in our medicine chest.

"You can publish this letter if you want to, if you think it may do somebody else some good."

Indeed we do think it may do somebody else some good. This ten-year record of father and son certainly proves that Nujol is harmless used over a long period of years, and that it can't do you anything but good! Like most worthwhile discoveries, this is so simple it seems too good to be true.

Follow Mr. Bryant's example. Use Nujol yourself—bring up your children on it to be regular as clockwork. Nujol now comes in two forms, plain, and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children. You can get Nujol at any drug store.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

Ballet Opening to Draw Large Society Throng

Passavant Hospital Benefit at Auditorium.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"THE Auditorium theater, James," will be the direction most socialites will give to their chauffeurs or taxi drivers tonight, for literally EVERY ONE is going to the première of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe which the woman's board of the Passavant hospital is sponsoring as a benefit for the hospital.

The golden horseshoe of boxes will present as dazzling and brilliant a spectacle as it ever did for a grand opera première, and if all advance reports of the ballet are true the audience will enjoy as glamorous and beautiful a spectacle as ever has been seen in that old theater where so many worthwhile musical events have taken place.

The committee in charge, very wisely some will think, decided not to ask any girls to sell flowers and there will be nothing on sale in the foyers, for even the souvenir programs will be given away free of charge.

Many Boxholders Giving Dinners.

Most of the boxholders are giving dinner parties before the performance, although some have elected to sup with their guests afterwards instead of dining first, thus obviating the probability of being late in arriving at the theater.

The list of boxholders is a long one and includes the names of most well known socialites, whether they are here or vacationing in warmer climes. Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. James R. Offield, Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, Mrs. Gardiner Van Ness, Mrs. Andrew J. Dallstream, Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. Charles E. Frankenthal, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, and Mrs. Loyal Davis are some of those who have worked to make a success of the affair.

The Chicago Drama league is planning a tea for next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Cordon for the eight solo dancers of the ballet. Pouring will be Mrs. Lewis Bernays, wife of the British consul general; Mrs. Reidmund Baumann, wife of the Danish consul, and Mme. Higersberger, sister of the Polish vice consul.

Dr. Stearns Will Talk on Education.

Many of those who will be going to the Passavant benefit tonight will be going to the Casino at 5 o'clock to hear Dr. Alfred E. Stearns talk on "Common Sense in Education." Dr. Stearns, the headmaster emeritus of the Phillips Andover academy, is talking under the auspices of the Harris school, and Henry A. Gardner, president of the local Andover alumni, has been in charge of arrangements. Assisting him have been Stephen Y. Hord, Gardner Brown, Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Charles G. King, Robert Stevenson, Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Luther S. Hammond, I. Newton Perry, A. Ballard Bradley, William T. Bacon, and George W. Dulany Jr.

Dr. Stearns, who arrives this morning, will be Henry Gardner's guest in Winnetka during his stay here. Mrs. Gardner left last week for California, so their debutante daughter, Marie Louise, will be hostess for her father over the week-end and at the small dinner Mr. Gardner is giving tomorrow night for his guest.

Robert Gardner, who is Henry's brother, and his wife are entertaining Dr. Stearns at dinner at their Lake Forest residence tonight. Sunday Charles H. Schweppe is giving a luncheon in Lake Forest for the much loved Dr. Stearns, who was headmaster at Andover for 30 years and only retired last year. Sunday evening Dr. Stearns is to talk before the Sunday Evening club.

Miss Lillian Harris, the headmistress of the Harris school, did not go east for the 9th annual conference of the secondary board which controls the examinations for secondary schools just as the college board does college entrance exams, because of today's meeting. The conference is being held today and tomorrow at the Hotchkiss school in Lakeville, Conn. Miss Harris leaves this evening after the reception at the Casino for a few days in the east, however.

Naomi Donnelley to Address Alumnae.

It is especially appropriate that the Kenwood Loring school should choose Miss Naomi Donnelley as the speaker for the first of a series of alumnae assemblies to be held today at the school. Miss Donnelley is intimately associated with the south side through her family . . . her father was the late Richard R. Donnelley . . . and she attended school with Miss Stella Loring back in the Prairie avenue days of the Loring school.

Since then Miss Donnelley and Miss Loring have been associated in their work for the Visiting Nurses' association and other social agencies. Miss Donnelley will discuss opportunities in social work for high school graduates.

Miss Dorothy Waldo, associate head of the Pine Manor school, is in Chicago today to be a guest of the Pine Manor club at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club. Among the alumnae who will be hostesses are Miss Virginia Winston, the club president; Miss Marion Gordon,

Air of Success Marks Concert of Symphony

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Gunnar Johansen, 26 years old, pianist from Copenhagen, made his first appearance as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall last night, and through the medium of Rachmaninoff's Fourth Concerto speedily made a host of warm, not say enthusiastic, friends for himself.

There was something in the air that helped to make success, possibly the presence of one of the largest audiences of the season. At any rate, soloist, orchestra, and audience worked on each other to put tension into the performance, to the extent that when the concerto was finished Mr. Johansen was applauded so vigorously and continuously that he finally returned to repeat the last movement.

This is perhaps not the greatest concerto in the world, nor even the finest from Rachmaninoff's pen, but it is a first rate medium for showing how much brilliancy a pianist has developed technically, and likewise how well he is able to carry on a sustained mood. Mr. Johansen has them both to an admirable degree. He rejoices in display, he has the strength to carry on over the higher powers of the accompanying orchestra, and he would seem to be possessed of a sane, thoughtful imagination.

In fact, he is the sort of a soloist to appear with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. "The mantle of leadership is still ours," said Mrs. Frederic Upham in a speech to the audience during the intermission, and Mr. Johansen's performances shortly thereafter put special point on her words.

Mrs. Upham read figures on the campaign to overcome the deficit showing that results had reached $36,951.81 of the needed $70,000. "Under the influence of Theodore Thomas and our own beloved Dr. Stock other cities now have their own symphony orchestras," she said. "We must not let ours get away from us."

And Dr. Stock did his share as well. He began with the charming series of Old Dances and Airs for the Lute that had been exhumed by Ottorino Respighi and transferred from the ancient solo instrument to the modern orchestra. Dr. Stock added the slow movement from Franck's String Quartet in D, and he made a further gift of Brahms' Third Symphony, all played in the mood of serene dignity.

Six from Chicago Elected Members of Yale Fraternities

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The election of sixty-four members of the class of 1936 to the eight Yale fraternities was celebrated here tonight with the historic midwinter calcium light parade, one of the few historic features of Yale life that has not given way before the régime of the new college plan.

Six students from greater Chicago were elected: William C. Barker of Highland Park, elected to Alpha Chi Rho; William Hays Morgan, Glencoe, elected to Alpha Delta Phi; Theodore Stanley Proxmire of Lake Forest, elected to Chi Phi; Henry A. Gardner Jr. of Winnetka, elected to Delta Kappa Epsilon; Fred Wilson Fairman Jr. of Winnetka, and Joseph Earles Rich of Evanston, both elected to Psi Upsilon.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[Posed by Gaby Dore.]

Women who've longed to try a salon line of facial treatment but found the expense more than they could bear would be very wise to go shopping today for a little kit put out by one of the leading beauty establishments, and just now available in the stores of Chicago. It's designed especially for the woman who wants to experiment with a salon line and packaged in smaller than usual sizes so that it's sold at a price she'd pay for a lipstick.

The kits are making their bow to the town now but we got two from New York a few weeks ago to experiment with. We'll tell you about them: There are two boxes, one for oily skins, one for dry. Dry skin being just one of our many beauty deficiencies we worked with that set and turned a cream, and it's one of the best—thin, liquefying and a real grime chaser; a jar of special, rich cream to serve as an emollient, best used at night and left on; and that jewel of jewels, a skin tonic that tones the dry skin but doesn't sap it of what little oil it has. We found it, for our dry skin, as nice a treatment and as simplified as any treatment could be. The creams and the lotion, used daily, have lasted us a trifle more than two weeks.

Our oily skinned subject reports that in her kit she found cleansing cream, too, a deep cleanser to get at every bit of the dirt that piles up in oil pores; a treatment cream to control that oil that flows too freely for comfort; and a sleep makeup, and a lotion about which she is mad, simply mad, with delight. She says, and looking her skin over every day we agree with her, that, in the little bottle of lotion set between the two jars of cream, she found everything she could desire in the way of an astringent that is not harsh. Its immediate effect is to stem the flow of oil, but it has a corrective value, too, as is demonstrated by the present condition of her skin.

We think that the huge number of women who've been appealing to us for guidance to good products will share our enthusiasm for these kits. At any rate, to experiment with them costs very, very little.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

FOURTH HAND BIDS.

THE same logic that advocates opening "light" third hand is equally applicable in fourth hand position. It is my contention that the bidding may be opened after 3 passes on a relatively weak holding.

P. HAL SIMS.

The fate of one deal rests on your broad shoulders. You can toss the hand ingloriously into the discard or make a valiant attempt to score. Bear in mind that the three passes indicate a fairly even distribution of the high cards. True!—your partner has passed, but both opponents have also failed to bid—a distinctly encouraging sign.

There's no sense in bidding, however, without first weighing your chances. Don't give your opponents any presents.

I will bid a hand which contains safe rebid values, so that I can rebid without a guilty feeling if my opponents enter the bidding; or one which holds reliable defensive values likely to upset their hopes if they should get the declaration.

I will pass a hand which lacks strength in both the majors, particularly one whose defensive strength lies in minor tenaces.

In my system a response of one no-trump is a negative, discouraging bid. Likewise, a rebid of the original suit is considered a "signoff," so you see it is perfectly simple to put a damper on your partner's optimism and play the hand quietly and safely for a partial.

In bidding an aggressive or distributional type of hand, forget the primary tricks. Let the aces and kings shrink in stature. Fasten your eyes on the small cards—those cards which by their mere number are going to take the necessary tricks when you are the declarer in the right suit.

For example:

Sp. A J x x x x   Di. x
Hts. K 10 x x x   Cl. x

That hand only has one and a half primary tricks—yet the king of spades and the queen, jack of hearts alone in your partner's hand will probably produce a game. A K, A K and no biddable suit couldn't do half as well.

It is essential that when the minimum type of hand has its strength in a minor suit, adequate protection should be held in both majors.

Example:

Sp. K 10 x x   Di. A Q 10 x x
Hts. J x x   Cl. x

One diamond should be bid. Suppose your partner had passed this hand:

Sp. A J x x   Di. K x
Hts. Q x x   Cl. x x x x

He would respond with one spade and a game can be made if the diamonds break and the spade finesse is taken correctly. You should also open a hand such as the following:

Sp. K Q 10 x x   Di. Q x x
Hts. A x   Cl. J x x

The strength is concentrated in spades, and if your partner has anything at all, the opponents would have to bid too high in hearts or a minor suit to make their contract. In other words, when bidding fourth hand, take the worst that can happen and the best that can happen, mix them together, flavor well with judgment and then make your bid.

Leviathan Will Sail When Line "Can Make Her Pay"

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The steamship Leviathan, subject recently of considerable speculation because she has been tied up at her Hoboken pier, will be put back in service "just as soon as we can make her pay," P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine company, said today. Mr. Franklin, sailing for Europe on the Washington, denied a report that the great ship was "rotting at her pier," said steam was kept up aboard her and that her condition was good.

Good Morning!

Movie fans are definitly divided into two groups—those who do and those who don't like Janet Gaynor. The picture on tap at the Chicago is due to unite them. Nobody could help enjoying "Carolina."

The story, which has both delicate charm and vitality, is laid in the first part of the twentieth century—in Carolina. The civil war has been over for many long years, but in its ashes embers of hatred still glow sullenly.

Bitter old aristocrats live scantily in their decaying mansions, clinging to memories of the past, furiously hating the tolerance of the younger generation and the new, ambitious spirit of progress that is making itself felt.

It is the conflict between the little Tate girl who, from the land she works on shares, raises a flourishing crop of tobacco, and old Mrs. Connelly of the House of Connelly, whose tenant she is, that furnishes the movie's subject matter. [The film's an adaptation of Paul Green's "The House of Connelly."]

Mrs. Connelly, whose hero husband had been killed in action, lives with her son Will and her half mad old brother-in-law in the moldering mansion. Uncle Bob's pitiful condition is largely due to a frustrated love affair of his youth—for Mrs. Connelly, unknown to him, had allowed his fiancée to believe him dead. The girl he adored had gone north and finally married another man. Uncle Bob, being one of those one-woman men, had never forgotten. . . .

Uncle Bob takes a strange fancy to the orphaned Joanna—what makes her the lodestone she is to him the picture shall show you—and son Will falls in love with the gallant small person.

The picture has been directed with much finesse. Photography is excellent and imaginative. Backgrounds and interiors are fascinating. The picture has a vibrant and exciting quality, largely due to Lionel Barrymore's comprehensive and colorful character study of Uncle Bob, and Henrietta Crosman's portrayal of the domineering chatelaine of the House of Connelly.

Janet Gaynor is sincere, intuitive, and appealing as the Tate girl, and Robert Young is nice as her romantic vis-à-vis. Mona Barrie—she reminds you of Kay Francis—is arresting as a rich and blue blooded Miss Virginia Buchanan, whom Mrs. Connelly desires as a daughter-in-law.

Stepin Fetchit, apish, mumbling and ambling as ever, reappears on the screen after a long rest somewhere. He's funny!

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

SINCE we recall divers occasions upon which the Blackstone hotel has been so haughty as to send away illustrious visitors rather than accept their dogs—the Duchess of Sutherland was one and Raquel Meller, the Spanish diseuse, another—this little story delighted us particularly. A California woman who has been a frequent guest there arrived the other day with her two wire-haired fox terriers. She was given a handsome suite overlooking the lake, and the management sent up flowers. Just as she was happily installed—at least so it was thought—there came a telephone call from the visitor with the dogs. She had just discovered that she was on the thirteenth floor, and she was superstitious, she said. She was immediately moved to a similar suite on another floor.

Change—
Query—
Conscientious—
Shower—
Heart.

As a last thoughtful gesture, name cards—the kind made out for distinguished guests who are notified that they are guests of the management—were made out for the two dogs, who, as it turned out, were named Sistie and Buzzy. Two platters, each containing a succulent bone, were then sent up to the dogs, and the cards from the management accompanied this little offering.

"Is Eileen dry yet?"

DESSERTS USE FRUITS; GELATIN IN TASTY ARRAY

Five Ideas for Finishing Meal in Style.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Here and there and everywhere these days I'm hearing the declarations, "I just don't seem to crave desserts any more. Not the heavy kind. Of course, if it's just crackers and cheese, a bit of sherbet, or a fruit cup . . ."

And what they mean by "of course" is that, in that case, it's quite another matter and that even after a heavy feast such lightsome desserts appeal.

But since we've crackered and cheesed so often and sherbets will be coming into season a bit later on the obvious kitchen gossip for today has to do with the third airy dessert, the fruit cup. And since a shivery basis of jelly adds millions to a modest fruit dessert the start-off will be five fruit gelatins, the smartest of desserts, which are at the same time the simplest!

A lovely color effect is No. 1, perfect for the chills of the season we're in. Simply line sherbet glasses with grapefruit sections which have been cut free from their outside membranes. Now in the center pile cubes of cherry flavored gelatin which has been made several hours before and thoroughly chilled. For a topping upon the cherry cubes place slim half slices of banana, two for each sherbet glass.

Or have yourself a green and yellow color harmony, piling cubes of mint flavored gelatin and seeded halves of green grapes into chilled sherbet glasses. Garnish each glass with a crisp sprig of mint.

And, by the way, to make these small, trembly cubes, pour the dissolved gelatin dessert to cool into shallow pans in which the mixture stands one-half inch deep. When it's chilled cut it in one-half inch cubes. Best to have dipped the pan in cold water before pouring in the mixture if you want the cubes to tumble out all calm and unruffled. Or if they seem to stick and break dip the bottom of the pan quickly in and out of hot water. That'll fix 'em!

Quite another bright idea turns up when we add canned, drained raspberries to raspberry flavored gelatin. Pour it into sherbet glasses, let it stiffen, and then tumble cubes of the same gelatin (you saved out a little and chilled it in a shallow pan), and also more berries over the top. Serve very chilly.

But maybe your soul and tummy long for a glinting orange special. This begins simply with orange flavored gelatin, prepared as usual, and poured neatly into sherbet glasses. Let these chill until slightly thickened, then sink into it sections of orange from which the membrane covering of each section has been peeled away. We've let the gelatin thicken slightly to keep the fruit from all skitting to the top. This is also a good stunt to remember when making the raspberry dessert we sampled up above.

And as a final bow let it be a lemon fruit cup with apricots, pineapple, and minted cherries as the flattering touches. Prepare the lemon mixture, pour it into the sherbet glasses, and when chilled and partly congealed slide in quarters of canned apricots, three to each glass. Arrange them petal fashion with their tips touching in the center. Now, on top, float three slim wedges of pineapple, filling up the spaces between the apricot petals. Complete the picture by slipping in between each of these pineapple petals a strip of green minted cherry. It's a veritable sunset flower with the warm glow of it picked out by the sparkle of the minted cherries.

THIS RELISH IS DELICIOUS WITH PORK ROASTS

Cinnamon, Apple and Orange Relish.

¼ cup water
2 tablespoons cinnamon drops
2 tablespoons sugar
Pinch of salt
1 cup sliced apples
1 cup orange sections

Cook together the water, cinnamon drops, sugar and salt, until the cinnamon drops are dissolved. Add apples which have been sliced about the same size as the orange sections, with the peeling left on. Simmer until tender. Add orange sections and cook for one minute. Chill and arrange in lettuce cups around roast pork.

TRY DELICIOUS OLD FASHIONED OXTAIL STEW

Adapted to Meals on a Budget.

Oxtail stew is a hearty old fashioned dish well adapted to meals on a budget. The oxtail is inexpensive, as are the vegetables used. The result is to be scorned by no one.

OXTAIL STEW.

2½ quarts water.
4 carrots, diced.
2 turnips, diced.
2 onions, sliced.
1 large potato, diced.
Salt and pepper to taste.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce [or other seasoning].
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped fine.
Slices of lemon.

Wash the oxtail, cut in short lengths, and brown it in its own fat.

Cook the onions in the butter, add to the meat with 1½ quarts of water, and simmer until the meat is tender. In the meantime cook the carrots and turnips for ten minutes in 1 quart of water and add to the meat, with the water in which they were cooked. Add also the potatoes, the Worcestershire sauce, and the salt and pepper. When the vegetables are tender, thicken the stew with a small quantity of flour mixed with a little cold water to a smooth paste. Cook until thickened. Sprinkle with the parsley and garnish with slices of lemon.

TASTY METHODS OF COOKING FISH COME TO FORE

Sea Food Merits Use in Lent and Out.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

Now that Lent is here once more, it is a period of abstaning from meat for those who observe it. At this time the demand for fish is heavy, but personally we think this fine food should be eaten just as often the year around.

The varieties of these "denizens of the deep" are many to choose from, but the fish for which there is the most demand are perch, halibut, salmon, sole and codfish.

Next to salmon the demand for halibut is the largest. It is a good thing this fish grows to such a mammoth size, or it would not be so reasonable in price as it is the year around. Halibut is the largest of edible fishes. The male seldom weighs more than fifty pounds, but the female has been known to exceed 700 pounds. Such a creature covers a good deal of floor space, for it measures more than ten feet in length and five feet in width. It is packed in ice during August.

Halibut à la Crèole.

A pleasant variation of serving halibut is called "halibut à la crèole" and the method of preparing it is as follows: Remove the skin and bones from two medium slices of halibut to obtain eight filets. Dip in olive oil, sprinkle with salt and paprika. Roll each filet and fasten with a buttered toothpick. Bake about twenty-five minutes, basting each five minutes with a mixture of half butter and hot water. Serve with crèole sauce which is made by covering the fish bones and trimmings with cold water; add a small piece of carrot and a sprig of parsley, and let simmer for half an hour. Melt three tablespoons of butter and in its cook two slices of onion minced fine and half a green pepper cut in shreds. When these are softened stir in three level tablespoons of flour and half teaspoon of salt. When simmering thoroughly, add one cup of the prepared fish stock and one cup of tomato puree; stir until boiling and add few drops of lemon juice.

Cold Fish Baked Over.

Have you ever had some nice fish left over from a meal which you didn't know what to do with? Perhaps you haven't cared to eat it cold, so the neighborhood tabby fell heir to it. Well, the next time you have any left over why not surprise the family with a tasty little luncheon or supper dish made in the following manner? Shred enough cold fish to fill two cups. If you haven't enough to make that amount add a small can of salmon, tuna, or even crabmeat. We have found such a combination very agreeable to the taste. After preparing a rich cream sauce, have your baking dish well buttered and alternate layer of fish and sauce, sprinkling a little grated American cheese between each layer. Finish with buttered crumbs on top and bake for about twenty minutes in moderate hot oven until crums are a rich brown.

New England Codfish.

An old fashioned dish of creamed codfish served with boiled or baked potatoes would be a very good suggestion for these Lenten days. Codfish is almost a rarity now days, at least the old way of buying it is. You must get the genuine New England salt codfish. Soak the fish in cold water over night. Next morning pick into small pieces, rejecting any small bones or skin. To cook it, barely cover with cold water, bringing it very slowly to the boiling point, which will take from fifteen to twenty minutes. Drain, and have a rather thin but rich cream sauce ready to which you have added one well beaten egg. Do not let it boil after adding the egg. Pour over drained codfish. Garnish with hard cooked egg and serve.

Growers of Vegetables Earn Billion a Year

The total of farm income from vegetable growing in the United States averages nearly one billion dollars every year. This is more than the farm income of all grains combined or all of the cotton and cotton seed grown in this country. It is also nearly twice as much as all fruits and nuts grown in the United States.

Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup has won widespread popular favor!

Heinz 16 soups are made to home-made recipes. They are made unhurriedly, carefully, right through to the finish. We believe that you good housewives who have taken the trouble to brew a kettle of good, old-fashioned, home-made soup and who know how soundly satisfying such soup can be—we believe that you will always prefer that kind of soup.

So that is the kind of soup we make. We use fresh, crisp, carefully selected vegetables. And whole, sweet cream. And genuine prime meats. We make our soups in small batches in open kettles, carefully watching each stage of the cooking. And we carry them right through to the final step, sealing them hot in tins, all ready to eat—nothing to add, nothing to do but heat and serve.

By completing the job we are able to save you the trouble of measuring and blending in extra ingredients. We are able to safeguard the quality of the final soup as you serve it, too. A vitally important point. Listen:

A sample of each batch of each soup in its final form (exactly as you will serve it) is tested and tasted for food-value and flavor. We do this to be absolutely sure the soup you serve will be just right.

MANY BARGAINS PREVAIL IN FOOD FOR LENT MENUS

Dairy Produce Holds Low Price Level.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Lenten meals and the prevailing abundance of fine food products from nearby dairies, poultry farms and warehouses, as well as fish, vegetables and fruits from several hundred miles away, have produced some attractive bargains for the week-end food shopper.

In most stores will be found honeydew melons from Chile, South America, and more plentiful supplies of good rhubarb from the hot houses of Michigan and Washington. Fresh and smoked fish are arriving in abundance, together with oysters, from the Atlantic seaboard and gulf of Mexico to vie for favor with fish from the great lakes.

Low Dairy Produce Prices.

Eggs, cottage cheese and other forms of cheese are found at prices even lower than a year ago at this time, in many instances. The supply of fresh eggs from the middle western farms has been sufficiently increased to lower the prices 2 to 5 cents a dozen.

Meat markets are still favorite places with a host of family provisioners, due to the continued low prices being charged for most cuts of beef, pork and veal. Increases, to some extent, in wholesale prices of meats in recent weeks have not made it necessary to advance more than a cent or two a pound the retail prices on the larger cuts, although some of the chops and steaks have gone up slightly as compared with prices early last month.

Milk Consumption Grows.

Some increase in the consumption of milk and cream is being noted in Chicago and suburbs since the retail prices were lowered, and these foods are now in the class of truly economical purchases. Butter and cheese are being consumed this winter in amounts greater than a year ago, according to local merchants.

Housewives recall that considerable agitation was to be noted last fall when the government announced it was placing processing taxes upon such basic foodstuffs as wheat flour, pork and was establishing codes or marketing agreements to enable rice, peach, apple, peanut and citrus fruit growers to boost their prices.

Within the past week a survey has been made locally to learn what the effect of these taxes and agreements have had upon retail food prices. In the case of flour it was found that prices were somewhat higher for a time, but have since come down in a good many stores. Bakery products, breads, crackers, etc., were no higher per unit this week than before the tax was imposed, this also applying to most breakfast cereals.

Pork Prices Reduced.

In the case of pork, many retailers boosted their prices after wholesale prices increased for a time in November and December, but have since been reduced when it became well known that the tax was being paid by the packers and that farmers' prices had been lowered to meet this tax.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has recently admitted that when there is a large supply of a product, sufficient to create a "buyer's market" the processing tax is shouldered upon the producers. What he hopes to accomplish is to make it more attractive for farmers to participate in the federal program of curtailing corn and pork production. Curtailment would then bring a rise in pork prices, he hopes and the consumer would begin to carry the farm relief costs.

In the citrus fruit industry an attempt was made to keep the small oranges, called "culls" or "marbles" from being sold to consumers. These had been forcing prices down on medium and large sized fruit. The attempt was made under terms of a federal trade agreement.

However, some Florida growers were granted an injunction against enforcement of the code by a judge, who held the federal farm adjustment act to be unconstitutional, and the growers are continuing to ship oranges and other citrus fruit in large amounts at low prices.

Among the vegetables which are reduced somewhat in price this week-end are broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, head lettuce, carrots and green peas. Most of these are arriving in refrigerator cars from southern and southwestern farming areas. Florida strawberries also are cheaper than they were two weeks ago.

Husband's Threat to Cut Home in Half Brings Suit

Mrs. Mildred McMahon, 617 West 43d street, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court, charging her husband, Gerald, has threatened to "literally cut our home into two parts to get his share of the property." Mrs. McMahon asserted in her bill, drawn by Attorney Victor Frohlich, that she had purchased the home and all its furnishings from her own money. She charges cruelty.

HOW TO MAKE SURE YOUR FISH WILL TASTE DELICIOUS

Ocean fish are caught by fishing fleets which bring them into the great fish markets of Boston, New York, etc. These markets grade all the fish. They grade them number 1, 2 and 3 grade, according to quality and according to how old the fish are.

All three grades are sold to you as being of fine quality, but at all kinds of prices. It is hard for you to tell whether you are buying number 1, 2 or 3 grade. But you can be sure of better than number 1 grade if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish and get them in the 40-Fathom wrapper.

For 40-Fathom Fish are caught by the 40-Fathom fleet, cleaned, boned and rushed to your dealer. They fairly fly from the 40-Fathom sea-nets to your dealer with the fresh-caught flavor of the sea all through them. They are like Grade A Milk or a choice cut of meat—the tenderloin of the sea—ready for the fire—easy to cook as bacon.

You can make sure you are buying better than number 1 grade and you can make sure your fish will taste delicious, if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish by name and see to it that the fish come to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name 40-Fathom Fish printed on the wrapper. But if the fish are not in the 40-Fathom wrapper, they are not 40-Fathom Fish.

HERE'S DRESSING FOR SALAD THAT WILL KEEP WELL

This salad dressing will keep well in a cool place and is especially good on combination vegetable salads. Or combine with a little whipped cream for fruit salads.

Vinegar-Oil Dressing.

3-4 cup sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
½ onion, scraped
2 cups salad oil.

Combine the sugar and vinegar and boil for 30 seconds. Chill thoroughly. Add the mustard, salt and scraped onion. Then add the salad oil slowly, beating continuously. The mixture will thicken when the oil is added.

Household Hints

Leave the oven door open for half an hour after baking to let the moisture from the cooking escape. This helps to prevent a rusty oven.

Cords of electric irons, toasters, and waffle irons should wear indefinitely if they are pulled out by the plug instead of by the wire itself, and hung up instead of twisted together and pushed into a drawer.

THIS FILLS NEED FOR DESSERT FOR SMALL CHILDREN

A great many desserts are too rich for 2 to 5 year old children. Orange Betty is a simple dessert for the children which adults will also enjoy.

ORANGE BETTY.

1⅓ cups bread crumbs
¾ cup orange juice
2 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons melted butter
Pinch of salt.

Combine the bread crumbs, orange juice, egg yolks, sugar, salt and melted butter. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, turn into a buttered baking dish and bake until firm in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. Serve with:

ORANGE SAUCE.

1 teaspoon cornstarch
5 tablespoons sugar
5 tablespoons hot water
5 tablespoons orange juice
½ tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon butter.

Mix cornstarch with a little cold water, add sugar and hot water and cook until thickened and clear. Add orange and lemon juice and butter.

Misspelled the Hero!

Smart SOCIETY ALWAYS SERVES good TEA

Read the society news in this paper. Note the part tea plays when charming people entertain. You'll find tea in the center of the smartest social whirl. For good tea expresses refinement and graciousness. It is cheering . . . stimulating . . . delicious.

CHERRIES FORM A GARNISH FOR WASHINGTON PIE

Dessert Is Made of Cake Batter.

Maybe the story of Washington and the cherry tree was only a fable, but it certainly did a lot for February, for who would forget cherries when Washington's birthday is to be celebrated?

Gay cherries form a garnish for a Washington pie which is simply made. Just make a two layer cake with your favorite sponge or butter cake recipe. Put the layers together with custard, lemon, or whipped cream filling, spread the top with whipped cream and decorate with candied cherries and leaves of angelica.

LEMON FILLING FOR WASHINGTON PIE.

1 cup sugar
2½ tablespoons flour
6 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon butter
Grated rind of 2 lemons.

Mix and sift sugar and flour. Add egg yolks, butter, lemon juice, and rind and cook in top of a double boiler until thick, stirring constantly. When cool, spread between layers of cake.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Cool orange marmalade before it is poured into jars. This distributes the pieces of fruit evenly throughout the sirup and prevents them from rising to the top of the jar.

BASTING ROASTS HELD WASTE OF TIME AND LABOR

Theories on the cooking of meat are being upset. Basting of roasts is now regarded as wasteful of time and energy, according to cooking experts. The modern way is to put a roast in the pan, fat side up, to allow for self-basting. The only time for putting the cover on a roasting pan is when cooking veal and chicken. Beef, pork, and lamb should always be cooked in an uncovered pan.

GEORGE ROBBINS, FORMER ARMOUR OFFICIAL, 72, DIES

Death Comes on Coast; Rites in Hinsdale.

George Baker Robbins, member of a pioneer Hinsdale family and for thirty-five years a vice president of Armour & Co. prior to his retirement in 1922, died in Burlingame, Cal., on Feb. 9, it was learned here yesterday. Mr. Robbins had been ill for more than a year. He was 72 years old. Funeral services were held in San Francisco where Mr. Robbins resided after he left Chicago, on last Saturday afternoon. Internment will take place today in the Bronswood cemetery at Hinsdale. Mr. Robbins was survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace Jones Robbins, and his two sons by an earlier marriage, William, of Sacramento, Cal., and Cutler of Roswell, N. M.

Came to Hinsdale as Infant.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Robbins was brought to Hinsdale while yet an infant, by his father, William Robbins. Perceiving the inevitable westward expansion of Chicago, the elder Robbins purchased land upon which a number of the western suburbs are located today. Later the sale of this land in town lots founded the family fortune.

In 1887, George Robbins became a vice president of the meat packing concern. He remained with the company until his retirement. In 1907, he married Mrs. Lillian E. Wylde of Hinsdale. In 1920 the couple separated and two years later Mrs. Robbins obtained a divorce.

Takes Post on Coast.

It was at this time that Mr. Robbins resigned from Armour & Co. and became president of the Sutter Basin company, a California land company. In San Francisco, five months after his divorce, he married Mrs. Grace Batchelder Jones.

Early in 1933, Mr. Robbins suffered a stroke which caused his retirement from active business. He and Mrs. Robbins then made their home in Burlingame. His illness increased in seriousness until a few days before his death when he suffered a heart attack which caused his death.

DOCTORS ASSAIL BUNDESEN OVER AMEBIC DISEASE

A report criticizing the manner in which Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, handled the outbreak of amebic dyssentery last summer has been adopted by the executive council of the Chicago Medical society, it became known yesterday.

The report was prepared by the public health administration committee of the society. The committee's chairman is Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, former city health commissioner.

Charging that Dr. Bundesen had delayed too long in advising Chicago physicians of the outbreak, the report declared it to be "poor public health practice for Dr. Bundesen not to enlist the aid of Chicago's 5,000 physicians to be on the lookout for the disease."

Had he made a more prompt revelation, the report adds, the spread of the sickness might have been checked, with a saving of life.

Further on the Kegel report, indirectly accusing Dr. Bundesen of being politically ambitious, declared: "The physicians of Chicago have never approved the mixing of political ambitions with the serious matter of health protection." The report contained a study of the disease and its causes and made certain recommendations.

Mrs. Dohney died Wednesday night in her home at 630 West 64th street. She was 81 years old.

MICHAEL ROWAN, A PIONEER OF SO. CHICAGO, IS DEAD

Michael Rowan, one of South Chicago's oldest residents, died yesterday in the South Chicago hospital. He was 79 years old. Mr. Rowan, who lived at 2865 East 91st street, was the father of Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], the Rev. Timothy F. Rowan, news editor of the New World, Catholic publication printed in Chicago, and Mrs. Joseph Hennessey.

Mr. Rowan was born in Ireland and came to the United States in 1870.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Patrick's church, 9500 Commercial avenue, with burial in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Trapped by Fingerprints, Prisoner Confesses Rape

Confronted with the tell-tale evidence of his finger prints on a milk bottle, Valentine Swiontek, 22 years old, 12025 Indiana avenue, confessed to the Kensington police yesterday that he had committed rape and burglary. Swiontek entered the home of Mrs. Bessie LaRocco, 132 East 120th street, and after striking her with the milk bottle attacked her. He was arrested, but refused to confess being in the house until it was proved to him that the prints on the bottle were his.

Lion Bites Joe E. Brown, Comedian, on Ear and Nose

Monte, Cal., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Joe E. Brown, the film comedian with the wide grin, met a movie performer with a bigger mouth than his own today. A trained lion, working in a picture, snapped at the actor, biting him on the nose and ear. The lion also made a swipe with a paw. Brown was not badly hurt and resumed work after having his wounds treated. The cameras recorded the attack.

ZION CITY'S BIBLE READERS NEARING MARATHON'S END

Expect Finale at Midnight; Voliva Silent.

Zion's Bible reading marathon, promoted by the Rev. Finis J. Dake of the Christian Assembly church "to revive interest in the ancient custom of reading the Scriptures" went into its fiftieth hour at midnight last night.

At that hour 850 of the 1,189 chapters and 21,807 of the 31,117 verses had been intoned by a series of readers. The minister announced his belief that the marathon would be completed between 10 p. m. and midnight tonight.

Pastor Participates.

Mrs. Dake and the pastor were among the readers yesterday. So was H. C. McNabb, a plasterer who worked on the White House during a remodeling project undertaken in the Hoover administration. His portion of the holy writ included the book of Isaiah. Several women volunteers also read.

The only interference with the blaring of the readers' voices on an amplifying system that reaches all parts of Zion was a police ruling that the noise must be kept down from 11 p. m. to 6 a. m. Several automobiles were constantly halted in front of the church during the afternoon and it was estimated that at least fifty persons listened in at all times. Peak attendance last night was 450.

Voliva Keeps Silent.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, who had objected to the reading in the Christian Assembly church, a rival of his organization, made no further effort to halt the marathon. Wednesday he had addressed his own parishioners in Shiloh temple, referring to the rival organization as "the monkey house" and averring that the scriptural reading was just a publicity stunt.

"When I came here a year ago," he said, "this church had 85 members. Now it has 400, most of the recruits having come from the Zionist church. We are not seeking publicity primarily; we are only striving to restore the reading of the Bible as a part of our daily lives. Voliva is seeking publicity for himself."

Dr. J. E. Black, Specialist in Child Diseases, Dies

Dr. Jeremiah E. Black, specialist in child diseases, died of pneumonia yesterday in his home at 6224 South Ashland avenue. He would have been 50 years old Sunday. Dr. Black was born in Viola, Wis. He had practiced medicine in Chicago since 1913, was on the staffs of several south side hospitals, and for years was attending physician for the Infant Welfare society. He was also a former assistant school health officer. Surviving Dr. Black are his widow, Mary, and eight children. Services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Drexel Park church. Burial will be in Beverly cemetery.

Retired President of Bank in West Virginia Is Dead

New Wills Filed in Probate Court

Four wills were filed yesterday with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin in the Probate court and were approved by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The wills are those of:

Mary Barthel, died Jan. 29. Estate, $39,000, to three children. John Barthel, son, is executor.

Fred L. Proctor, died Jan. 3. Estate, $18,000, to widow, two daughters, and sister. Neva Proctor, widow, and Harry Levy are executors.

William P. Reed, died Jan. 7. Estate, $40,000, to widow, Lila Reed, who is executrix.

WOMAN, 84, RUN DOWN BY AUTO, DIES OF INJURY

Mrs. Rosalie Blum, 84 years old, 1829 Milwauke avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries suffered Sunday, when she was struck at Milwaukee avenue and Oakley boulevard by an automobile driven by Ben Papke, 2914 Wisner avenue.

Following the accident Papke attempted to flee, but was pursued by other motorists and seized. He was formally charged with leaving the scene of an accident and also with reckless driving. His trial on these charges was continued yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli, the death of Mrs. Blum not having occurred at that time.

This death and one other brought the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 164. The other victim:

Virgil Caronti, 50 years old, a merchant, 2116 West 54th place, Berwyn, killed last night when the automobile he was driving collided with an automobile driven by Jack Mansfield, 33, 5237 West Lake street, at Central avenue and Division street. Caronti died at St. Anne's hospital. Mansfield, who escaped injury, is being held. Two girls riding with Mansfield were slightly injured.

Art Club Tea to Open Exhibits.

This afternoon from 4 to 6 the galleries at the Arts club will be well filled with "tea-ers" if the tea to open three exhibitions—paintings by Ernest Fiene, paintings by Pedro Pruna, and ceramic sculpture by Vally Wieselthier—is as well attended as all others at the club have been this year.

The guests will have a chance to meet at least one of the artists, the young Viennese sculptor, for she is here, and there is a chance that Mr. Fiene will come from New York in time to be present at the tea. Pruna, however, is not in this country.

Taking turns pouring tea and coffee will be Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Karleton Hackett, Miss Eleanor Duke, Mrs. Arthur Jerrems, Mrs. Hanna Butler, Mrs. George A. Poole, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. Eames MacVeigh, Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Daniel Burnham, Mrs. John U. Nef, Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, and Miss Janet Fairbank.

The William B. Storeys are crushed to think that their wonderful collection of books and paintings is a total loss—burned in the fire that ravaged the front part of their apartment on Feb. 1. They were asleep at the time the fire broke out and one of the maids gave the alarm to the fire department which acted remarkably quickly and efficiently, but which failed to counteract the head start the flames had gained among the old volumes and oils.

Mr. and Mrs. Storey are moving into another apartment on the first floor in the same building on Lake Shore drive next Monday and that will be their new home in Chicago. They are not planning to go away again until next fall, for there is so much to be done in their new home.

Mira Lee Benoist Home from England.

Miss Mira Lee Benoist with an English house guest, has returned to Winnetka after three months in England. While abroad Miss Benoist visited Miss Betty Dawson, and Miss Dawson is now the guest of Miss Benoist and her parents, the William F. Benoists. No large parties have been planned for the English visitor just now, but as she is going to be here for three months there will be plenty of opportunity to entertain for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Simmons are back in their Walton place apartment after a week in Biloxi, Miss. They will have to give up the little apartment around April 1, and they are planning to move to the Drake then, where the former Dorothy Marshall's parents, the Benjamin H. Marshalls, are living, and then out to the famous Marshall studio in Wilmette for the summer.

The Stuart H. Otises have moved in town from Lake Forest to spend the next thre months with Mrs. Otis' parents, the Augustus A. Carpenters, on Lake Shore drive. The Otises will return to their Barberry lane house for the summer.

Benjamin Behrs Will Return Next Week.

The Benjamin L. Behrs and their daughter, Miss Edith Behr, write that they are having such a good time in Florida that they hate to break away and return to Chicago. They are, however, coming home next week.

Miss Margaret Ennis, Mrs. William S. Ennis' daughter, is enjoying a delightful trip. She and an old friend, Miss Mary Knight of New York, started their trip with a Caribbean cruise, but they will leave the boat to linger on any small islands or at any strange ports that excite their fancy. They are including Barbados and Martinique on their itinerary, and they will be away a little over two months.

Mrs. Austin Niblack, who returned to Lake Forest recently from the Niblacks' cottage at Aiken, has once more gone south to take advantage of the weather and the good hunting. She left yesterday afternoon, and will not return to Lake Forest until May. Mr. Niblack is going down April 15 for three weeks, and may return south again before his wife comes north for good.

Mrs. Russell P. Kelley and her children also left Chicago yesterday, but they are traveling further than Mrs. Niblack. They are headed for Florida where they will spend several weeks with Mrs. Kelley's parents, the Stanley Fields at the Fields' Sarasota estate.

Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., and her daughter, Miss Carolyn Erminger, who is to be married to John De Laittre on April 30, are in New York. They will be at home next Wednesday.

South Shore Club to Give "Haggis" Party.

One of the interesting parties in town tomorrow evening will be the "haggis" party at the South Shore Country club. And if you don't know what "haggis" is, get out your copy of Robert Burns and look up his "Ode to Haggis." Then you will discover that it is one of the most famous of Scottish dishes prepared in an amazing but delectable manner and enjoyed the year round. Morrison Wood is the leading influence in arranging tomorrow night's party.

Elected Wednesday by the Tavern club to serve with the new president, William C. Boyden, are the following officers and committee chairmen: First vice president, John Holabird; second vice president, John R. Winterbotham; third vice president, Arthur Bissell; secretary, Charles Collins; treasurer, Louis C. Sudler; chairman house committee, George Dickson; entertainment, Walter Frazier; membership, James Weber Linn; finance, Robert C. Orr; library, Preston Boyden.

The Evanston members of the Infant Welfare society are announcing an interesting series of lectures to be held for the benefit of their charity the next month in the ballroom of Mrs. George B. Dryden's handsome big house at 1314 Ridge avenue in Evanston. Dr. Karl Menninger, vice president of the Institute for Psychoanalysis, will give the lectures at 10 o'clock the mornings of Feb. 22, March 8, and March 22. His subjects will be "The Meaning of Psychoanalysis," "Parental and Educational Application of Psychoanalysis," and the "Limitations of Psychoanalysis."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Curtis B. Dahl, daughter of the President, who makes her home at the White House, was a guest tonight of Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey of New York, chairman of the consumers' advisory board of the NRA, who entertained at a reception and musical at the Sulgrave club for Mlle. Lucrezia Bori, Metropolitan opera soprano.

Mrs. Dahl was accompanied by Mrs. Robert Baker of Chicago, daughter of Col. Louis M. Howe, secretary to the President, who is a guest at the White House.

Many dinner parties preceded the musical. Among them were a dinner of Miss Katrina McCormick, daughter of the late Senator Medill McCormick of Chicago, who had a large company of young people in the Georgetown home of her mother, Mrs. Albert Sims.

The assistant secretary of war and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring entertained a company at dinner tonight at the Mayflower, going afterward to the reception and musical of Mrs. Rumsey. They have as their guest Mr. Woodring's sister, Miss Lida Woodring.

Friends Greet Mrs. Root at Cocktail Party

Mrs. Dudley Root, who was considered one of society's greatest beauties when she lived here, first as Ellen Dudley and then as Mrs. John Root, returned to Chicago Wednesday for a brief visit and immediately entered into a round of parties that had been planned to welcome her home.

The first large one—and it was a large and jolly one—was a cocktail party late yesterday afternoon at which Miss Frieda Foltz, who lives in the same building as the Cadys, was hostess. Tomorrow Mrs. Cady is having a large cocktail party for her guest, followed by a smaller dinner.

Burnett H. Shryock's water color portraits of some of society's attractive young women, including the hostess, were hanging on the walls of Miss Foltz's drawing room yesterday, but no one was able to see them very well so huge was the crowd. Mr. Shryock has cards out for an exhibition of them at his studio at 118 East Oak street next Tuesday, however, so those who want to see them will be able to view them then. He is having a cocktail party Monday afternoon also.

A few of those at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Cady, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Maher—she was present in person and in a picture, too, as were Mrs. Montefiore Stein, Mrs. Robert M. Adams and Princess Rostislav—Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. McKay Stoddard, Lambert Mullen, who returned a fortnight ago from a year in Mallorca, where Mrs. Root has spent most of the two years she has been abroad; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Strotz, Mrs. Walker Szukalska, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, and I. Newton Perry.

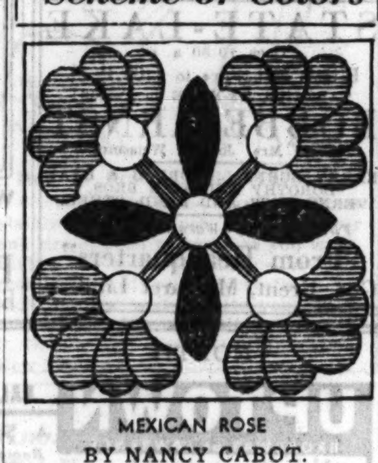
New Quilt Block Has Gay Mexican Scheme of Colors



MEXICAN ROSE

BY NANCY CABOT.

This newcomer to the quilt ranks is a gay appliqued block with a distinctly Mexican color scheme of dark rose, yellow, and two shades of green. A more recent copy of this design, however, is made with the rose petals of a gay yellow and rose print, combined with two shades of green and deep rose. The colors naturally are a matter of choice.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn and Tribune Tower.

Mrs. Ruth Keller Is Named Episcopal Finance Head

Mrs. Ruth Keller, widow of the Rev. George S. Keller, late rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Highland Park, yesterday became financial director of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. She will succeed Edward J. Rogerson, treasurer of the diocese, who died last week. Mrs. Keller has been Mr. Rogerson's assistant in charge of diocesan finances for several years.

It was announced at the headquarters of the diocese, 65 East Huron street, that this is the first time in the 100 years of the Chicago diocese that a woman has directed its financial affairs.

Fields to Try Tragedy Role for First Time

Story of Vaudeville Will Be His Vehicle.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—W. C. Fields, who started his stage career on an old burlesque wheel, traveled the lesser vaudeville circuits in knockabout comedy and finally took his juggling and wise cracks into the limelight in the Follies, is shortly to make that transition from comedy to tragedy that seems the life ambition of every first class funny fellow.

Finishing "You're Telling Me" at Paramount, Fields goes into "Grease Paint" as owner of an out dated repertoire company who struggles to earn enough to keep his boy in college and on a higher social level than his easy living dad.

After that one Fields and little Helen Mack are cast in a real heart wringer, "Fifty-two Weeks for Florette." In this a vaudeville actress with a small child meets and weds a stage bum and sends her child to a fine eastern private school. The mother dying after being deserted, Fields, as an old friend, goes east to the school, too tender hearted to break the news of the mother's death, and tells the child the mother had to leave on a fine new contract, the much coveted fifty-two weeks on big time. The child, hating the snobby school, begs to go to his mother on the road, and Fields, cornered, finally takes the youngster with him.

"We're not saying Bill Fields is a Charlie Chaplin," they say at his studio, "but we're not forgetting that the ability of a great actor moves easily from height of comedy to height of pathos, and we regard Bill Fields as such an actor. We hope we are on the road to a big success with him."

When the Radio-RKO film "Strictly Dynamite" reaches your theater you'll see a dog fight between two dogs, one weighing 173 pounds and the other 168, which was entirely unprogrammed, but one of the most vicious fights ever filmed in a studio.

The combatants were the same two brown Great Danes which appeared with Greta Garbo in "Queen Christina." The dogs, originally from different kennels and used together the first time in Garbo's picture, had to be trained to stand each other's company for that film by being brought together for slightly longer periods every day for two weeks.

By that time they were well enough acquainted to go through the "Christina" film without getting excited, but the high pitched volubility of Jimmy Durante during a scene in the representation of a radio broadcast anteroom excited the dogs yesterday and when Durante ran all his remaining adjectives together in a characteristic climax one dog, named Dito, began to bark. Pence, the other dog, began to growl.

Durante got scared and let go their leashes. In an instant the dogs were at each other all over the place. Durante, little Jackie Searl, Director Elliott Nugent, and the actress who plays Jackie Searl's mother, all ran for the doorway. They couldn't get through as the doorway already was packed by portly Gene Pallette dressed as a radio singing, guitar twanging hillbilly, and two 230 pound ex-heavyweight pugilists, Tom Kennedy and Stanley Fields. Fields and Kennedy played the parts of Durante's bodyguards in the picture.

Technical men climbed up the walls and everybody finally vanished except the cameraman, who, true to his training, continued grinding. That's how the dog fight came to be recorded. The fight was stopped by the trainers of the two animals aided by buckets of water before either monster dog had been able to pin the other down. Both animals suffered slashes.

Spoiled Boys Say Patient Girls Are Fine Inspirations

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Two former "spoiled boys" inform us that we are all wrong about advising girls against marrying their kind.

One says: "It's our only salvation to get hold of a girl who will make us step along and forget that we're not the center of the universe."

Maybe we were wrong. But we do insist that it requires a girl of character to manage a boy who has had his own way from birth, and been trained to think only of himself. She would need to be an exacting character, not too grateful for the favor of being married. The latter kind of young woman would succeed only in further spoiling.

A boy who can look back upon himself as a "spoiled darling" had something there all the time to work on. So, it isn't all the girl's doing.

Harold says: "I can't agree with you. I was a spoiled one, if ever there was one, an only child given everything, denied nothing, and wild, too, until my girl took me in hand. For a while, after marriage, it was not easy going for either of us. Of course, I balked. I wanted my own way. But, having gotten my first steady job [I had tinkered around with jobs before but if I didn't like them I quit] I found I had to take a lot and like it. You can't argue with the boss. You do what he says or out you go and, as my parents had withdrawn their former support, there was nothing for me to do but STICK. But the girl was there every minute telling me she knew it was in me. And believe me, if I showed faint signs of slacking, she got after me, too. Anyway, now I can lay claim to being a reg'lar, which is my real reason for writing. I never would have been if I hadn't taken on responsibility, a thing I never knew before marriage."

Joel's tale runs pretty much the same. The girl put the screws on and he had to come through. But interesting to parents is the resentment felt, by both of these former spoiled young men, against never having been forced to recognize that life asks for more than self-indulgence. "My kids," Joel testifies, "will not be brought up the way I was!"

Sembrich Is Unable to Greet Friends on Her 76th Birthday

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—For the first time in her long and notable career Mme. Marcella Sembrich was unable to greet her artistic and musical friends in celebration of her birthday today. She has been ill for several months, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. M. W. Stengel, said, but today, on her 76th birthday, she is well on the road to recovery

Nevertheless, hundreds of telegrams and letters and many flowers poured into her apartment on Central Park West.

Mme. Sembrich is almost the sole survivor of a large coterie of famous artists, her contemporaries in the heyday of Caruso, Nordica, and many others. Of the great voices that have sung with her at the Metropolitan only Scotti, Schumann-Heink, Farrar and a few others still remain.

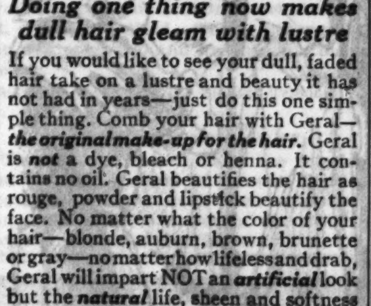
Unable to Move Showboat from River Because of Ice

Owners of the showboat Dixiana have been unable to remove her from her berth in the Chicago river between Clark and Dearborn streets because ice has blocked the mouth of the river, they told Municipal Judge William E. Helander yesterday. One week ago Erwin A. Meyers, one of the owners, promised to move the boat. The judge continued the case.



MIDDLE AGED HAIR IS YOUTHFUL AGAIN

"I'M DISGUSTED WITH MY HAIR. IT'S ALWAYS SO DULL, LIFELESS AND OLD LOOKING. HOW DO YOU KEEP YOURS SO LOVELY?"

"MY HAIR WAS THAT WAY UNTIL I USED GERAL THE ORIGINAL MAKE-UP FOR THE HAIR. WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT?"

Doing one thing now makes dull hair gleam with lustre

If you would like to see your dull, faded hair take on a lustre and beauty it has not had in years—just do this one simple thing. Comb your hair with Geral—the original make-up for the hair. Geral is not a dye, bleach or henna. It contains no oil. Geral beautifies the hair as rouge, powder and lipstick beautify the face. No matter what the color of your hair—blonde, auburn, brown, brunette or gray—no matter how lifeless and drab, Geral will impart NOT an artificial look but the natural life, sheen and softness of youthful girlhood. Obtain Geral at all good toilet counters and drug stores.

Mellow Coffee!

New coffee delight comes as improved process extracts caffeine

Perfectly delicious . . . this new coffee. Smooth, mellow . . . marvelously mellow! Kellogg chemists set out to rid coffee of bitter caffeine and still retain all the delicate flavor. "Spend a million if necessary." They did. And found more than they sought! This coffee, freed from the bitterness of caffeine, had a new delightful flavor.

Because it's good . . . as well as good for your nerves, heart and digestion . . . try this brand new Kaffee-Hag Coffee. 97% caffeine-free. Blend of finest Brazilian and Colombian coffees. Ground or in the bean. Vacuum packed. Satisfaction guaranteed or money returned. At your grocer's . . . or send 15c for trial can. Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

(Pronounced Kaffee-HAIG)

CHICAGO'S COFFEE LOVERS PRAISE NEW MELLOW FLAVOR

So enthusiastic are Middle Western coffee-lovers over the new mellow blend of Kaffee-Hag, the coffee that's 97% free from caffeine, that each mail is bringing its makers letter after letter of congratulations and praise:

A "landslide" with Mrs. Marie Brecka, 2442 South Albany Avenue, Chicago. "I was told not to drink so much coffee by my doctor, but going without coffee meant a lot to me. So I kept on drinking coffee until a friend told me to try Kaffee-Hag Coffee. It has been a landslide with me, and my family also likes it."

For her entire family, Mrs. J. A. Rozynek of 8800 Commercial Ave., Chicago, writes, "Four of us at home are now drinking Kaffee-Hag Coffee, and our neighbors are doing the same. We find it most pleasing to drink, does not affect our nerves as ordinary coffee. But best of all, no sleeping worries. We drink as much as we like and still sleep like babies. We wouldn't think of serving anything but Kaffee-Hag Coffee to our friends."

"It's wonderful coffee, the best my family and I have had since we started drinking coffee. The flavor is delicious and just hits the spot when we have 'coffee and ——', just before retiring. Our guests also notice its fine mellow flavor. From now on I'm a Kaffee-Hag drinker," writes Mrs. Walter Leschuck, 2004 Hancock St., Chicago.

Mrs. J. S. Templeton, 733 Forest Ave., Evanston, Illinois, writes: "I like Kaffee-Hag very much. It is better for my stomach than ordinary coffee. I recommend it to my acquaintances."

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 23, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce. Barbara introduces him to her father as a casual acquaintance. Her father suspects Barbara's interest in Rance. He won't have him in the house again. Then relents, fearing she will meet him outside. Barbara tells her father she is going to marry Gregory. Brawre grants Gregory an interview in his New York office. He turns him out when he learns he is divorced and has a stroke when Barbara tells him she is leaving to marry Gregory.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

UNFORESEEN DEFEAT.

When half an hour later Rance arrived with Dr. Braddock Barbara was on the floor holding her father's head in her lap, the servants half dressed, scurrying around in the back shadows. The doctor knelt down to make a quick examination, while Barbara, wide eyed, sought in his face for the first revealing expression.

"Doctor! What is it? Tell me!"

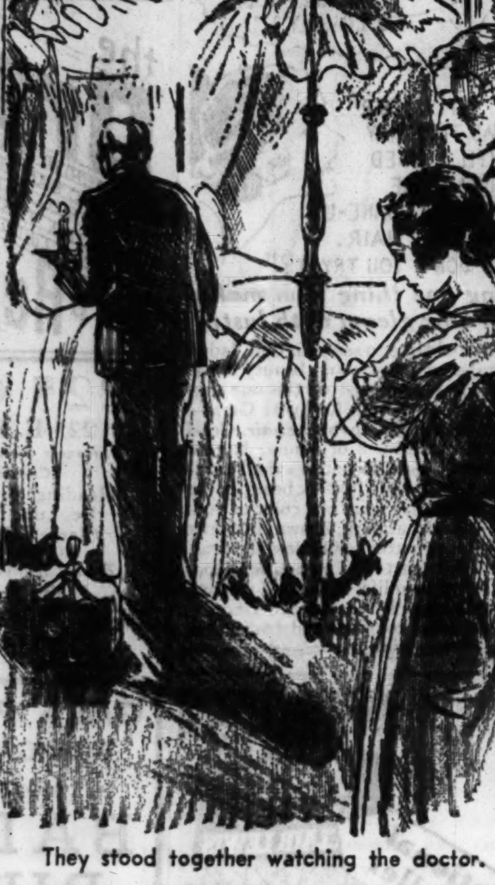
"He's had a stroke, how serious I can't tell yet." He looked up at Rance. "I want to get him to his bed. Take him up carefully. Don't bump into anything."

Rance bent down and raised him as lightly as a child. Barbara, carrying a candle, led the way up the carpeted stairs, their figures flinging stretching shadows along the wall.

"What a mockery that I should be doing this," he thought grimly. His imagination played tricks with him. He imagined that Brawne's eyes were open, staring unseeingly up at him, or did they see, with some faint flicker of intelligence? He could not repress a shudder, frightened by the hideous thoughts which rushed into his brain.

A dim candle made a little pool of light in the vast upper hall. He followed Barbara into the bedroom and placed his burden delicately on the great four poster bed under the tasseled top.

He went with her into her bedroom, drawing his arm about her. They stood together watching as the doctor, bending over the bed, candle in hand, stood staring down at the stricken man.



They stood together watching the doctor.

"Time to be calm."

"Get hold of yourself," he said gently; "you'll be needed."

"Gregory—he mustn't die!"

"He's not going to die."

She closed her eyes and shuddered.

"You're right. I must get hold of myself. Talk to me."

The doctor joined them,

"I want an ice pack and some calimel as quickly as possible."

She said mechanically:

"Yes, I know where it is."

"I want a nurse."

"Miss Peters, I'll send for her."

"There's nothing immediate to fear. Much depends—— He won't regain consciousness for some time yet."

"You mean he isn't going to die?"

"No, no. First attacks seldom are fatal. He's a very sick man, though. Hurry with the ice pack."

Rance went down to the village after the nurse, glad for some definite action to relieve the tension in his brain. What an incredible situation! Good heavens, if he should die!——

When he returned he sent the nurse upstairs and waited in the parlor thinking:

Thomas and the maid came in terrified. He tried to reassure them, feeling all the time that they resented him. He was the enemy, the intruder. The parlor was full of shadows. He lit two lamps, but even then its stiffness depressed him. He went out on the porch trying to remember what had happened when people had a stroke like that.

Barbara came presently and they sat hand in hand listening to the things that moved in the night.

"His eyes frighten me. They look at me so awfully! They seem to be staring at me out of the dark."

"I know. I had the same feeling."

"Will he be paralyzed, Gregory?"

"It depends. Not necessarily, I think. Even if it is so at first you get over it you know—in the first attack."

She put his hand against her burning cheek.

"I feel as though everything had stopped inside me."

He nodded.

"There is nothing to be said."

"Nothing."

They were silent again, waiting. He wondered what she was thinking. Had she any realization of what this meant to them; that all in a moment they had ceased to be free agents, caught in the grip of an inexorable fate? If he should die? What would that mean to her and to him? And if he lived, a helpless paralytic perhaps? What solution was there? What escape? Was the old tyrant capable of deliberately dying to prevent her marrying him, or playing on her nerves until she broke down?

"Barbara?"

"Yes."

"There's no use hiding from ourselves that this is going to be the hardest thing we've had to face. You are going to deal with a man absolutely, blindly obsessed with one idea. He will stop at nothing to beat me. It will be harrowing, soul wracking, and when he's broken you down, day by day, he's capable of extracting a deathbed promise from you."

"No, never that!"

"Face the possibility and be prepared."

A step in the hall, the creaking of a door and a sudden shudder as Barbara, springing up, cried:

"Well?"

"Your father may come out of the coma, Miss Barbara. Doctor thinks you'd better be there."

Rance, left alone, stood looking up to where on the bulky shadow a spot of light shone from the sick room. What an incredible experience! A moment ago he had been master of his ship, steering his way through the pleasant adventure of life, supremely confident and self-sufficient. A chance meeting with Laurie in New York, a turn to the right instead of to the left at some corner of destiny and all in a moment he was stripped and helpless, tossed in the tempest that had fallen on him out of a clear sky. His carefully organized philosophy had been shattered. Instead of the aloof point of view of a superior observer of life, here he was caught in the grip of implacable forces, torn by elemental emotions, staring into the face of defeat, bewildered and helpless against his enemy. The strength of the weak!

"Will he beat me?" he thought, gazing up at the window. "How can you fight against that? What can I do? Nothing. And nothing could have been foreseen!"

The next day they moved as in a dream, with impenetrable silences between them, avoiding the issue. In the walks they took by the river, or in the long moments when they sat staring, saying perfunctory things, their hands clung to each other as though fearful of that something unseen that was hovering in the air above them to snatch them apart.

For the moment Barbara had but one thought: to bring her father back to life. Her remorse was instinctive and unreasoning. What had happened was her fault, the result of that terrible anger that had flamed between them. If he died it would be her fault. If he lived a cripple she alone would be responsible for the blow which had laid him helpless in the full tide of his career. In the brief moments when she was permitted to sit by his side and cover his hand with hers she felt his eyes on her in dumb accusation. When would he speak, what would he demand of her?

Doris Blake Answers

Hurt Feelings No Remedy.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love my boy friend, but I try to laugh off his seriousness because of our ages. Do you think I'm right in doing this?

"L. H."

You don't need to hurt the boy's feelings to keep from taking him seriously, do you?

Reputation Is Valuable.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I like goes with a fast crowd, therefore gets a bad reputation. Should I continue to go with him? Loretta."

Not if you value your good name, Loretta. We simply can't disregard the old maxim about being judged by the company we keep.

Use Navy Blue and Coral for a Color Thrill

Red Jacket Is Worn with One Piece Frock.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

One of the nicest, newest color thrills is a new "navy blue and get-together." . . . It's so different that you'll hold your breath when you first discover the combine, a startling contrast that is eye filling and as exciting as a new cocktail.

It's the navy blue topped with coral, that fascinating rosy red coral, the shade of those jigsaw imported coral necklaces your mother wore when you were an admiring color conscious youngster. They are using soft wool in this grand new color in short snappy coral jackets with a simply designed dark blue wool one piece frock . . . or a longish sort of a loose sleeved coat of the coral over a dark blue dull crêpe silk dress. It's positively one of the newest get-togethers any jaded shopper ever discovered.

Huge pearl buttons almost the width of three inches hold the long coats at the neckline, and short jackets are semi-fitted and made with and without pockets. . . . They are brand new creations. Keep a shopping eye open for them and have the surprise of your career.

Something else that will arrive in a few short weeks to stun you into appreciative silence . . . the silk and wool combinations. . . . For instance, a sheer black wool dress topped with a rustling taffeta jacket, or a tailored wool crêpe afternoon dress worn with a swagger coat of faille silk in black.

Lots of new clinging evening gowns are worn with taffeta fitted jackets . . . watch taffeta and all the crisp whispering silks this spring. You'll hear and see plenty of duets of these two fabrics fashioning some of the best looking ensembles you could ever dream about.

The old romantic fringed ruchings of taffeta have been revived for edging collars, cuffs and even hemlines of fetching jackets and dresses for early spring. You can't go wrong with the swish of taffeta somewhere about your favorite spring ensemble!

Student Orators Compete for Club Prize Tomorrow

Five high school seniors, winners in their school divisions in the annual George Washington oratorical contest conducted by the Union League club, will compete for final honors tomorrow afternoon in the club quarters. Medals are awarded to the five divisional winners and a grand prize of an oil painting valued at $100 will be awarded to the winner of the finals. Larry Gould, second in command of the first Byrd Antarctic expedition, will talk on "With Byrd at the Bottom of the World" following the contest.

Step out into the SUNSHINE

How many days of your life are lost in feeling under par? How many hours which might be bright are dull and dispirited?

Half-hearted days are frequently due to common constipation. It clouds your waking hours, takes the sunshine out of living. Yet it can be overcome so easily by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a fine source of iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this "cereal way" pleasanter than risking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal or use in muffins, breads, omelets, etc. In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

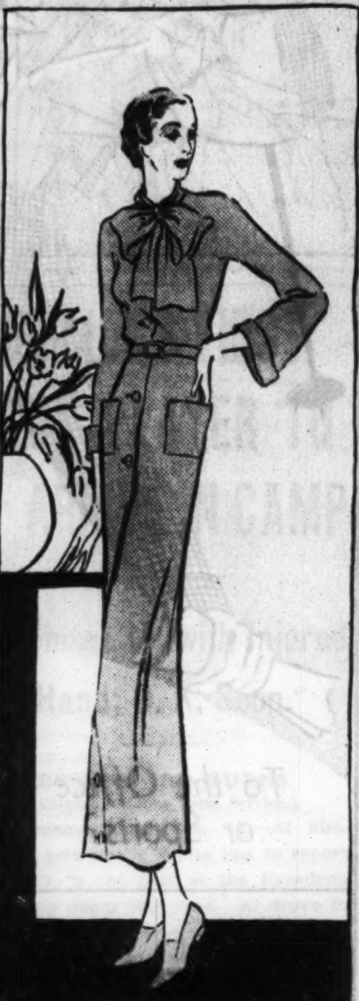
Paris Scatters Buttons Over Sports Frocks



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Sports clothes that are now cavorting around in southern sunshine are, most of them, snugly buttoned up. The skirt that fastens all the way up the front is the smartest garment to wear over shorts and the one piece sports frock that does the same thing is a chic little number.

Molyneux makes this kind of dress, as pictured, and makes it of coarse linen in natural color and in pastel shades. He has just done this model in beige linen for Lynn Fontaine to wear in the London production of "Reunion in Vienna." He has made it also for many of his chic private clients to wear at Palm Beach and other southern resorts.

The dress is as simple as a wild daisy. It has a soft scarf collar of linen that is tied in a floppy bow at the neckline, and below this scarf it begins to button on big galalith buttons that continue down to the skirt hem in the center front. The three-quarters length sleeves are loose and have turnback band cuffs.

The plain rather narrow skirt has patch pockets set on the hips.

Many Feminine Types May Use Lavender Scent

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In one of the better trade magazines devoted to toilet requisites, one learns that lavender perfume is not, as popularly assumed, a perfume for an old-fashioned lady in a long, fluffy dress, or perfume for the feminine type only.

Lavender is a spicy, woodsy odor, according to Miss Lola Abel, chemist and perfume authority. The athletic woman may use it with great becomingness. The English woman who enjoys her horseback riding and long walks has been a user of lavender perfume for a long time.

While many women, by happy coincidence, like the perfume that best suits their personalities, it is not the universal rule.

Miss Abel, addressing saleswomen, advises, in helping a woman to choose an odor, to take into consideration that woman's entire personality—her walk, her gestures, and her voice.

One does not usually think of the voice in connection with perfume choice. Yet, there is told an incident of one with a penchant for a delicate flower odor, whose low-pitched, husky voice proved completely at odds with the perfume impression. A heavier odor, it was agreed, would have been more in harmony.

Flower perfumes are not believed, by our authority, to be complimentary to the sleekly groomed, sophisticated woman. The sophisticated one is recognized by her smartly arched eyebrows, her model walk, her finely manicured nails, finished makeup and smart coiffure. Her skill, rather than natural qualities, having made her what she is, her personality would call for one of the new manufactured odors. For the dynamic personality, the vibrant, magnetic sister, an exotic chypre odor is a clever adoption. For the vivacious type, a bit flippant, an exotic odor is recommended, but not so heavy as chypre.

For the older woman, gray haired, from 55 to 60, a light, flowery, bouquet suggestion is made. And for the average woman, attractively groomed, nice looking, and natural in actions and appearance, the refreshing odors of jasmine and gardenia are suggested.

Knox College Celebrates 97th Year; Restore Building

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Knox College today observed the ninety-seventh anniversary of its founding, the celebration centering in an alumni dinner and program. Restoration of Old Main the only building still standing that is directly connected with a Lincoln-Douglas debate, furnished the central theme for the program. The exterior restoration work in the main building is nearing completion, its appearance now being almost exactly as it was in 1858 at the time the debate was held here.

Manicures May Cure Child of Biting His Nails

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Nail biting is one of children's habits that yields least readily to what you might call the direct attack. Yesterday we described how a mother might go "round Robin Hood's barn" to cure the habit.

Today we'll give a few signposts on the straight, not the roundabout road, to the same end. And to encourage you let me tell you that many mothers have found success in these suggested ways.

Rough cuticle or broken nails sometimes start the habit of biting. But, vice versa, rough cuticle, dryness and hangnails usually result from nail biting. So start on a régime of caring for your son's or daughter's nails. With a boy work a little olive oil or vaseline into the ends of the fingers—he might not like it if you used cold cream, feeling it a bit too feminine. But to a little daughter the use of one of your fragrant beauty creams would be most welcome—and perhaps even a a little thrilling. This relieves the dryness.

The other thing is an appeal to pride. Give your child a gentle manicure every day or evening in some leisurely moment—even if no one but a loving mother would see anything to manicure! And this is not to be an occasion for scolding, though you may be as free as you like with praise and encouragement.

The buying of a pretty manicure set just for the little daughter, or a masculine looking outfit for the boy has been known to work wonders. Or the promise of one might be used as an incentive. In fact, some parents have used rewards with older children, with definite success. Of course with them the reward needs to be something greatly desired, like a bicycle or a theater party, or a trip. Then the habit, once broken, is usually given up for good. I see no objection to the use of such a tangible incentive under these circumstances—for the cure of the habit is more difficult with older children, though sometimes with adolescence, the habit automatically stops.

But let me repeat—whatever you do, avoid nagging and scolding, and above all, shaming a child. Those measures get you nowhere, and are bad for his morale.

LAKE SHORE DRIVE WIDENING NEEDED TO AID NEW SPAN

Project Would Increase Benefit to Traffic.

BY HAL FOUST.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Inquiries today disclosed that neither the state nor the Lincoln park board has any plans for widening Lake Shore drive between Ohio and Oak streets. Without such an improvement, completion of the outer link bridge would be of little benefit to traffic. The construction of the bridge was started more than three years ago, but no steps have been taken toward facilitating traffic from Michigan avenue and Oak street to the north ramp at Lake Shore drive and Ohio street.

Whether the span is to be finished soon with $6,877,000 easy money from the Public Works administration may be determined tomorrow in an opinion to be made public by the law firm of Chapman & Cutler. The lawyers, experts on securities issued by taxing bodies, are to advise the PWA whether the government cannot accept the paper offered by Lincoln park and the South parks as collateral for the federal loan.

"North" Improvements Needed.

Without improvements to the north of the bridge, few cars would be able to use the $10,901,000 structure. Oak street east of Michigan avenue is narrow. The turn from Oak street into Lake Shore drive accommodates only one lane in each direction. Lake Shore drive south of Oak street is 50 feet wide as compared with the 100 foot width of the bridge roadway.

"It's not a state highway route so we haven't done anything about it," Robert Kingery, state director of public works, replied to an inquiry.

"But with the outer link bridge completed, it will become the logical route for state highway traffic," the interviewer argued.

"That's true," said Mr. Kingery, "and I'll have the state's engineers take up the problem."

No Decision Reached.

The Lincoln park board, under the present and preceding administrations, has dilly-dallied with various proposals for its connections with the outer link bridge, but no decision has been reached, nor seemingly even approached.

"There no question that something will have to be done to accommodate the flood of traffic that will come over the bridge," said Hugh Young, chief engineer of the Chicago plan commission and consultant for the Lincoln park board. "But some of the authorities have contended that we'll know better what is needed after the bridge is opened."

The outer link bridge is expected to take much of the traffic that now uses the Michigan avenue span, which has been described as the busiest pavement in the world, its six lanes carrying 55,000 automobiles a day.

WARRANT ISSUED IN FEUD OF SEER AND SEERS' FOE

Manindra Chandra Guha, 5606 Drexel avenue, chemistry student at the University of Chicago and president of the Mahatma Gandhi society, obtained a warrant at the Hyde Park station last night, charging one Fri Deva Ram Sukul, 232 East Erie street, with disorderly conduct.

Guha is a Hindu. Sukul is said to be a Hindu, too. But Sukul is a seer who reads the stars and gazes into a crystal ball, to all of which Guha is opposed. In fact, he and his society are dedicated, he said, to exposing so-called Hindu seers.

"Seers in India are only yokels," Guha told the police. "Evidently Sukul does not like my campaig.. against seers. He came to my apartment Wednesday night and, knocking on the door, he told me that he had a message for me. I told him to send me a letter, for I did not think he was knocking on the door with his hand. It sounded like a pipe. He finally broke in the door, which is why I want the warrant.

"Besides, Sukul is not a real seer. He is not a genuine Hindu. He was born in Trinidad."

Cuban Dredge with 10 Men Aboard Adrift in Caribbean

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 15.—An unwieldy Cuban dredge with ten men aboard, only two of them seamen, has been battling the Caribbean sea since Wednesday when it broke away from the tug Mario, bound from Kingston to Curaçao. The dredge has no radio or supplies and no power other than a small fuel tender, which is attempting to tow it. The 15th naval district station here has broadcast a message to all ships to watch for the dredge and assist it.

TYDINGS FLAYS PLAN TO FINANCE SALES TO RUSSIA

Would Merely Increase Debt to U. S., He Says.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—A vigorous protest came from the Democratic side of the senate today against the administration's plan to set up an 11 million dollar corporation to finance the sale of American goods to Russia.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] declared that the project meant merely increasing Russia's debt to the United States, a debt which at its present level the soviet nation is unable to pay.

"The only way Russia can make payment is in goods," said Senator Tydings, "and I want to protest against the loan of 11 million dollars to any agency which will permit it to sell still more goods to Russia and so accentuate the unbalanced trade relations which already exist between the two countries."

Questions Authority.

"I cannot understand," the Maryland senator went on, "under what authority of law the funds of the people of the United States can be loaned in effect to a foreign government. If there should be any sound way that trade would be promoted between these two countries the creation of this proposed bank might be justified, but when it is a known fact that we are selling more goods in dollars than Russia is selling of her goods to us, to lend them still more money to buy still more goods and refusing to take her goods in return, the only medium through which she can make payment, to me is absolutely not understandable."

He could foresee, Senator Tydings, only the loss of the American taxpayers' eleven million dollars as the result of President Roosevelt's proposal.

"We are shipping more to Russia than she is shipping to us," he said. "Russia is in our debt already and this proposal will put her further in our debt and make it absolutely impossible under existing trade arrangements for her to discharge this debt.

Calls Scheme Unsound.

"This whole scheme is unsound it is but a great part of the thing that was carried on by the last administration when the imprimatur of the state department was placed upon foreign loans now in default. American investors in foreign bonds are holding them without either payment of interest or any payment in the form of a sinking fund. After having been in opposition to that whole policy as we were on this side of the senate aile, knowing those loans would not be paid, I cannot understand how this administration wants to put itself in line with that repudiated policy."

THREE YOUTHS HOLD UP BANK IN BURLINGTON, WIS.

Escape with Aid in an Automobile.

Burlington, Wis., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Three youths entered the Bank of Burlington this afternoon, forced the six employés to lie on the floor and scooped up $6,000 in currency from the counter and the bank's vault. A fourth member of the gang who waited in his car with the motor running drove south through Kenosha county as soon as the robbers emerged from the bank.

Ray Spiegelhof, an employé of the Meinhardt bank diagonally across the street from the robbed bank, saw the robbers drive away and fired several ineffective shots at them. An hour later the car driven by the bandits was found abandoned on a lonely country road in Kenosha county between Powers and Twin lakes. It was a Nash coach reported stolen last night from Wheaton, Ill.

The robbery is almost an anniversary of a previous robbery of the Bank of Burlington, which was robbed of $10,000 under similar circumstances Feb. 19, 1931.

The six employés in the bank when the robbers entered were Henry Heiderman, assistant cashier; Frank Brehm, teller; William Huse, Elmer Ganswindt, Evelyn Boschert and Theresa Franstedder. The robbers displayed much nervousness and were believed to have been novices, employés said.

There were no customers in the bank when they entered and announced it was a holdup. The employés offered no resistance and there was no interruption. The bank is situated on the city's most prominent corner.

Martin Lippman, New York attorney, whose firm, McLaughlin and Stern, is seeking $407,000 in fees and $80,000 for expenses in connection with the American Bond and Mortgage company bankruptcy case, occupied the witness stand all day yesterday before Garfield Charles, federal referee. He will be cross-examined this morning. He detailed the work done by his firm in the bankruptcy case over a five year period.

COMMUTE DEATH SENTENCES FOR COUNTY BUFFALO

The death sentences of Cook county's herd of eight buffaloes were commuted yesterday by Supt. Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserves. He announced that he has been deluged with letters from citizens in Wisconsin and Illinois, who asked that they be given the buffaloes rather than have the beasts slain for their meat.

"One man in Wisconsin has one buffalo and 800 acres of land," said Supt. Sauer. "He says that he wants another buffalo to keep his one buffalo company. He also says that his animal is a bull and that he wants a cow if we'll give him one.

"Down in Harmon, Ill., a man named Leo Downs wants two buffaloes. A lot of taxidermists and naturalists who have been asking us for the skins and skulls of the herd apparently are going to be disappointed. All that will be necessary to save the animals will be the county board's approval for giving them away."

Supt. Sauers said that those who had asked for the buffaloes would be required to submit references. If they are found to be "animal lovers," with facilities for keeping a buffalo, they will be recommended by him to the board.

25,000 CUBANS JOIN MEMORIAL TO MAINE DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 15.—More than 25,000 persons gathered this morning at the Maine monument to pay tribute to the 260 American sailors and marines who perished when the United States battleship Maine sank in Havana harbor 36 years ago.

President Carlos Mendieta stressed the friendship existing between the United States and Cuba and commended the good neighbor policy of President Roosevelt. Mendieta mentioned the common battle of the two nations for Cuban independence, concluding, "It will be our imperishing purpose to live in strict and constructive alliance with the country of Washington and Lincoln."

Jefferson Caffery, ambassador designate of the United States, replied with thanks in behalf of President Roosevelt.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Victors in two nights of fighting are cooling out this morning, getting ready for the battles tonight at the Savoy Athletic club, out of which will come a team from the Open division and from the Novice class to represent the near south side in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

These courageous lads—about half of them whites and the other half Negroes—are in dire need of the pause during the daylight hours today. They came through one of the stormiest knockout festivals in Golden Gloves annals, the survivors of just about the hardest punching group which ever competed in a sectional tournament in Chicago.

They must battle through another round of bouts tonight before the championships are passed around.

Watson, Williams Stand Out.

Standing out in the great mêlée were two Negro boys—both welterweights—who by their victories last night appeared to be on their way to championships. One of them, Earl Watson, a runner-up on a former Golden Gloves intercity team, was the hero in the Open division fighting. He won on a knockout. The other is Roy Williams, Novice 147 pounder, who fought so well he gave every indication of being an Open division warrior.

The carnival of knockouts started thirty seconds after the fighting began and continued with but few interruptions until the program ended.

The first boys to square away against each other were Rollie Mathews from the Savoy A. C. and Carl Yele from the Catholic Youth Organization. Mathews shot with his left and right. Both punches landed and Yele was out of the tournament.

Para Displays Wallop.

It was Andrew Para from the Polish Youth Organization who slipped over the second haymaker. His foe was Edmund Loome of the C. Y. O. The knockout came in the second round and a lot of the spectators came to the conclusion that Para is one of the hardest punchers they have looked at among the amateurs this season.

Para's knockout victory was the first of four which came along one after another. Martin Deglin slapped down Walter Dombrowski in the second round. The next battle ended in the first round, but it was a hair lifter while it lasted. Ernest Burnett, a Negro boy, squared away against Joe Ingraffia. Thirty seconds after it started Ingraffia floored Burnett for an eight count. Burnett came up swinging. The right he tossed caught Ingraffia on the chin and he went down for the full count.

Sanello Gets No. 5.

The fifth knockout squirted out of the flying gloves of Jimmy Sanello, who punched Edward Paul of the Savoy A. C. out of the picture in the second round. So it went all night long, with 65 per cent of the victories for March 9? If it's still blank (you're in luck if it is) write down "Golden Gloves finals at Chicago Stadium." Just to make sure you'll remember it, go to The Tribune Public Service Offices at 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower today. There you can get tickets for $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, $1.10, or 55 cents. If you're an out-of-towner, mail your order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Make checks payable to The Chicago Tribune.

WHAT'S IN YOUR DATE BOOK

And that's not all. Better check Feb. 26, 27, and 28. On those nights the Tournament of Champions, with the finest boxers in all Chicagoland battling each other, will be held at the Stadium. Tickets for these bouts are $1.10, 66 cents, and 40 cents. All seats are reserved.

SIMMONS FIRST SOX PLAYER TO ARRIVE IN CAMP

Al Shows Up with Injured Hand; O. K. Soon.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 15.—Al Simmons, last of the White Sox to report in 1933, is the first at the Pasadena training camp this year. Al drove in this afternoon in a solo dash from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been conducting some preliminary training.

Baseball's second highest paid star arrived slightly hors de combat—another hand injury, though not as severe as that which delayed his training program last spring.

It seems that Al had a case of water—yes, water, for Al is currently a teetotaler—Al had this case of water in his car and while he was passing through the famous Apache Indian village between Lordsburg, N. M., and Phoenix, Ariz., he sought to open one of the bottles. The neck of the container busted in Al's invaluable throwing hand and for a time the young man bled ever so profusely.

Aha, a Medicine Man!

But Al had read about Indian medicine men, so he went right into the Apache village and sure enough, there was a regular doctor there. The Apache sewed up the cut in Simmons' hand, bandaged it in the most approved fashion, and though the hand still is causing the athlete great pain, he expects to be ready to do some golfing next week and some baseballing in about ten days.

The arrival of Simmons on the ground two weeks ahead of the date he had been ordered to report sets a new high in his career. Heretofore he never has been on time, much less the first to show. And the last three years he was with the A's he never did get to the Philadelphia training camp in Fort Myers, Fla.

Plans to Meet Dykes, Haas.

Tomorrow morning Al will get up early and go to Wilmington, where he will meet his two buddies, Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas. They sailed from New York on Feb. 1, making about a dozen tropical stops en route. It is the first time that Jim and Mule ever jumped the gun by anything like two weeks.

Simmons arrived at Pasadena nine pounds under the weight at which he played last year. He was slightly above the 200 mark most of last season. He expects to start the regular season a few pounds under 190.

The ex-Philadelphia trio expects to establish a training routine beginning tomorrow afternoon. Daily mountain hikes, added to golf, are on the program.

Flood Fixes Field.

Simmons was delighted to learn of the improvement in the Sox's playing field in Arroyo Seco. Last season the only criticism of the playing field was that the ground was baked. The New Year's flood took care of that. Simmons reports his legs in the best condition they've been in years, but still and all he welcomes the soft turf underfoot.

READY TO THROW FISTS FOR OLD MILWAUKEE

After juggling boxes like this for a few hours a day Sam Cianciola thinks he'll be in shape to knock over his opponents in the Milwaukee Golden Gloves tournament which will open Monday night. Sam is a light heavyweight, and a trucker by trade.

"Did it last year, why not again" asks Barry Gillett of Waukesha, Wis., who was Milwaukee Golden Gloves flyweight champion in 1933 and a strong contender for honors in this year's tournament which starts Monday at the Milwaukee auditorium. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Walsh Named as Assistant at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The appointment of Adam Walsh, captain of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen in 1924; Myles Lane, formerly of Dartmouth, and Wesley Fesler, formerly of Ohio State, as assistant varsity football coaches at Harvard was announced tonight by William J. Bingham, director of athletics. Eddie Casey remains as head coach.

Both Fesler and Walsh were signed for a full year of college coaching, while Lane was signed for the football season only. Fesler will have charge of the Harvard ends and kickers, as he did a year ago, while Walsh will coach the line and Lane the backfield.

Never in Harvard history has the Crimson had as many non-Harvard men on its coaching staff.

Walsh Formerly at Yale.

Last year Fesler joined the Harvard coaching staff, but Walsh and Lane are new comers. Fesler is the only one of the 1933 coaching staff who has been retained, the others—Nils V. Nelson, John Donovan, and the Bradford brothers, Charley and Eddie—being displaced.

Walsh has spent the last five years at Yale on the staffs of Marvin Stevens and Reggie Root, but was left without a position after the recent Yale shakeup.

The other new coach, Lane, was head coach of the Boston university football team during the 1932 season. He was asked to take a 50 per cent salary reduction for the 1933 season, but refused to accept and remained out of football last fall.

Lane Playing Hocky.

At present Lane is a member of the Boston Bruins of the National Hocky league. He has been playing professional hocky for five seasons.

Since Walsh has had previous experience in track and basketball he is expected to assist in those sports.

At the present time Fesler is head coach of basketball and he apparently has been signed to continue in that rôle next winter.

In the Wake of the News

OLD FRIENDS AND NEW.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb 15.—Friend Arch: Well, Arch, it's just surprising how many people you meet here whom you know or of whom you have heard. Perhaps it isn't so surprising when you consider that all hotels and inns and cottages are filled for the first time in several years and that accommodations are beginning to command a premium. Lest one get in bad with the chamber of commerce, it's proper to say that all visitors will be taken in. No, I don't mean taken in exactly, but rather taken care of.

I told you about being invited to tea at Henry Saltonstall's. Well, as I hoped, it wasn't entirely tea. And whom did I meet there but Harry Farnham, who was a schoolmate 35 years ago when I lived over on the west side next door to Billy Tascott, who was accused of being the murderer of A. J. Snell, although Billy disappeared after the mystery murder and they never found him.

Later Harry was a partner of Ed Willoughby in Chicago in real estate and office building renting. Well, Harry came down here when real estate became quiet in Chicago and he has built a fine home near the river. He likes it so well he's opened an office in expectation of realty activity. He was here all through last summer. Had expected to go to North Carolina for the summer but weather was too fine. That's just like Frank King, our cartoonist, who has a place at Kissimmee and stayed there until Aug. 1 last year. When I asked him if mosquitoes weren't bad, Frank said, "Not as bad as at our place in Glencoe."

So when I asked Harry about summer winds from the interior and insects he said, "We don't have many such winds. They're mostly off the ocean." One thing all-year-round residents insist is that summer is pleasant. Then I asked Harry if September was the stormy month, and he laughed, "Yes, and August and part of July." He was only fooling but it seems last summer they had a number of hurricane warnings, although none of the big blows actually hit this place.

Also at the tea, which wasn't strictly a tea, were Jack and Ruth Douglass, whom I've mentioned before; Mrs. Kenneth Mitchell, whose late husband was a north shore resident, and she owns an apartment building here for winter visitors; a Mrs. Farmer, whom you wouldn't know as she's from Atlanta, also in the renting business; George Vinton and his wife.

George was in the office supply business in Chicago and he's coming here every winter until he gets a sailfish. He's champion hard luck sail fisherman, but has caught whoppers of every other species. He also went duck hunting the other morning, getting up at 4 a. m., nearly was bitten by a cotton water moccasin, considered more deadly than the rattler, and bagged a lame shoulder caused by the kickback of his borrowed shotgun.

Just in time to share in the buffet lunch came Mrs. Watkins of the south side, who was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Cattell. The late Dr. Watkins was head of an important department at St. Luke's and I had met Mrs. Watkins before at Billy Humphries on Lake Shore drive. Mr. Cattell is an attorney whom I didn't know before. He had been to Springfield to see Gov. Horner and I asked him about the new Illinois racing commission, but he didn't seem to know much about it and kept calling me Bob Becker and asking about the fishing.

Another chap I see frequently is Thomas C. Neal, one of my good friends at home, who used to play golf with us at Westmoreland and Skokie. Well, Tom was vice president of a Chicago bank during all those troubles and I guess any banker is entitled to a few months' rest after that, so Tom is here with his family.

Bob Cunningham Jr., Northwestern senior, whose father you know at Wilmette Golf club, was here for his semester vacation with young Vic Ortlund of Evanston, who is one of the hands in his father's hand laundry. They drove down in two days, which is not my idea of pleasure. We never heard whether they got back O. K. but assume they did. Maybe all this personal gossip doesn't interest you. I'll start sending you stuff about the horses and fighters again, now that I have the gossip out of my system. Regards,

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

P. S.—The pay check from Miss Stone came, so I am again in funds.

Wedell Wins Plane Race at 235 M. P. H.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 15.—(AP)—James R. [Jimmy] Wedell, the Louisiana speed pilot, today drove his "44" racing plane approximately four miles a minute to win the qualifying race for planes of unlimited cubic inches on the second day of the Pan-American air races at Shushan airport.

Wedell did not extend his ship, taking the event with a speed of 235.76 miles an hour. The contest was flown for 25 miles over a five mile course. Harold Neuman of Kansas City, Mo., was second, clocked at 231 miles an hour; Lee Miles of Los Angeles, was third; Art Chester, Joliet, Ill., fourth; Roger Don Rae, Lansing, Mich., fifth; and Ralph Bushey, Los Angeles, sixth.

Win Other Races.

Neuman and Miles won other races. Timed at 200 miles an hour, Neuman was declared winner in the Shell Sweepstakes trophy race for 550 cubic inch planes. The race was for 50 miles and carried a cash prize of $450. Miles was second, Bushey third, and S. J. Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis., fourth.

Miles finished first in the final event for 375 cubic inch planes, a 50 mile contest. His speed was recorded as 202.5 miles an hour. The others, finishing in order were, Bushey, 197.04 miles an hour; Neuman, 188.78; Wittman, 188.59; and Chester, last.

Pay Tribute to Nelson.

At 5 p. m., the crowd stood in silence for one minute in respect to the memory of Capt. W. Merle Nelson, Los Angeles stunt flyer, burned to death last night in the crash of his rocket plane, the Comet, with which he planned to give nightly exhibitions.

The body of Capt. Nelson was held here today awaiting word from his mother in Los Angeles.

In one of the parachute jumps today, Ben Grew of Chicago fell too fast after one of the shrouds of his parachute caught over the chute's belt and prevented it from opening fully. He landed roughly but was uninjured.

BOZEMAN WINS SIXTH BILLIARD MATCH IN ROW

Denton Is Beaten, 50-34; Kieckhefer Loses.

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Jay N. Bozeman Jr., of Vallejo, Cal., the sensation of the tournament thus far, won his sixth consecutive game in the world's three cushion billiard meet today. Bozeman turned back Tiff Denton of Kansas City, 50 to 34, in 57 innings to take a firmer hold on first place.

Although this was one of the longest games Bozeman has made, there being one other of 57 innings to his credit, he nevertheless, has captured his 300 points in 294 innings.

Coming from behind with a brilliant display of billiards in the closing innings, Welker Cochran of San Francisco defeated Kinrey Matsuyama, Japanese star from New York, 50 to 47, to remain in the running in defense of the title.

The triumph was Cochran's fifth in six games and sent him into second place behind Bozeman.

With a high run of 5 in the eleventh, the 27 year old Californian was averaging well with 16 up to that point, which was 14 ahead of Denton's total. By the thirty-second, he had an overwhelming lead of 22 points, 33 to 11. After that he had six scoreless innings in a row and he required 25 innings to account for the other 17 points.

Kieckhefer Loses, 50 to 49.

Denton, however, rallied considerably. He clicked six for his high spurt in the forty-first and ran 4 and 3 in succession in the 54th and 55th innings.

Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, in his afternoon game with Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, followed his triumph over Hoppe last evening by beating Kieckhefer, 50 to 49. It was a hard match for Kieckhefer to lose, inasmuch as he lost one point on a foul penalty as he knocked a ball off the table in the 59th inning. At that, Kieckhefer led, 49 to 48, in the 62d, barely missing the winning point. Reiselt came back in the 64th to close the game by running two.

Kieckhefer had a high run of 7 in the 13th. Reiselt's best run of 6 came in the 58th and enabled him to gain the edge over his rival, 47 to 45, before Kieckhefer evened the count, 47 to 47, and then established himself momentarily in the lead, 49 to 48.

Thurnblad Beats De Oro.

In the longest game of the tourney, Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago defeated Alfredo De Oro, 71 year old Cuban, 50 to 47, tonight. The game went 81 innings. De Oro led in the seventy-fourth, 46 to 42. Thurnblad evened matters, however, at 46-46 by the seventy-seventh. De Oro tied the count again in the seventy-ninth at 47-47, but Thurnblad then brought the contest to a close with one in the eightieth and two in the last inning. Neither player could get more than a high run of four.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Pa Romnes, the burgomaster of all that is Togo, Minn., should be right proud of his boy Elwin this morning when he picks up the papers.

His boy Elwin, who is known to fans throughout the National Hocky league as Doc, played a grand game at the Chicago Stadium last night to lead the Blackhawks to a 5 to 2 victory over the Ottawa Senators.

Pa being such a big shot in Togo, it is high time that he and a lot of other people who watch hocky in these parts came to know that Doc, or Elwin, is pretty much of a party himself, particularly when the Hawks are on the verge of attaining the Stanley cup playoffs once more.

Romnes Scores First.

Doc scored the first goal of the evening with the assistance of Colleagues Paul Thompson and Mush March, and helped make the fifth by passing to Paul. In between these Art Coulter, Leroy Goldsworthy, and, last but hardly least, Lionel Conacher, contributed goals. Desse Roche was responsible for both of the Ottawa goals, Sid Howe earning an assist on the first, while the second wandered through Chuck Gardiner's skates from the blue line.

The victory, although it was merely a routine performance against the basement team of a nine team league, was sufficiently profitable, since it put the Hawks two points back of Detroit, which was tied by the Americans last night, and only one behind the Rangers, who were beaten by the Canadiens.

The enigma of last night's game surrounded the fourth goal of the night, scored by Conacher. If ever a personal goal was scored, it was accomplished by Lionel, who smashed through the entire Senator team single handed to line the puck past Goalie Bill Beveridge. Then for some unknown reason Thompson was credited with an assist.

It's Happened Before.

The same puzzle came up on Conacher's second goal against the Canadiens Sunday night, when Gottselig was given an assist. Paul and Johnny are both known to be nice boys and great hocky players, but why an individual performer such as Conacher should not be given credit as such remains one of the mysteries of hocky.

Neither team concentrated on any especial amount of spirited skating for the first three minutes, both contenting themselves with describing intricate figures all over the ice.

Only one penalty occurred during the period, and that to Hollett after four minutes of play, when he was deported after a slight collision with a pair of Blackhawks along the left woodwork. The Romnes-March-Thompson line opened the period for the Hawks and continued to give Mr. Beveridge considerable business for several minutes, but with almost no profit. Then followed the Cook and Gottselig trios, but they also failed to dent Beveridge's corner.

Hawks Score Quickly.

The Romnes line then returned to the ice and with the assistance of Coulter caused the score to become 2 to 0 in favor of the Chicagoans. It was Romnes who scored the first goal of the evening in 8:30. Doc went down with Mush and Paul and fired so many closeup shots at Beveridge that he finally yielded a hot one off Doc's club, with March and Thompson both being credited with assists.

This encouraged the same trio to repeat the performance at 11, all three of the forwards aiding Coulter, who had strong armed his way through the Senator defense to score the second goal. This double accomplishment inspired the Goldsworthy-Cook-Trudel line to dash onto the ice and make it 3 to 0 forty seconds later, with Leroy getting the goal on assists from Tommy and Louie.

Senators Make One.

In the meantime, of course, the Senators had not been holding still. They had turned back what might easily have developed into two more Hawk goals without some heroics by

FOUR QUINTETS ENTER CITY PREP TITLE PLAYOFFS

Bowen, Englewood, Parker and Marshall Win.

Marshall, Englewood, Parker, and Bowen marched into the quarter-final round of play for the Chicago Public High School league heavyweight basketball championship yesterday. Marshall defeated Kelvyn Park, 40 to 20; Englewood routed Kelly, 54 to 32; Parker won from Hyde Park, 17 to 15, and Bowen beat Calumet, 40 to 31.

The west section's second place team was not determined. Tuley, favored by many, lost to Schurz, 25 to 19, in an upset at Tuley's gymnasium. Marshall won the sectional title by scoring six consecutive victories. The final round of sectional heavyweight games will be played next week.

Parker, Bowen to Play Off Tie.

Parker and Bowen remained tied for the south section championship, although both qualified for the quarter-finals. They will meet next Friday at Parker's gymnasium for the title. Each has won six straight games.

Petraitis, forward, led Englewood to the central section championship, scoring ten baskets and three free throws. Second place in the division still is undecided. Harrison and Lindblom suffered their second league defeats and are tied with Tilden Tech with four victories and two defeats. Harrison lost to Farragut, 43 to 29, while Lindblom was defeated by Phillips, 33 to 32.

Decide North Side Finals Today.

The north section's representatives will be determined this afternoon. Lane Tech, which is leading the division with five consecutive triumphs, meets Waller on the home floor, while the second place Senn quintet plays Von Steuben at Senn.

Referee of Rosenbloom Bout at Miami Suspended

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A thirty day suspension for Harry Graham, who refereed the 15 round world's light heavyweight title bout here Feb. 5 between Maxie Rosenbloom and Joe Knight of Cairo, Ga., which ended in a draw, was ordered today by the Miami boxing commission. The suspension, effective today, was ordered after a hearing at which the commission charged that Graham failed to prevent the titleholder, Rosenbloom, from using alleged illegal blows.

SMITH TO MEET GEORGE INSTEAD OF SONNENBERG

Ed Don George last night was substituted for Gus Sonnenberg as opponent for Jack Smith in tonight's wrestling windup at the Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. Promoter Doc Krone received word from Sonnenberg that he had suffered an injury to his back and would be unable to fill the engagement.

George two years ago defeated Sonnenberg for Gus' share of the heavyweight championship. Smith recently perfected a new hold which he calls the "Yale lock," designed to stop Sonnenberg, but assured Doc Krone that it would be equally effective on George.

Buckets Goldenberg will meet Ole Olson in the semi-windup. Goldenberg has decided to place less emphasis on the flying tackle and will depend on the inside toe hold.

Tonight's card:

Jack Smith vs. Ed George, best two out of three falls, hour and a half time limit.
George Mack vs. Chuck Wuthrich, one fall, 20 minute limit.

FIRST MEETING

When Jim Browning and Joe Stecher meet Wednesday at the Chicago Stadium it will be the first time these two ever have wrestled with one another. Stecher arrived last night and will take his first workout in preparation for the match this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium.

Browning and Stecher probably are the only two headliners who have been in action for the last five years whose paths have not crossed at least once.

"I've never even seen Browning wrestle," Stecher said. "He has been confining his work to the east and west coasts, whereas I have been wrestling in the middlewest. Neither of us have invaded the other's territory."

Browning sent word last night that he would arrive Sunday and would take his first work that afternoon or Monday. Others on the Stadium's bill who are expected in early are George Zaharias, Abie Coleman and Everett Marshall.

No Golf for Fischer as He Trains for Golf

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Johnny Fischer, collegiate member of the United States Walker cup team, has been training for one of the heaviest golfing campaigns of his young career—but he hasn't used his clubs since he laid them aside last fall. He won't touch them until he leaves for Florida early in March.

Fischer plans to forsake credits for the remainder of the school year at the University of Michigan so he can be in shape for the Walker cup matches. The American team plans to leave for England April 24, and the matches will begin May 11.

Ben Jeby and Vince Dundee Fight Tonight

Vince Dundee, middleweight champion, and Ben Jeby of New York meet in a 10 round nontitle bout tonight at the Chicago Stadium. The agreed poundage is 163, three pounds over the title weight, but neither is expected to scale more than 161.

Jeby fought a 15 round draw with Dundee at New York last March. At the time Jeby was defending his New York 160 pound crown. Since then Ben was beaten by Lou Brouillard and the latter was accepted as titleholder by the National Boxing association, the Illinois Athletic commission, and New York following a triumph over Mickey Walker at Boston.

Brouillard's crown was taken away from him by Dundee a couple of months later when Vince was awarded a 15 round decision.

Battaglia Faces Leonard.

Dundee appears to be a combination boxer and fighter. This has caused the majority of critics to pick him as the probable winner tonight over Jeby, whose only defense is his offense.

The 10 round semi-final will bring together Frank Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man., middleweight, and Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill. Battaglia knocked out Johnny O'Hara at Minneapolis and Sammy Slaughter at Milwaukee in his latest. Leonard beat Lou Mays at Moline, and Allen Matthews at Quincy, Ill., twice since his last Chicago appearance in November on the Barney Ross-Sammy Fuller junior welterweight title card when he held Slaughter to a draw.

Winifred [Moon] Mullins, Vincennes, Ind., featherweight, faces Leo Rodak, former Golden Gloves titleholder, for eight rounds. Rodak, is undefeated as a professional. He and Mullins were given decisions over Jackie Sharkey recently.

Loses One Fight in Fifty.

Mullins, a former wrestler, has been boxing since he was graduated from Vincennes High school a year and a half ago. He has lost only one bout in 50, 31 of which were amateur. He is a short, chunky lad of 19 years. He boxes in a crouch while weaving from the hips.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago welterweight, opposes Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, for 10 rounds. Jimmy Christy, featherweight, will make his professional debut against Al De Rose at 4 rounds. The card.

Vince Dundee vs. Ben Jeby [10], 163.
Frank Battaglia vs. Kid Leonard [10], 165.
Harry Dublinsky vs. Tracy Cox [10], 147.
Leo Rodak vs. Moon Mullins [8], 128.
Jimmy Christy vs. Al De Rose [4], 126.

Winning Ping-Pong

BY COLEMAN CLARK.

[National Champion 1932.]

DOUBLES—A LIVELY GAME.

DOUBLES is a game for four players who play partners in opposing pairs. When the rule was changed making it obligatory for partners to alternate, or take turns stroking the ball, overnight doubles became a great game. Alternate stroking makes ping-pong doubles a real team competition, in which each player must do his share. There is no such thing as playing to the weak sister as is always the case in tennis.

When you play doubles, remember that the serve must be made alternately from one minor court to the other as in tennis. Dexterity and smooth teamwork are at a premium in doubles. As soon as you hit the ball jump back or to the side so that your partner will have ample room for free hitting.

Doubles play is marvelous exercise and fascinating. It is particularly suitable for parties where twice the number can participate, and where ladies and gentlemen can pair up against one another or engage in mixed doubles.

OPEN PLAY FOR STATE PING-PONG TITLES TODAY

The Illinois state ping-pong tournament will open today at the Universal Ping-Pong club, 206 South Wabash avenue. The meet will continue until tomorrow night, when the finals in all classes will be played.

The men's singles field is headed by Coleman Clark, 1932 national champion. Others entered include Bob Ratcliff, north shore champion; Bill Condy, Chicago district champion, and D. W. McEvan, suburban champion.

ST. MARY'S TO PLAY.

Tonelli Heads Fronton Ring Card Tonight

Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, is to head the boxing card tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. His opponent has not been selected. Al Schiarato and Joey Bozak, junior lightweights, meet in the five round semi-final. Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., Golden Gloves graduate, will make his professional debut against Jack Robinson at four rounds. Other matches:

Ace Kristoph vs. Les Schults [4].
Curtis Mills vs. Tom Habel [4].
Mike Mantisch vs. Ed Van Herrick [wrestling].

George Franzen, Aurora middleweight, opposes Gene Nelson, Chicago, in a five round amateur contest tonight at the 24th Ward club, 3242 Roosevelt road. Morton Leviton is sponsoring the card. Izzy Goldstein and Ray Garcia, featherweights, meet in one of seven other encounters.

Jack De Kovic, Jack Logan, and Mickey O'Doul are included among the amateur boxers who will appear on the amateur bill at Edward Hines hospital tonight. Harry Mueller will referee. . . . Jack Kranz, heavyweight, has signed a three year management contract with Jack O'Keefe of the south side.

Henry Rothier, local welterweight, and Joe Redd of St. Louis have been mated for the 10 round windup encounter at Quincy, Ill., next Thursday. . . . Karl Ogren, middleweight, yesterday accepted an eight round contest against Tait Littman, Cudahy, Wis., at Milwaukee March 2.

A change has been made in a preliminary bout on the Frank Sigilio-Young Terry program next Friday at Cicero stadium. Lou Vine replaces Frank Keevil against Lou Terry for six rounds. Steve Roberts, light heavyweight, tackles Matt Dour. The balance of the bill:

Mike Primitch and George Haberski [4], 126.
Jack O'Connell and George Schrosbree [4], 145.
Hugh Allen and Joe Bozak [4], 130.
Harold Dunnington and Tom [Tuck] Shadden [4], 135.

Mickey O'Shea, north side 147 pounder, has been selected to clash with Jackie Ausborn of Birmingham, Ala., in a supporting match to the Mickey Joy-Gene Higgins feature bout Monday at Marigold Gardens. F. M.

Peden Decides Not to Accept Job at Indiana

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Athletic Director Z. G. Clevenger announced this afternoon that Don Peden, Ohio university football coach, has decided to remain at the Athens school. Peden had previously conferred with Clevenger, President William Lowe Bryan, and two members of the board of trustees in regard to the head football coaching job at Indiana, which was left vacant by the retirement of E. C. Hayes.

"We have a number of others in mind and we will negotiate with them right away," Clevenger stated. "We want to secure men who have a successful football record." Clevenger received word of Peden's decision in a special delivery letter here today.

COACH EXPECTS MRS. MOODY ON COURTS MAY 1

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 15.—(AP)—C. W. [Pop] Fuller, first coach of Helen Wills Moody, expressed the opinion today that Mrs. Moody would be able to resume practice by May 1.

The present Wimbledon champion and former American title holder has shown steady improvement since a displaced vertebra forced her to default to Helen Jacobs in the national finals at Forest Hills, N. Y., last summer.

Mrs. Moody said: "I only wish I could set a date on which to resume practice and have it turn out that way. I'm feeling much better, but I certainly have no idea as to when I can return to the courts."

PROPOSE STATE TAX ON SPORTS IN NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—A bill was introduced in the legislature today which would levy a 5 per cent state tax on all professional and amateur sports where an admission fee of 40 cents is charged. This would bring baseball, basketball, hocky, bicycle races and numerous other sports under the proposed new levy.

The measure was introduced by Senator Michael J. Kernan, Democrat, Utica. He estimated the tax would net $1,000,000 in new revenue for the state.

NO MINOR LEAGUE JOB FOR RUTH, RUPPERT SAYS

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, tonight characterized as "all very silly" the suggestion advanced by the San Francisco club that Babe Ruth's baseball life would be prolonged by transferring his activities to the Pacific Coast league for 1934, if he failed to round into shape for the coming American league campaign.

"Ruth is going to play for the Yankees this year and for as long thereafter as he is able," declared the Colonel. "He wouldn't go back to the minor leagues, anyway, under any circumstances."

Leaping fishes! Look at Chip take a short-cut hurdle with Conoco Bronze!

To get the most speed, the greatest power, the longest mileage, the smoothest operation and freedom from knocking in high compression motors, use Conoco Bronze. It is these qualities that bring enthusiastic praise from exacting motorists.

The greatest feature, though, on these cold mornings is the instant response to the starter—the rapidity of combustion that takes the temper out of temperature—that gets you on the road in the least possible time. There is no extra charge for this premium performance.

What to do for

COLDS

(Place no faith in so-called "instant" cold cures)

It takes several hours, and more than one kind of medicine to get any real relief from a cold. Your first aim should be to clear the head, dry the secretions, and reduce the cold fever.

You can get the necessary medicines of your druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve a "new" cold, take three of these little tablets; chew them up, drink some water.

To relieve a more stubborn cold will require a second treatment, and frequently a second day of this treatment, but it's worth the time. Colds that have been driven out of the system are gone.

RED WINGS TIE AMERICANS, 1-1; TAKE ICE LEAD

It's Third Draw in Five Games This Year.

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings and New York Americans struggled through 70 minutes of play tonight to a 1-1 tie that was just enough to give Detroit first place in the National Hocky league's American division. It was their third tie in five encounters this season. The Wings won the other two games.

Despite the low score it was not a defensive battle. The rear guards of both teams were shot full of holes time after time, but the goal tending of Roy Worters and Wilf Crude kept the score down. The lineups:

AMERICANS [1].		DETROIT [1].
Worters	G.	Cude

MAROONS, 4; BRUINS, 4

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—(AP)—After relinquishing a two goal lead, the Boston Bruins checked the scoring drive of the Montreal Maroons and battled them to a 4 to 4 tie tonight at the Boston Garden.

Marty Barry and Dit Clapper each scored twice to provide the Boston tallies, the latter rifling a drive from the right boards to deadlock the game about half way through the third period. Barry scored twice in a little more than a minute to put the Bruins two up in the opening session.

Half way through the second the Maroons battered in four goals in as many minutes on shots by Larry Northcott, Jimmy Ward, Russ Blinco, and Dave Trottier. Lineups:

BOSTON BRUINS.		MONTREAL MAROONS

WIEBOLDTS MEET SPARTA SUNDAY IN CUP BATTLE

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts and Sparta will meet Sunday in the western semi-finals of the national cup competition at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue.

These clubs, the leading professional teams of the city, have been foes for years and the present rivalry is much keener than ever.

Both clubs have imported players from out of town in an endeavor to win the national title. The Weiboldts, formerly the Brickies, brought in Johnny Marshall, a clever forward; George Harker, center, and George Hay, half back, from Detroit.

Fight for Near South Section Titles Tonight coming as a result of knockout punches.

The terrific punching had the crowd in a turmoil. It was a mixed crowd, half Negroes and half whites, and Negro and white boys were in action against each other in many of the encounters.

Only once did the crowd lift its voice to protest a decision. The protests came after the middleweight struggle which brought Al Fox, a white battler from the 124th field artillery, against Edward Delarido from the Savoy Athletic club.

It was a furious struggle. Fox got the verdict, and apparently most of the spectators did not agree with the officials. Neither boy had much of an advantage in any round.

More Thrills Tonight.

The survivors of the first two nights in the near south side meet are terrific punchers. Their combats tonight for the right to travel on into the Tournament of Champions promises to bring a new peak in Chicago sectional fighting for this year.

The Golden Gloves battle scene shifts from the south side to the Loyola university gymnasium on Monday night, where the Chicago north side sectional tournament opens.

WISCONSIN MAT TEAM WILL MEET CHICAGO TONIGHT

Raymond Ickes, son of the secretary of the interior, will make his first start as a Maroon wrestler tonight when the Chicago team meets Wisconsin in Bartlett gymnasium at 8 o'clock. Ickes, a 155 pounder, has been kept out of competition by a broken nose received in a polo game. All of the Maroon regulars except Thomas Barton, 118 pounder, also have recovered from injuries which kept most of them out of the match with Illinois.

Wisconsin will bring two undefeated wrestlers to the Midway, Broning, 118 pounder, and Schueler, 125 pounds.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

TOMMY YARR, center and captain of the 1930 Notre Dame football team, yesterday was appointed head coach at John Carroll university of Cleveland for two years. . . . His appointment was predicted in this column two weeks ago. . . . Yarr will have Mike Koken, 1932 Notre Dame half back who last year was with the Chicago Cardinals, as back field coach. . . . Koken will have charge of the Carroll basketball team. . . . Yarr succeeds Ralph Vince, who becomes athletic director. . . . Carroll's leading opponents next fall will be Western Reserve, coached by Sam Willaman, Miami, Dayton, Baldwin, Wallace, and Case. . . . Yarr's work at center was largely responsible for the undefeated record of the last team coached by Knute Rockne.

Gabby was riding outfielders, with the usual claim that they should pay to get in to see the game. . . "What do you get paid for anyhow?" inquired Gabby with great emphasis. . . . Kiki was ready: "Cub outfielders get paid for chasing your mistakes in trying to outguess the hitters," he said. . . . Folks who play the horses seem to have met old man prosperity somewhere. . . . The betting at Hialeah Park for the first ten days totaled $1,000,000 more than it did in 1933. . . . George Hauser of Minnesota and Milton Olander of Illinois are assistant football coaches who are ready for better jobs. . . Ohio State, please note. . . .

George Musso, Bears' tackle, gained 20 pounds since the team won the National league championship. . . . He now weighs 277. . . . Ed Rasche, who operated a sporting goods store in the loop 12 years ago, is promoting fights in Honolulu. . . . Though Howie Morenz is the best known member of the Canadiens, who are called the Flying Frenchmen, he is no Frenchman at all. . . . He is of Swiss extraction. . . . Donald Gustafson struck out 100 batsmen and allowed only 11 hits in seven games while pitching for Augustana college of Rock Island in 1903. . . . Some of the oldest boxing clubs in the world are located in China. . . . Fighters are on salary and must meet any one at any time the club chooses. . . . When a contestant passes the stage of usefulness he is put on a pension. . . . All our heavyweights would be pensioners, if that system were in vogue in the United States. . . . Boxers Run to Golden Gloves; Then Rejected

At 6:15 o'clock last night Albert White, flyweight, and Hershel Alexander, featherweight, dashed out of the door of White's home at 3429 South Michigan avenue and reached the Savoy arena, 4733 South Parkway, out of breath, but just in time for physical examinations in the near south sectional Golden Gloves tryouts. Both were due to be disappointed.

Though White had the written consent of his mother he was found to be only 15 years old, which made him ineligible. Alexander was rejected because of a heart murmur.

◆

Six boys failed to pass the required tests, five for physical ailments.

◆

Sam Scoglio, unattached, runner-up to Jimmy Christy in the Catholic Youth organization's finals last December, will meet Art Brewer, Savoy Athletic club, in a featherweight qualifying match tonight. Herman Wright, unattached, drew a bye to be the other 126 pound representative of the near south section for the Stadium bouts Feb. 26, 27 and 28.

◆

Steve Sakal, 1931 C. Y. O. heavyweight champion, is one of the two heavyweights who will box in the Tournament of Champions, Feb. 26, 27, and 28. He is fighting for the Polish Youth organization.

◆

A chef on the Golden State Limited over the Rock Island lines got bumped off the job by some one with more seniority, so he entered the bouts at Savoy. He is Alfred Elliott, colored 160 pounder, who is 6 feet tall. Elliott refused a call to return to work yesterday so he could fight last night.

Savoy Big Five to Play Lafayette Lambs Sunday

The Savoy Big Five basketball team will play the Lambs of Lafayette, Ind., Sunday night at the 8th Regiment Armory, 35th and Giles. The Lambs will present a lineup which has won from the Koskys of Indianapolis, and other Indiana teams. McIntyre, a 6 foot 7 inch center; Sines, formerly of Purdue, and Cele Joseph, Indiana Normal, are members of the Hoosier team.

Fort Sheridan and Artillery Poloists Meet Tomorrow

Fort Sheridan poloists, confident they can defeat the leading 122d field artillery trio, will enter the 124th field artillery arena at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue tomorrow night armed with some new strategy.

The teams will meet in the first game of the Metropolitan Polo league double header. The 122d field artillery combination of Lieuts. Cliff Harrison, Carl Johnson, and Art Zimmerman appears to have the edge, but in the Fort Sheridan team will meet the strongest trio they have played this season.

Fort Sheridan won a victory several weeks ago from the 124th field artillery cardinals, last year's junior division champions. The invading line-up may be bolstered by the return of Capt. C. B. Cole, who has been out with injuries. Two others on the team are Lieuts. R. C. Cooper and E. C. Greiner, with Lieut. John L. Hines Jr. listed as a possible starter.

A fast game is in prospect, especially since Fort Sheridan can tie the north side artillerymen for first place in the league race by winning tomorrow night's encounter.

The second game of the evening will find the Green Bay Rustlers playing the 124th field artillery. Maj. Richard G. Hunter of the latter trio is taking no chances on running short of players and is planning to have at least three reserves on hand. These are Capt. Leslie Ireland, Lieut. Romeo Mura, and Lieut. Don Rice, in addition to Capt. Bill Everett and Lieut. Chris Schuh, his regulars.

HORTON SMITH, JOHN DAWSON WIN BEST BALL

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., professional, and John Dawson, Chicago amateur, won the amateur-pro best ball event today in the $2,000 Galveston open golf tournament with a card of 33—32—65, seven under par. Gus Moreland, Dallas amateur, and Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., professional, finished second with 33—34—67.

Coast Team May Negotiate for Red Faber

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Bill Lane, owner of the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league, today said he would like to enter into negotiations with the Chicago White Sox for the services of the veteran pitcher Urban [Red] Faber. Lane says he mourns the passing of the art of spitball pitching. He already has two spitball pitchers on his list. Frank Shellenback, former White Sox, already has signed up and a contract is in the mails addressed to the veteran Jack Quinn of the Athletics, Yankees, Sox, and other clubs.

Referring to Faber, Lane said: "We could certainly use Red out here. And the offer we'd be in a position to make him might look good to Red, too. Faber would be very valuable in the Coast league, particularly against the Los Angeles club."

COEQUEL WINS AT HIALEAH IN HANDY FASHION

Boy Valet, Favorite, Runs Out of Money.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Coequel, Florida Derby candidate, turned in an impressive victory this afternoon at Hialeah Park. The gray filly won the Eau Gallie purse, one mile event which featured the day's races. She covered the eight furlongs in 1:37 1-5.

A length behind the winner was Gay Joe. Brown Toney finished third. The favorite, Boy Valet, Col. Edward R. Bradley's Derby hopeful, ran a disappointing race, finishing fourth after trailing the field around the track. Coequel paid $9.80 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Gay Joe jumped out in front after the break and held the lead until the final furlong, when Coequel staged a powerful rush to win going away. Sylvio Coucci rode the winner, which is owned by William Graham.

Jocky Earl Porter, Geneva, Ill., who won the sixth race aboard Eurydice, was engaged today by Mrs. T. J. Lewis to ride her horses. The price of the contract was not disclosed. He will pilot Mrs. Lewis' horses at the Bowie meeting. He has ridden 51 winners this season. Porter was under contract to S. H. Fairbanks.

RUBIO WINS AT N. O.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Rubio scored an easy triumph in the Paper Box Manufacturers' handicap, the feature of today's program at the Fair Grounds. He won by four lengths from Mrs. A. R. Smith's Outbound. Walter D. finished third.

Rubio, which covered the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5, paid $7.60. Rubio broke running and took a long lead which he held throughout the route. Walter D. and Outbound staged a stretch drive for second place.

Hawks' Early Punch Defeats Senators, 5-2

Shields and Bowman. Dessie Roach decides to keep Gardiner from adding to his shutout total by dashing down the ice with Howe alongside of him and catching Charles so unaware that the latter bothered to do no more than scoop the puck out of the cage back of him. The goal was scored in 15:20.

The opening ten minutes of the second period were as a 100 yard dash to a three legged race compared to the first.

After March had slid by Bowman and Leduc for a close-in effort at Beveridge within the first two minutes, the two Ottawa defense men responded by inaugurating an assault on Gardiner which was soon taken up by the Roches and Howe. Chuck repelled this at close quarters, but Dessie Roche finally let one go from the blue line, seemingly just for the fun of it.

Senators Score Again.

The puck hugged the ice all the way, but somehow the easy tempo of the opening period must have lulled Gardiner, for he merely thrust his right foot out at it. This was hardly sufficient, for the little red light back of Chuck gleamed before he knew what had happened. Dessie appeared to be as startled about the phenomenon which came to pass in 3:12 as Gardiner.

Early in the third period Conacher took the puck from the goal judge's position back of Gardiner, carried it through the whole Ottawa team, split the Senator defense, personally, and fired the puck past the helpless Beveridge. Followed the amazing statement to the authors present that Thompson had been given an assist on the goal, which was scored within 3:10.

During the remainder of the period, Beveridge spent his time almost entirely recumbent, such was the violence of the Hawk attack. He made a noble stop off Romnes after Doc had burst through the Ottawa defense for a clear shot. Romnes came right back and passed to Thompson for a goal which Paul negotiated in 17:10.

BLUE RIBBONS BEAT MILWAUKEE PUCK TEAM, 5-4

The West Bend team was the first to break through for a score when Sepanich tallied in 8:10. The Ribbons were not long in retaliating, for Kuzma took the puck from Peterson 20 seconds later to tie the score. In one more minute of play, Peterson scored unassisted. Then Kuzma took the rubber from Karam in 12:45 to give the Ribbons a 3 to 1 lead, which they never relinquished.

Meine Settles Salary Differences with Pirates

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Heinie Meine, right handed pitcher, who has been having salary differences with the Pittsburgh Pirates, tonight signed a contract. Before leaving for St. Louis tonight, where he conducts a suburban hotel, Heinie declared he was glad "everything is straightened out."

Chicago Gymnasts Beat Iowa in Opening Match

University of Chicago's gymnastic team, defending champions in the Big Ten conference, defeated Iowa in its opening meet at Bartlett gymnasium yesterday. The score was 1,158¾ to 990½. The Maroons won 13 out of 15 places. Capt. George Wrighte led the Maroons, winning three events.

A BEAR BECOMES A CUB; NAME IS BULL DOEHRING

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 15.—(AP)—John [Bull] Doehring showed up at Wrigley field today with the rookies seeking a place on the Los Angeles Baseball club, but the back field star of the Chicago Bears, National Pro Football league champions, has his sights set higher than coast league ball. He was signed by the Chicago Cubs as an outfielder and will report at Catalina island March 4. He proposes to get in shape working with the Angels.

Tod Sloan's Will Probated; Estate Valued at $9,500

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Belief that the late J. Todhunter Sloan, noted jocky, died almost penniless last Dec. 21 was refuted today when his will was filed for probate, disposing of an estate valued at $9,500. Sloan, who was 59, left his estate in trust for a daughter, Ann Martha Sloan, 10.

Omaha Picks Champions in Golden Gloves

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Eight Omaha youngsters today were celebrating victories last night in the finals of the World-Herald's first Golden Gloves tournament. A crowd of more than 3,000 saw the championship bouts.

Fifth Straight Knockout.

Claude Hender, all around athlete at Tech High here, whipped Clair Dailey of Lincoln with body punches in the welter final. A farmer boy, long armed Clyde Pedersen, caught Neil Kirwan over the eye in the 160 pound scrap, and won a technical knockout.

King Whips Houston.

Bill Lambrecht, a 205 pounder, battered Ernest Tews of Norfolk to gain the heavyweight crown with a technical knockout in the second round.

QUINCY PICKS TEAM

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The eight boys who will represent Quincy in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions in Chicago, Feb. 26, 27 and 28, were chosen in the finals of the Herald-Whig tournament here last night.

Two of last year's champions repeated. Bill Sharp of Stoutsville, Mo., representing the Kirksville, Mo., Teachers college, won in the heavyweight class and Bert Ellis of Quincy, last year's flyweight champion, won the bantam title. The results:

147 pounds—Harry [Bud] Zerkle, Macomb, defeated George Dovin, Quincy [3].
Heavyweight—William Sharp, Stoutsville, Mo., knocked out Oliver Payne, Quincy [1]

Tampa Downs Discontinues Race Meeting

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Walter H. Donovan, secretary of the Florida State Racing commission, said late tonight he had been advised by Barney Moran, chief inspector for the commission at Tampa, that the Tampa Downs race track had been closed for the season.

Donovan said Moran advised him in a long distance telephone conversation that the decision to close the track was reached at a meeting of directors of Tampa Downs tonight.

The track opened Feb. 8 for what was to have been a 33 day meeting. Financial reasons were given as the cause for closing of the plant.

Donovan said Moran told him that all accounts and current debts had been paid and that a check for the state's share of the revenue that accrued during the curtailed season in Tampa would be mailed to headquarters of the state commission here tomorrow.

HELEN HICKS BEATEN, 1 UP, IN FLORIDA MEET

In the other bracket of the semifinal round played today Maureen Orcutt, White Beeches, N. J., putted ahead on the late holes to defeat Grace Amory, Deepdale, L. I., and Miss Miley and Miss Orcutt will meet in the 18 hole finals tomorrow.

The Miley-Hicks match was a nip and tuck affair until Miss Hicks failed to sink a putt on the 18th green that would have sent the match into extra play. They halved the hole with fives, the New Yorker conceding a one foot put to the Kentucky girl.

In the Orcutt-Amory contest Miss Orcutt's years of tournament experience aided her in defeating Miss Amory. Even at the thirteenth hole, Miss Amory lost the next four holes and the match to Miss Orcutt. A failing putter and ill luck with stymies were contributing factors.

Babe Ruth, Billy Burke Form Winning Golf Team

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, king of the big league sluggers, tied for first place in the pro-amateur golf tournament here today. The Babe teamed with Billy Burke, former American open champion, to put together a best ball card of 35—31—66.

CREDIT KEPT ON STEADY KEEL BY RESERVE SYSTEM

The nation's credit situation as pictured by the figures on the position of the reserve system and its member banks showed little change last week, according to the statements issued last night.

There was an expansion of some $6,000,000 in money in circulation throughout the country but in the Chicago area the volume of reserve currency outstanding was practically unchanged. Deposits in member banks in New York and Chicago expanded moderately. In neither city, however, was the deposit expansion accompanied by a noticeable change in outstanding credit.

Chicago Banks Buy U. S. Bonds.

Chicago banks in the aggregate did show an expansion of $23,000,000 in total loans and investments but this was all accounted for by an increase of $29,000,000 in holdings of U. S. government securities. Other types of credit contracted slightly. The indicated expansion in gross deposits here was $16,000,000. Excess reserves of member banks here at the "fed" were $23,000,000 lower at 172 millions. Government deposits were down $3,000,000.

Member banks in New York showed an indicated expansion of $15,000,000 in total deposits. While cutting their government holdings by $37,000,000 and their collateral loans by $52,000,000, they put out an additional $43,000,000 in commercial loans.

Credit Expansion Shifted.

This reverses the recent trend in which most of the credit expansion came through investments in governments and noncommercial loans. Loans to brokers were down $43,000,000, reflecting the sell-off in the market during the week.

The reserve system, including all of the 12 banks, reported an increase of $69,000,000 in gold certificates, the name given the warehouse certificates which the treasury issued to them in exchange for their actual gold holdings.

SAN FRANCISCO RATE CUT.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The federal reserve bank of San Francisco reduced its rediscount rate today to 2 per cent from 2½ per cent, effective tomorrow.

COTTON SLIGHTLY HIGHER; OFFERINGS WELL ABSORBED

Cotton trade was good with a liberal range yesterday. There was good absorption of offerings on all weak spots and profit taking on the sharp advances.

Reports from Washington which quoted Senator Bankhead as saying the administration favored the principle of his bill brought in a good run of commission house buying which advanced prices 20 points above the close on Wednesday. Political news in general, however, was conflicting and some of the trade leaders are expecting a better market as the political situation clears.

At the close futures in Chicago were 4 points lower to 4 points higher, with New Orleans up 3 to 4 points on futures and unchanged for spots at 12.20 cents. New York was unchanged to 4 points higher on futures and 5 points up on spots at 12.45 cents. Galveston was 12.20 cents and Houston 12.15 cents, both changed. Prices:

Brokers Organizing Drive Against Federal Control

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—Wall street gathered its forces today for a determined fight against the Fletcher-Rayburn bill to regulate security exchanges, introduced in congress last week.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, sent analyses of the bill to heads of all corporations with securities listed on the exchange and to exchange members.

"This bill is the most important legislation affecting the stock exchange and its listed corporations which has ever been introduced in congress," he told brokers.

Sees "Disastrous Consequences."

"It contains sweeping and drastic provisions which affect seriously the business of all members and which may have disastrous consequences to the stock market resulting in great prejudice to the interests of investors throughout the country."

Separate communications, along with a copy of the text of the National Securities Exchange act, went to presidents of some 850 corporations and to 1,375 exchange members.

Opposition to the bill is being organized rapidly in many cities under the leadership of Wall street wire houses. These stock exchange firms, which have branch offices in all large cities, were preparing to marshal public sentiment against the bill by informing persons how business and finance could be affected by passage of the measure.

Certain sections of the bill, Mr. Whitney declared, which called for registration statements from companies listed on exchanges, gave the federal trade commission broad powers over these corporations.

"These powers are so extensive," Mr. Whitney said, "that the federal trade commission might dominate and actually control the management of each listed corporation.

"I have taken the liberty of addressing you because the prevalent belief that the bill applies only to stock exchanges and dealers in securities has led many persons to overlook the provisions which it contains directly affecting corporations and subjecting them to the control of the federal trade commission."

Seeks General Protest.

One wire house with branches in more than a dozen cities sent the following telegram to its outside managers and partners:

"This proposed national control act is a matter of grave concern to every owner of real estate securities, to all officials or corporations or banks and to every policy holder. It is no exaggeration to say that few of your friends and clients can afford to disregard this new menace to national recovery.

"We are mailing you a copy of the bill. Please study it. The more you study it the worse it seems. Please discuss it with others and urge them to acquaint themselves with some of these vicious provisions. We are confident that if the country understands the bill an overwhelming protest will arise."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—Bank clearings last week for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun Bradstreet, Inc., were $4,161,357,000, an increase of 16.7 per cent compared with the same week of last year.

New York City clearings were $2,913,995,000, a gain of 18 per cent, while the total for all centers outside of New York of $1,247,362,000 was 13.6 per cent higher.

The increase was large at some western and southern centers. Substantial gains appeared at Boston, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Minneapolis, Richmond, Atlanta, Louisville, Dallas, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Seattle. Only five cities out of the 22 reporting showed a reduction from a year ago.

The total of all cities last week was $1,149,753,000 less than the amount reported in the preceding week, while a year ago there was a reduction of $1,162,341,000 in the clearings for the same two weeks.

ROYAL DUTCH GOLD PAYMENT CLAUSE UPHELD

THE HAGUE, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Amsterdam Stock exchange committee today lost the decision in its case against the Bataafsche Petroleum company for payment in gold of interest on coupons, the court ruling the American law against gold payment was applicable.

(This payment presumably was made in United States dollars.)

A similar claim against the Royal Dutch Petroleum company, however, was upheld on the ground that the coupons were payable in Dutch florins, which remain on the gold standard.

Great Lakes Dredge Shows Loss Against 1932 Profit

The Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company reports for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, a net loss of $45,589, compared with a net income of $248,681 in 1932. The net operating loss for last year totaled $249,262, compared with a net operating profit of $115,514 in 1932. Current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, were $4,686,990, against current liabilities of $393,919.

SILVER FUTURES

Trade in silver futures at New York yesterday was active, although prices held within relatively narrow limits, and closed .11 to .16 cents per ounce higher. Sales of futures aggregated 8,825,000 ounces. Nothing further was heard regarding the government's action regarding the metal. Foreign spot bar silver was up ⅛c at 45⅝c a new high since 1930, while newly mined domestic was unchanged at 64½c. February closed at 45.60c; March, 45.80c; May, 46.05c; July, 46.48c; September, 46.95 to 47c, and December, 47.70c.

BREGMAN CHOSEN HEAD OF CHICAGO SCRAP INSTITUTE

Walter Bregman, president of Price Iron and Steel company, was elected president of the Chicago chapter of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel at the meeting held last night at the Sherman hotel. John McEnroe of John McEnroe company, was elected vice president; Arthur L. Jeffery of Arthur L. Jeffrey company, treasurer, and Henry Rosenthal of Briggs and Turivas, secretary.

The election was watched with considerable interest by the trade, since the president of the institute will probably have the authority this year to appoint code committee members for the district under the national scrap iron code.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO SHOW SAFETY OF DEPOSITORS

Forwards Bill to Extend Bank Guaranty.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt made two moves today to assure depositors their savings were safe in the banks. He sent to the senate banking committee a bill to extend for one year the temporary bank deposit insurance law, under which approximately 99 per cent of the banks in the country now are operating. He also made public a letter declaring that the surrender of gold to the government by federal reserve banks "in no way impairs the strength" of the institutions.

Observing that 99 per cent of the banks and 97 per cent of deposits are insured under the temporary law, the President said in a message to the senate committee headed by Senator Fletcher [Dem., Fla.]:

"This would indicate that insurance of bank deposits throughout the country has become a reality and that we can now afford to advance toward the more complete accomplishment of the aims of congress in light of such further experience as a year's extension of the present insurance will afford."

Gets Collateral Bill.

Fletcher also received from the federal reserve board the draft of a bill to extend for one year and for two years more if Mr. Roosevelt desired, the law permitting direct obligations of the government to be used as collateral for federal reserve notes. Gov. Eugene Black of the board told Fletcher the present authority for such collateral expires on March 3. Black said that since the board had authorized reserve banks to pledge United States obligations as collateral for reserve notes on May 5, 1932, such obligations had been continuously pledged. The maximum amount pledged at any one time, he added, was $1,098,000,000 on March 20, 1933.

Roosevelt Letter on Gold.

"The law itself," the President wrote Black last week, "in no way impairs the strength of the federal reserve banks. They have simply exchanged their gold for gold certificates, issued by the treasury and collateralized by 100 per cent of gold.

"These gold certificates so collateralled with gold supply all reserve requirements of the reserve act. This bill interferes in no way with the credit, currency of supervisory responsibilities of the reserve banks. Their powers will continue to be exercised in the interest of agriculture, commerce and industry, just as they have been for the last 20 years."

LARD STOCKS INCREASE; PRICES UP IN GOOD TRADE

Lard stocks in Chicago increased 6,379,660 pounds in the last two weeks; total stocks are 115,281,197 pounds, against only 17,517,310 pounds last year. Stocks of dry salted clear bellies decreased 435,786 pounds in the first fourteen days of February, standing at 15,680,042 pounds, compared with 10,002,137 pounds last year. Stocks of dry salted rib bellies increased slightly during the period and are considerably above last year.

Trade in lard was active yesterday with eastern interests buying futures liberally. The cash demand for domestic and foreign account was good. Prices ranged higher and around the top met fair selling and hedging pressure.

At the close lard future were 10 to 12½ cents higher and bellies unchanged to 10 cents higher. Cash lard advanced 10 cents to $6.65, with loose also up 10 cents to $6, while leaf was unchanged at $6.12½. Dry salted clear bellies were firm at $7.75.

Liverpool lards was unchanged; futures, 9 pence to 1 shilling lower. Prices:

BUTTER, POTATO FUTURES ARE LOWER; EGGS STEADY

Butter futures lost ¼@⅜c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, while eggs closed unchanged to ⅛c up and potatoes fell 5@13c. Of paramount interest in the day's news on butter was an announcement by the government that of the 76,000,000 pounds of butter on hand Feb. 1, 25,000,000 pounds was held for relief purposes.

Withdrawals from storage in the United States during January totaled 35,000,000 pounds and of this total 14,800,000 pounds was moved by the government. The commercial withdrawals were slightly above general expectations. The government announcement said that purchases of butter to Feb. 1 totaled 48,000,000 pounds and that 12,000,000 pounds additional was expected to be bought after Feb. 1. The announcement had no effect on the market.

Egg trading was very light. Withdrawals from storage were slightly under last year and receipts were about on a par with last year.

March potatoes declined 15c shortly after the opening but rallied from the low to $2.07, which was the spot market level. Continued weakness in cash potatoes caused the drop in the futures. Sales—Butter, 46 cars; eggs, 8 cars; potatoes, 19 cars. Prices:

FIRST NATIONAL SEEKS CHAIRMAN AND PRESIDENT

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The difficult task of filling the important positions left vacant by the death of Melvin A. Traylor yesterday faced the directors of the First National bank and the officials of the dozen other corporations and institutions with which he occupied important posts.

The bank directors face the double problem of picking a successor to Mr. Traylor as president and also of naming a new chairman of the board. The latter position has been vacant since the retirement last August of Frederick H. Rawson because of ill health. No intimation was given yesterday by directors as to the likely choices for the jobs, but indications were given that action will be taken soon.

Expect Election of Brown.

Edward Eagle Brown, first vice president of the bank, loomed as the most likely choice for the position of president and executive head of the bank. He has been a vice president of the bank since 1919 and a director since 1923. He has a wide reputation among Chicago bankers as an outstanding executive and financier. Other names mentioned in connection with the post were those of John P. Oleson and Bentley G. McCloud, both of whom are vice presidents and senior officers of the bank.

George A. Ranney, vice chairman in charge of finance of the three big Chicago utility companies, figured prominently in the discussions for the position of chairman of the board. Mr. Ranney is a director and member of the bank's executive committee.

With International Harvester.

Before his selection last year to take over the finance posts of the utility companies, Mr. Ranney was for years with the International Harvester company. There he was the principal finance officer and held in turn the positions of treasurer and vice president.

B. E. Sunny, director of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, and Charles A. McCulloch, receiver for the Middle West Utilities company, both directors of the First National, were mentioned in connection with the chairmanship.

For both posts it is deemed certain that directors will pick men who have the sanction of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The RFC through its 50 per cent common stock ownership is the largest stockholder group. As in the case of other banks whose management it has approved the RFC made no move to interfere in management policies. At the time of the sale of the stock to the RFC Chairman Jesse H. Jones expressly stated that the corporation thoroughly approved of the First National's management under Mr. Traylor.

Ranney Regarded Eligible.

The fact that Mr. Ranney withdrew as a candidate for the chairmanship of the Continental Illinois National bank in favor of the RFC candidate, Walter J. Cummings, does not make him ineligible for the First National post, it was said. The RFC had no opposition to Mr. Ranney, but was interested in putting in its own representative.

There appeared to be little doubt yesterday as to the election of Mr. Brown as president of the bank. Under Mr. Traylor he has been the second executive officer of the institution for many years. Before his election as a vice president in 1919 Mr. Brown was a practicing lawyer in Chicago. He was graduated from Harvard in 1905 and took his law degree there three years later. He was admitted to the bar in 1908 and continued practice until 1925 doing legal work outside as well as for the bank. Since 1925 he has devoted all his time to the bank's affairs.

Director of Several Companies.

Among the directorships of Mr. Traylor which must be filled are the Southern Pacific railway, Standard Oil Company of Indiana, General Electric, and International Harvester. He was also a trustee of Northwestern university.

Mr. Traylor was a leading figure in recent years in the negotiations to bring order out of the Chicago traction situation. Before his death he saw the unification plan which he helped formulate near consummation.

DOLLAR'S VALUE IN THREE CHIEF FOREIGN CENTERS

The following table shows the value of the United States dollar in the principal capitals of Europe at the close of exchange in trading yesterday, both in terms of the dollar and of foreign units:

IN LONDON—One pound sterling was equal to $5.03¾, one dollar was equal [approximately] to 3 shillings 11½ pence.

IN PARIS—One franc was worth $0.0653; one dollar was worth 15 francs 31 centimes.

IN BERLIN—One mark was worth $0.3960; one dollar was worth 2.525 marks.

Nichols' Bank May Pay Off in Cash or Bonds

J. M. Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, yesterday announced that the directors of his institution have amended the bank's by-laws to provide that hereafter depositors may be paid off in cash or government securities in the event that the deposits are 100 per cent covered by cash and federal obligations.

JOHN M. NICHOLS.
[Paul Stone Photo.]

By this action the Englewood banker, who is known as "100 Per Cent Nichols" because of the high degree of liquidity at which he maintains his bank, gave the framers of the government's fiscal policies at Washington something new to think about. He has already stirred up a row by being the only banker in the country to refuse to pay his assessment to the Federal Insurance Deposit corporation.

Hedge Against Bond Decline.

The decision of the Englewood bank board was interpreted as a move to hedge against any possibility of the market value of United States obligations declining. In a letter sent to all depositors last night, Mr. Nichols said:

"With 100 per cent of our deposits represented by cash and government securities, we are giving a protection afforded by few banks. This having been accomplished, we now look to the protection of our stockholders' investments. Therefore, our board of directors has voted the following amendment to our by-laws:

"'The bank reserves the privilege of paying any or all deposits in United States government securities at their face value plus accrued interest, providing it has on hand cash and government securities in an amount equal to or in excess of its total deposits.'

"You will notice from the amendment that in order to exercise this option we are bound to have 100 per cent of your deposits in cash and government securities. This plan is for the joint protection of our depositors and stockholders alike, and, of course, would be resorted to only in the case of an emergency.

Payment of Depositors Assured.

"No matter what happens you are thus assured of getting cash and government securities of their face value.

"In the 44 years we have been in business we feel that our stockholders have sacrificed enough in the point of earnings that the depositors might be fully protected, and we do not feel justified in guaranteeing the future price of government securities.

"Today our entire bond account could be disposed of at a handsome profit, leaving us more cash on hand than we have deposits.

"We have faith in and believe in our present form of government, and for this reason have chosen its securities as our mainstay in these trying times."

Mr. Nichols explained that there is a twenty-one day period during which depositors may either go along with the plan or withdraw their deposits. He added the hope that the day will come when he will be able to cease operating a "glorified currency exchange and run a bank."

REPORT SEVENTH WEEKLY UPTURN IN COMMODITIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Wholesale commodity prices rose nearly 7-10 of one per cent last week, the seventh consecutive advance, the labor department reported today. A continued rise in market prices of farm products and foods was largely responsible.

The increase placed the index number at 73.3 per cent of the 1926 average of 100, as compared with 72.8 for the week ending Feb. 3. The present price level is 2.2 per cent above the 1933 high point, 71.7 for the week ended Nov. 18. The rise since the first week of January is 3.5 per cent.

Prices are nearly 22 per cent above a year ago, when the index stood at 60.2. As compared with the 1933 low point, which was 59.6 in the week ended March 4, the current index is up 23 per cent. The general average is 23 per cent below the average for 1929, which was 95.3.

AM. TELEPHONE 1933 PROFIT IS 182 MILLIONS

Dip Into Surplus for Dividends.

Net earnings of the American Telephone and Telegraph company for 1933 after all interest charges but before payment of dividends, met in part from the surplus, totaled $182,900,000, compared with $194,400,000 for 1932, according to the annual pamphlet report of the company, issued yesterday.

Including the $13,800,000 operating loss of the Western Electric company, not included in the foregoing, the net income of the system was $68,400,000 less than the dividends paid. Net income of the system in 1932, when Western Electric operated at a loss of $12,600,000, was $58,300,000 less than dividends paid.

Per share earnings of the company after interest charges for 1933 stood at $5.38, compared with $5.96 for 1932. These figures include the operating losses of Western Electric. Net of the parent company itself equaled $7.37 a share, against $7.82 in 1932.

Surplus of $31 a Share.

President Walter S. Gifford said in his report to the stockholders that prior to 1932 the company had never paid out all of its earnings in dividends. Thus in the nearly 50 years of existence the company accumulated a surplus which, together with its proportion of the surplus of its associated companies and the Western Electric, amounted to $31 per share.

"In the last two years," Mr. Gifford said, "$6.66 per share of this surplus, $3.04 in 1932 and $3.62 in 1933, has been used in order to maintain the dividend on the stock. The company has no watered stock, but on the contrary has received an average of $114 a share for the 18,662,275 shares of stock outstanding. The dividend of $9 a share was therefore at the rate of 6.4 per cent and the 1933 net income of $5.38 per share was 3.8 per cent on the stockholders' investment, including the surplus."

Mr. Gifford stated that there was an improvement in the company's business in the last eight months of 1933. While the system lost 715,000 telephones during the first eight months of 1933, it gained 85,000 in the last four months, making the loss for the year 630,000 as compared with 1,650,000 in the preceding year. There were 13,163,000 telephones in service at the end of the year, compared with 15,682,059 at the end of 1930, when the all time record was attained.

Assets Near Five Billion.

"Total assets of the system amounted to $4,907,000,000 at the end of the year," Mr. Gifford said. "Cash assets—including funds temporarily invested in government obligations—were $218,000,000. In addition some $3,000,000 was in closed banks against which amount adequate reserves have been set up. The system has no bank loans outstanding and no obligations of substantial amount maturing until 1937 when approximately $42,000,000 of bonds become due.

Total assets of the system at the end of 1932 stood at $4,901,576,000, including cash assets of $204,000,000.

The total operating revenues of the system were $872,400,000, which is 7.7 per cent less than in 1932.

The entire Bell system, including Western Electric, had 270,000 employés at the end of the year, Mr. Gifford said.

Stock Market Slickers Will Beat Any Rule, Senators Told

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Make some brand new rules for the stock exchange and, just about the time they get a-working, along will come somebody with a brand new type of deceit to wreck the rules.

This, in substance, was both the apology and the alibi which Frank Altschul, chairman of the stock listing committee of the New York Stock exchange, today gave the senate banking and currency committee considering the Fletcher bill for federal control of the exchange. Mr. Altschul was giving an apology for the way his committee had granted two applications of the American Commercial Alcohol corporation for the listing on June 2, 1933, of 51,293 additional shares of capital stock and of 10,000 shares June 27 without making a complete investigation.

Admits Committee Was Misled.

In the light of the revelations concerning pools and syndicates made to the committee today by Russell Brown, chairman of the alcohol corporation, Mr. Altschul was convinced toward evening that his committee had been "misled without a doubt."

Then came the alibi. Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, had recalled a former bit of "misleading" when he recollected that the General Theaters Equipment corporation, asking for an original listing, had marked up the value of its stock from a little over $4,000,000 to $24,000,000. Yes, Mr. Altschul remembered the incident. But he felt sure that you can't judge the future by the past and that each case is different.

By inference, he intimated that senatorial investigation isn't necessary.

Admits Pool in Alcohol Stock.

What Mr. Altschul heard today was a combination of the serious and the comic. The serious side involved disclosures that the stockholders of the American Commercial Alcohol corporation were denied participation in profit, which, according to Mr. Pecora's interpretation, was their legal right, when Mr. Brown and four of his directors went into a pool in which Thomas E. Bragg, famous market operator, manipulated 65,000 shares to an ultimate profit of $200,000. Bragg was given an option on the shares at $18 when their value was $30.

In making the plan which was to make the profit, Mr. Brown and his associates set up the Maister laboratories, named from their chief chemist, Dr. Hans Maister. Knox B. Phegan, the "dummy," was issued 10,000 shares, the total number of shares in this new concern, and gave a note for $180,000.

Mr. Brown admitted it wasn't done with his "customary business judgment" but times were trying. Then Brown exchanged 10,000 shares of American Commercial Alcohol, for 10,000 shares of Maister.

What were the assets of the Maister company? Mr. Brown beamed. "Why, the secret formula of Dr. Maister for making dry yeast."

Formula "Worth" $300,000.

Although they informed the stock exchange that this laboratory was valued at "more than $300,000," Mr. Brown revealed that no yeast is yet on the market. The reason? First the rats were running around their Philadelphia plant; and the yeast then had to be sent to the plant at Pekin, Ill., where, it seems, there are "better atmospheric conditions."

Just then along came repeal. The Pekin plant had to be enlarged. Until the architectural changes are made, the Mill building, designed for the rats and the yeast, cannot be occupied.

The second enterprise was when Mr. C. Capderville, a molasses broker, gave a note for $250,000 in exchange for about 65 per cent of the newly organized Noxod corporation, built from the predecessor company, the Noxod Chemical Products company, which had been bought for $80,000. Capderville exchanged these shares with Brown for 15,000 shares of the alcohol company's stock.

And it was not until this afternoon that Mr. Altschul learned that, either at the time or shortly after the time his committee approved the listing of these 15,000 shares on the exchange, Mr. Brown's associates had sent the committee a pro forma balance sheet of the company, listing the "good will, licenses, and processes" at $380,000.

DOLLAR VALUE EASES SLIGHTLY, BUT STILL DRAWS GOLD IMPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—The dollar eased slightly in terms of the principal foreign currencies today. The French franc managed to move up one-half of a point, which brought the dollar fractionally nearer to its devalued basis of 59.06 cents. The franc closed at 6.53, indicating a dollar value of 59.99 cents against 60.05 yesterday on the old gold basis and a premium of 1.5 per cent on its new parity. That premium is still sufficient to make large gold imports to the United States profitable.

The pound moved up 2¾ cents, closing at $5.05¾, while other currencies for the most part showed small gains. Trading was inactive.

The price of gold in the London open market was left unchanged at 137 shillings 5 pence, equivalent to $34.75, with the pound at the closing price. A record offering of £1,630,000 (about $8,200,000) was sold for shipment to the United States at that price.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France showed a record-breaking loss of gold for the week ended Feb. 9 of $130,000,000. More gold is reported to have been drained since then, but M. Germain-Martin, new minister of finance, asserted that the outflow was slackening and any alarm was unjustified.

At Le Havre 110 million gold francs (approximately $6,500,000) were shipped to New York aboard the liner Manhattan.

U. S. Grain Exports Reach 1,711,000 Bushels in Week

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Exports of grain from the United States last week totaled 1,711,000 bushels, compared with 132,000 bushels the previous week and 480,000 the corresponding week of last year.

Report Silver to Be Revalued at $1.09 Ounce

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15—As bar spot silver rose to a new high record today Wall street heard rumors that the administration planned to do something more for silver which would have the effect of increasing substantially the price paid at the mines for newly mined metal. It was rumored that the new mine price would be $1.09 and that announcement of the plan would be made on Monday.

Spot silver rose one-quarter cent to 45⅝ cents an ounce today, the highest price since 1930. It's all-time low was 24¼ cents on Dec. 29, 1932.

Silver bullion and banking circles interpreted the prospective action as giving effect to that paragraph of section 12 of the gold reserve act, approved Jan. 30, which provided for reduction of the content of the standard silver dollar in the same percentage that the gold dollar was devalued under that act. The paragraph reads:

"The President is authorized, in addition to other powers, to reduce the weight of the standard silver dollar in the same percentage that he reduces the weight of the gold dollar.

Possible New Price $1.09.

In his proclamation of Jan. 31 the President devalued the gold dollar by reducing its content from 25.8 grains of gold of a fineness of 90 per cent to 15 5.21 grains of gold of similar fineness. Wall stret statisticians figured that to reduce the content of the standard silver dollar in the same ratio as applied to gold would cut the grain content from 412½ grains to 243⅝ grains. To translate this into dollars paid at the mine it would be necessary to increase the $1.29 an ounce gross price for newly mined silver, less seniorage, to about $2.18 an ounce, less seniorage. If the amount charged for seniorage remained at 50 per cent, now charged, this would mean a price of $1.09 an ounce at the mine compared with a present price of 64½ cents.

Since there are 480 grains to an ounce, devaluing the silver content of the standard silver dollar would give the dollar a content of less than half an ounce, so that, so long as the seniorage charge remained at 50 per cent or more, the evils of a straigt bimetallic currency would be avoided.

Legal and Actual Ratio.

Under existing law the legal rati of gold to silver is 16 to 1, though actually the ratio, on the basis of 64½ cents an ounce at the mine, is around 54 to 1. The ratia of silver at $1.29 an ounce to gold at $20.67 an ounce is 16 to 1; to restore that ratio on a basis of a price of $35 an ounce would mean a price of $2.18 for silver. Under the new law the gold dollar has been devalued but the silver dollar has not, and the sole effect of the devaluation of the silver coin will be to increase the subsidy paid silver mines.

There were rumors also that the government might announce some plans to take over the large stocks of silver metal owned in New York and other centers. Though no explanation was available as to what the purpose of such action might be, Wall street speculators were particularly interested in this question, for many recognized that the mere devaluation of the silver dollar would have little probable effect upon the price of silver metal.

ROOSEVELT ACTS TO BLOCK CUTS IN RAIL WAGES

Asks Continuation of Agreement.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—In an effort to avert another threatened tie-up of the American railroad system President Roosevelt tonight dispatched a letter to the railway managers meeting at Chicago, asking that they continue the present wage scale on all roads for another six months' period.

The so-called "conference committee of managers" served notice at Chicago today that beginning July 1, the railroads would enforce a 15 per cent reduction of all wages below the basic scale.

The general feeling in Washington is that the railway brotherhood would not accept such a wage cut, and that its enforcement would lead to a general railroad strike which would imperil the entire recovery program.

Present Scale Temporary.

Under existing agreements a 10 per cent reduction under the basic scale is in force temporarily, but these agreements expire on June 30. The present wage pacts provide for 10 per cent to be deducted from employés' pay checks, but under the notice posted by the railway managers today, a direct reduction of the basic scales would be enforced, for a period of one year.

Mr. Roosevelt in his message to the railroad executives urged that no wage controversy be commenced at this critical time in his recovery program, and he declared that a bitter fight between the railway managements and the railway unions, which is held to be inevitable if the decision to cut the pay scale is adhered to, would be a "most disturbing influence" upon the general prosperity of the country.

Noting that "marked progress toward national recovery has been made since last June," and that he was "sure that the goal will be reached," the President said much remained to be accomplished.

Urges Continuation.

Pressing his request for both railway managements and employés to continue the present agreement for another half year, the President declared his confidence that such an extention "would be of advantage to those directly concerned, and also to the entire country."

"On June 21, 1933, the railroad managers and the railroad labor executives entered into an agreement under which the arrangement by which 10 per cent is being deducted from the pay checks of railroad employés was extended from Oct. 31, 1933, until June 30, 1934, and under which the date on which either party could submit a notice in accordance with the provisions of the railway labor act, indicating a desire to change the basic rates

New York, Feb. 15.—In a swelling burst of activity today low priced speculative bonds staged an advance that ranked with any of the markets of the recent upswing.

Spirited bidding, embracing not only all the established favorites but a lengthy array of new ones, lifted prices 1 to 4 points above yesterday's closing.

Among speculative bonds strength and activity was most pronounced in the issues of International Telephone, Denver Milwaukee, International Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, Frisco, Seaboard, and Wabash. Paramount bonds reached new highs in the third consecutive day of their advance.

Federal Issues Quiet.

While secondary issues were exploring higher ground treasury issues and high grade corporation bonds maintained a steady tone in a quiet market. A feature of trading in governments was one transaction of $1,025,000 fourth Liberty 4¼s on a price advance of ⅛ point.

Among high grade railroad, utility, and industrial liens fractionally higher prices were paid for Union Pacific first 4s, American Telephone collateral 5s and sinking und 5s, Pennsylvania general 4¼s, Norfolk and Western consolidated 4s and the 4s of 1944, Public Service 4½s, Louisville and Nashville bonds, Consolidated Gas 4½s, Burlington refunding 4½s, and Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s.

Moves on Dutch Ruling.

A Dutch court decision on the method of interest payments had interesting repercussions in the action of Batavia Petroleum 4½s and Royal Dutch 4s. Interest on the Batavia bonds, the court ruled, may be paid in paper dollars, but because of their multiple currency clause, the court held that interest on the Royal Dutch obligations must be paid in Dutch florins, if the holder wants it that way. Royal Dutch rose sharply on the news, while the Batavia bonds broke.

Austrian bonds strengthened on reports that the government was gaining the upper hand against the Socialist insurrection. Among other foreign bonds, French and Danish issues were strong, while Germans declined 1 to 3 points.

HOLC BONDS.

Maytag.

Investors' Guide: Kindly tell me how you rate Maytag first preferred and common.—R. H. J.

Answer: Maytag company is a leading manufacturer of washing machines. It also turns out electric ironers. Its plant has an annual capacity of 600,000 machines. Sales are made for the most part through independent dealers and distributors.

General improvement in business conditions gave earnings a sharp impetus in the third quarter of 1933. In that three month period sales were more than three times those reported in the corresponding 1932 period. For the first nine months of 1933 net sales were $6,640,000 and net income was $671,000, or $1.42 per share of preference stock. In the corresponding 1932 period sales totaled $4,109,000 and net income was $42,000, or only 71 cents per share of $6 first preferred. The four year record of earnings follows:

1931	9,206,000	1,074,000	*
1930	14,471,000	2,030,000	.43
1929	25,626,000	6,839,000	3.33

*Deficit.

The company has filed a test suit to collect a royalty on its claims covering patents on bottom agitation in washing machines. This has been in dispute for ten years and a favorable decision would be of substantial benefit.

On Sept. 30, 1933, current assets totaled $6,100,000, against current liabilities of $1,057,000. There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 59,263 shares of $6 cumulative no par first preferred, 285,500 shares of $3 cumulative no par preference stock and 1,618,000 shares of no par common [80 per cent owned by the Maytag family].

Dividends were resumed on the first preferred on Nov. 1, 1933, after a lapse since May 2, 1932. Accumulated unpaid dividends total $7.50 a share, or approximately $450,000. Unpaid accumulated dividends on the preference stock on Feb. 1, 1934, totaled $8 a share, a total of $2,284,000. The first preferred is medium grade. The preference stock is speculative and the common more so.

Bank Stock Liability.

Investors' Guide: In the event of sale of stock for a new national bank where the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has purchased the preferred, would there be double liability attached to the holder of the common? —G. A. F.

Answer: The office of the controler of the treasury informed us that there would not be.

FINANCIAL VIEWS ON WEST PARK'S BOND PLAN VARY

Controler Says He Tries to Aid Holders, Taxpayers

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Some differences of opinion exist in La Salle street with respect to the position of holders of west park district bonds, now in default, under the recently announced refunding plan. This plan provides for the issue of $19,650,000 of funding and refunding bonds and a further issue of $2,000,000 in revolving fund bonds. There are $12,450,000 of bonds in default.

Certain bankers and municipal house officials assert that holders of the defaulted bonds are not receiving entirely just treatment under the plan. They insist that the old bondholders are being asked to accept new bonds under the refunding plan on the same basis as more recent creditors of the board who have claims that are not as clear cut as those of the original bondholders.

Trying to Clear "Mess."

Edward N. Heinz, controler of the park board, who helped prepare the plan, says the old bondholders inherited a bad financial situation from the predecessor board, and that he and his colleagues are attempting to clear up the mess in a way which will be to the best advantage of both the bondholders and the taxpayers.

Some bankers held to somewhat neutral ground, saying yesterday that the present park board is doing a fine piece of work, and they declined to comment on the plan other than to say they saw no reason for bondholders to rush in and deposit their bonds.

Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficicency, said: "My individual impression, without having made a thorough investigation, is that this is a favorable piece of local refinancing from the point of view of the public."

Seek to Protect Fund.

One objection to the plan was that the present park board apparently does not wish to make sacrifices in its corporate fund—the fund from which the current operating expenses are paid—in paying for the irregularities of the preceding board. Another is that the sinking fund for the retirement of bonds is not sufficiently tied up to insure its fulfilment.

Another criticism was that A. C. Allyn & Co., Inc., the house acting as agents in handling the refunding of the defaulted bonds, is receiving too great a compensation.

It was pointed out that A. C. Allyn & Co. were given an option to purchase $2,000,000 of bonds to be used as a revolving fund, through which it was hoped to put the board on a cash basis, at a price of 90. It was also explained that the gross price for handling the entire operation, providing 90 per cent of the $12,450,000 in bonds outstanding was deposited, would be 1½ per cent.

Favors Better Rate.

One suggestion was that if bondholders were to be asked to extend bonds due now they were entitled to a better interest rate than that they will receive. Under the plan the old rates are to be continued. These range from 4 to 5 per cent.

Mr. Heinz challenged his critics. Taking the $2,400,000 issue which it is proposed to put out in order to pay back salaries and pay rolls, he said it was far easier on the taxpayers to pay an interest rate of 4½ per cent than to pay 6 per cent on warrants. He said the same situation exists with respect to obligations due contractors and others who would be paid from the proceeds of a $625,000 issue.

Mr. Heinz said the board would be glad to meet some of its past due obligations from the corporate fund were tax collections coming in sufficiently fast to enable this.

To Meet Maturities.

Mr. Heinz insisted that the refunding plan will enable the board to meet its maturing obligations. He said the average of tax collections in the west park district for the last five years has been 70 per cent. He added that collections could drop to 58 per cent and interest on all the bonds issued under the plan could be met.

Regarding the option given A. C. Allyn & Co., he said that if there is any house that would like to make a better price than 90 for the $2,000,000 revolving fund bonds the board stands ready to give it a contract to handle the issue. He did not believe the compensation excessive and in this one leading La Salle street banker agreed with him.

He said that in maintaining the original rates of interest, the plan of the board was to make the load as easy as possible for taxpayers. z

ROOSEVELT ACTS TO BLOCK CUT IN RAILROAD WAGES

"It was stated that this agreement had been reached because both the railroads and the employés wished to do nothing which would in any way embarrass or threaten the policy of the administration; that they realized that the government had embarked upon a wholly new policy designed to promote business and industrial activity and to further the general welfare; that they appreciated that until the results of this policy could be more clearly determined, it would be difficult to deal wisely with the wage controversy, and that the active prosecution of such a controversy and that time might have a most disturbing and unsettling effect. Neither side relinquished in any way its views as to what the wages should be, but they agreed to a postponement of the controversy out of deference to what they believed to be the desire and policy of the administration and in the general public interest.

Cites Marked Progress.

"The advent of Feb. 15 makes it necessary again to give consideration to this wage matter. Marked progress toward national recovery has been made since last June, and I am sure that the goal will be reached. Nevertheless, much remains to be accomplished, the emergency still exists, and the country has not yet attained conditions of stability. There has been comparatively little change in the cost of living, but prices are unsettled and I am hopeful that they will in general rise to higher levels. The traffic of the railroads is improving, but their financial condition is still impaired and their credit has not yet been restored so far as a private capita is concerned. Under present conditions the prosecution of a bitter controversy between the railroads and their employés over wages would have a most disturbing influence, and I am further convinced that conditions are not yet sufficiently stable to permit of a wise determination of what the wages should be for the future.

"In the circumstances I venture to express the hope that the railroads and their employés may be able to agree upon an extension of the present agreement for at least six months. I am confident that such an extension would be of advantage to those directy concerned, and aso to the entire country."

OFFICIALS REFUSE COMMENT.

Railroad officials in Chicago last night refused to comment officially on President Roosevelt's request that the present rate of wage payment to railroad employés be continued for six months beyond the expiration of the present agreement, which is on June 31. However, it was stated unofficially that the roads will probably have to accede to the President's wishes.

Executives stated that the conference committee of managers, which yesterday served notice on the railroad unions that they proposed to reduce the basic wage scale 15 per cent on July 1, has full authority to act on the wage problem. They added that the chairman, W. F. Thiehoff, general manager of the Burlington, will probably call a meeting shortly.

The total number of employés, including the official and clerical staffs, of the class 1 railroads of the country in the middle of January, 1934, was given as 965,650.

U. S. LONG TERM ISSUES WINNING GREATER FAVOR

3 Year Note Subscription Exceeds Shorter Loan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. tonight revealed that demands for government long term loans has for the second time in three weeks outstripped calls for short term federal paper.

As a result another treasury issue in the near future carrying a maturity of more than three years is considered probable here. Until recently short term loans have been favored.

Secretary Morgenthau's announcement disclosed that the treasury had offers aggregating 2 billion 285 million dollars for a 400 million dollar issue of 3 per cent three year notes which it sold on Tuesday.

Smaller Subscription Here.

At the same time, the treasury floated another 400 million dollar issue of 22 month notes bearing 2½ per cent interest. This issue attracted offers aggregating only 1 billion 332 million dollars, almost a billion dollers less than the offers for the longer note.

In its Jan. 29 financing two year notes were bought up more rapidly than certificates maturing in a little more than one year. At that time Secretary Morgenthau admitted that he was watching the repsonse to longer term issues closely. Success of the two year note in January is believed to have prompted the three year note offered in the current financing. The treasury may now go on and attempt to sell four or five year notes or even another issue of bonds.

Secretary Morgenthau also announced the basis of allotment on the latest issues.

Allotments of Issues.

All subscriptions for $10,000 or less of either of the two notes issues will be awarded in full. All subscriptions for more than $10,000 of the 22 month notes will be alloted 30 per cent, but not less than $10,000 will be given to any subscriber. All subscriptions for more than $10,000 of the three year notes will be alloted 16 2-3 per cent, with not less than $10,000 to any one subscriber.

The secretary tonight invited bids on $75,000,000 of ninety-one day treasury bills to be sold on a discount basis. The bills will be dated Feb. 21.

STOCKS ADVANCE ON BROAD FRONT IN ACTIVE TRADE

Sign of Trade Recovery an Influence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15. — Broadening evidence of business recovery and a definite improvement in the outlook for modification of the pending stock exchange regulation bill at Washington today combined to bring about the best share market rally in a week or more. The rising war clouds in Europe had little effect on speculative sentiment, one way or another, brokers reported. The turnover at 2,972,000 shares was the largest since the holiday recess.

The day's gains averaged 1 to 2 points in the active list with scattered upturns of higher amounts.

Most Groups Improve.

Except for the aviation shares which were depressed by the administration's refusal to recede from its stand on airmail contract cancelation the improvement was shared in by virtually all groups. The repeal stocks lagged in the earlier trading on disclosures in the senate probe into stock pool manipulation, but most of them came back with sufficient persistence to qualify on the "plus" side of the market before the finish. Several issues established new price tops for the year or longer.

Silver stocks remained outstandingly strong with United States Smelting spurting more than 4 points to a new high. American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco also recorded new highs on brisk trading. Interest in these issues has been stimulated afresh during the last two or three days by reports that the administration is preparing to devalue the silver dollar and substantially raise the price on newly-mined silver.

American Can at New Top.

Apart from this department, the day's buying converged largely on industrials. American Can sold to a new peak for the bull trend, stretching its advance to above 107, up 2 point, and Montgomery Ward and Continental Can rose to the best prices in several years on good advances.

Sugar stocks came in for some good buying with Cuban American, Great Western and American the favorites. Gains of 1 and 2 points were the rule for the group.

The motors basked in high favor, Chrysler, Nash and General Motors along with Mack setting a good pace, 1 to 2 points up. Pierce Arrow reached a new high level on a fractional gain but receded to its previous closing figure.

All the old line stocks including Steel, General Electric, Standard of New Jersey, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and the like were lifted by improving demand.

ATCHISON'S NET $2.98 A SHARE ON PFD. STOCK

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The preliminary report of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway for 1933 shows net income of $3,698,671, equal after taxes and charges to $2.98 a preferred share. In 1932 it earned $7,545,008, or 55 cents a common share.

Preliminary reports of other roads available today include: Rock Island lines, 1933 net loss of $11,602,846, against loss of $9,956,800 in 1932; Reading company, net income of $6,715,523, equal after dividends on the first and second preferred stock to $2.80 a common share, against $4,228,789, or $1.02 a common share in 1932; Central Railroad of New Jersey, net loss of $2,309,738, against loss of $1,828,083 for 1932.

Extra Dividend Declared by Abbott Laboratories

Directors of the Abbott Laboratories yesterday declared not only the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, but also an extra dividend of 10 cents, both payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 15. At the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday the number of directors was increased from 11 to 13. The new directors are J. F. Biehn and Carl Nielsen.

PACKER MARKET PACT SEEKS TO PREVENT WASTE

Saving Goes to Farmers and Consumers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The agricultural adjustment administration today officially announced the submission of a tentative marketing agreement to the meat packing industry after months of heated negotiation.

Drafted by experts of the AAA in coöperation with a special committee representing the packing interests, the agreement is understood to represent the fullest lengths to which the government is prepared to go in reaching a workable arrangement with the packers. Whether the industry will accept its provisions depends on the outcome of intra-industry conferences now being conducted in Chicago.

Would Eliminate Waste.

As outlined by Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, the primary immediate aim of the tentative agreement is the elimination of wasteful practices in the distribution of meat products and the equitable division of resulting savings among producers and consumers. Definite methods of distributing this savings will be worked out before any program is adopted under the agreement, the AAA declared.

As definite and specific programs and policies dealing with the various commodities handled by the industry are worked out, it was said, they will be included in the agreement.

Unlike the other marketing agreements drawn up under the farm adjustment act, the proposed packers' agreement contains no provision for the licensing of the industry. The AAA has been assured, it was explained, that the packers would be able to "secure signature of practically any proportion of the meat packing industry required for practical operation of a marketing agreement."

Would Invoke License.

Should opposition and recalcitrancy develop among independent packers, however, the AAA would have full power under the act to invoke a federal license forcing all members of the industry to abide by the provisions of the marketing agreement.

The proposed pact makes no effort to fix farm prices for live stock, although the stabilization of producers' income is one of its primary objectives.

Nor does the pact as now drawn provide for fixed retail or wholesale prices.

The agreement also authorizes the development of "equitable quotas for processors," designed to solve the problem of maintaining uniform wholesale prices in the face of "distress sales of certain packers who buy live stock beyond their needs and depress live stock prices generally."

Under the terms of the pact, it was said, that packers will be permitted certain exemptions from the antitrust laws to coöperate in a way that would otherwise be illegal. In return for this privilege, the AAA demands the right to examine the packers' books and records.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Raw sugar was a little easier today, and although there was no change in spot prices of duty frees, there was more sugar offering, while Cuban declined 1-32c. The only sales reported were 38,000 bags of Puerto Rican for prompt shipment at 3.35c, and 15,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment at equal to 3.57c to local refiners. Futures were easier, closing 1 to 4 points net lower. Sales were 27,700 tons. Prices follow:

LAMBS ADVANCE TO FOUR YEAR FEBRUARY PEAK

Top Sales at $9.85; Hogs and Cattle Easy.

Trading in cattle and hogs slowed down yesterday and slight losses were recorded in some classes toward the end of the session. Lambs, however, continued to soar, the top yesterday reaching a new four year February mark of $9.85. This was $4.00 higher than the price paid on the corresponding day in 1933 and $3.10 higher than two years ago.

Despite the relatively high costs of lambs, which were $2.60 above top cattle and $5.10 higher than top hogs, all interests were eager for numbers again, and the comparatively small supply vanished soon after the opening of trading.

Several Factors Aid Rise.

Sharply higher prices for dressed lamb, the high level of wool compared with a year ago, and the reduced run were the bullish factors. Many feeders are holding back supplies anticipating a $10.00 top shortly. The last time lambs sold at $10.00 at this season was in 1930.

Trading in practically all weights of cattle was quiet. Prices ruled weak to 15 cents lower, and in spots as much as 25 cents lower, compared with the high time Wednesday. Local houses took advantage of reduced eastern competition to buy steers at the lower levels.

Steers Top at $7.25.

Choice 1,035 pound steers topped the market at $7.25, while a consignment of outstanding 1,400 pound steers cleared at $6.75. Few other cattle of these weights got above $5.75, while many 1,400 to 1,500 pound averages of common to fair quality were sold at $4.50 to $5.

While cattle slipped a few notches yesterday, prices for most weights still are above a week ago. Most weighty steers are 25 to 35 cents higher than at the close of last week. Others are unevenly 10 to 25 cents higher for the week. Packers bought 1,000 cows for the government account at strong prices. Calves were strong to a shade higher.

Light Hogs Weaken.

Light hogs showed the weakness in yesterday's session, while butchers and packing sows held firm again, further narrowing the price spread. Both the top and general average for the session were unchanged at $4.75 and $4.50, respectively, but losses of as much as 5 to 10 cents were frequently found in hogs weighing 240 pounds and under, particularly in the "government weights" of 200 pounds and less.

Packers bought 3,700 for the account of the Federal Surplus Relief corporation, mostly at $4.60 and $4.65.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—During the period of slow business on the Boston wool market interest centers in the growing sections of the west and the prices of the new clip wool.

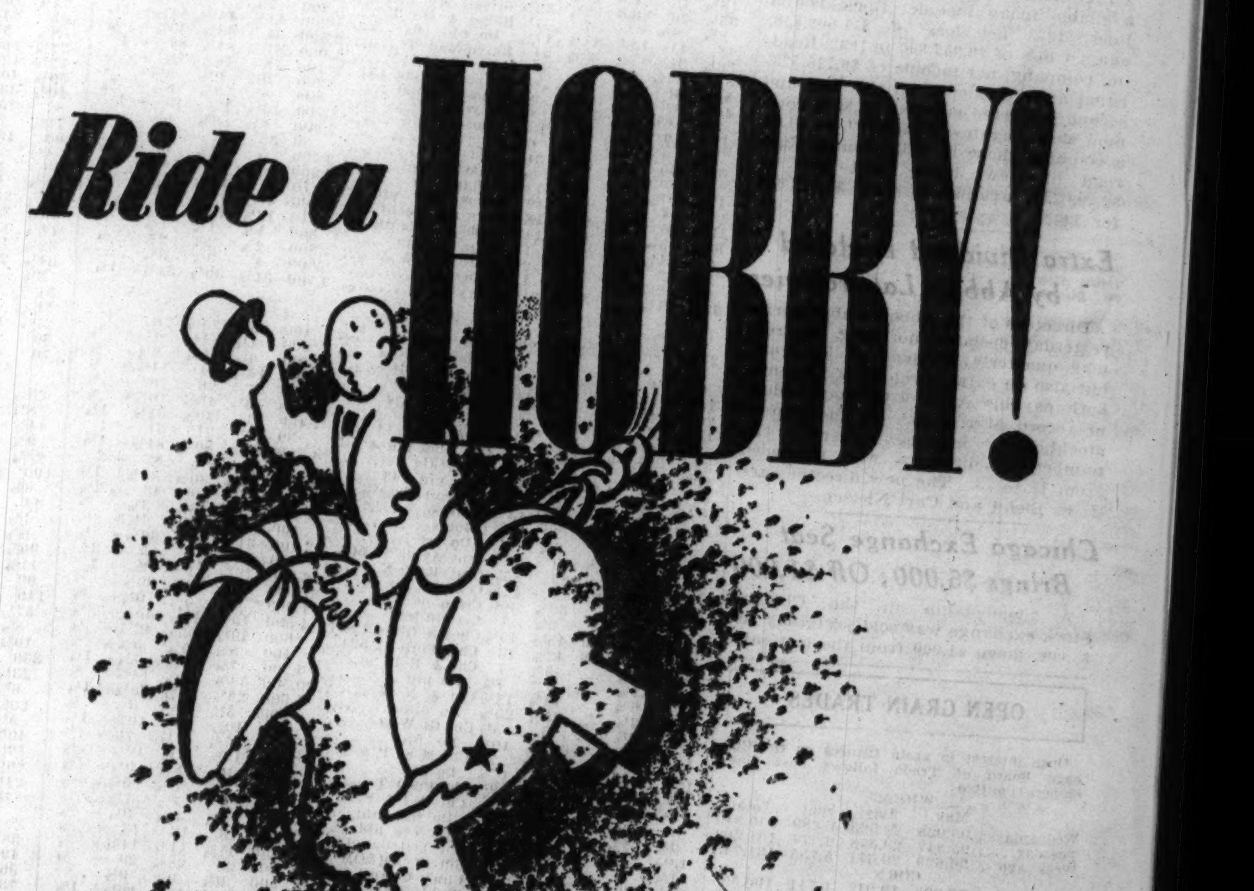
COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today was firm early on further covering and commission house buying, prompted by the firmness of lard and the further advance in hogs, but after selling 4 to 7 points higher, offerings increased and reaction followed. Final prices were unchanged to 2 points net lower. Sales, 44 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; March closed 5.30c; May, 5.48c; July, 5.70c; September, 5.90c.



Ride a HOBBY!

RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY

It is the best sort of fun! It satisfies that deep-seated desire to collect, to make things with your own hands, to be master of a subject. Medics have a lot to say about the value of a hobby as an outlet for overwrought nerves.

Our very best minds are addicted to hobbies. And get a kick out of them which they cannot find elsewhere. Some go in for beer mugs or ship models, or Chaucer or jade. There is no limit to its possibilities.

If you have no special bent, why not start with stamp collecting? Sandy Cabeen has an article on it next Sunday in the Tribune. Look for it.

GRAIN TRADING LISTLESS; PRICE RANGE NARROW

Uncertainty Reflected in Operations.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Strength in stocks and commodities in general failed to have influence of consequence on the grain markets yesterday. Wheat drifted back and forth within a range of ½ to ⅝ cent and corn showed a maximum swing of ¼ to ½ cent.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ cent higher with May at 90⅝ to 90¾ cents. Corn was unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, May at 51⅞ to 52 cents. Oats broke toward the last and lost ⅛ to ¼ cent at 36⅝ cents for May. Rye was ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher, May at 61⅛ cents. May barley closed at 50 cents, the same as on Wednesday.

Grain Trade Confused.

With so many elements of uncertainty in the grain situation, traders are disposed to trade cautiously. According to one of the closest observers of market conditions it is doubtful if even outright inflation would have much effect on the wheat market due to the fact the grain is selling near what has been regarded as the goal of the farm administration—namely, world's price plus the import duty.

Some traders also believe the world's supply of wheat is so liberal that even a major crop disaster in North America this season would fail to bring the world's surplus down to normal.

Rainfall Beneficial.

Official reports covering western Kansas for the week ended Feb. 13 showed fairly good rainfall and crop comments on winter wheat from that section were more optimistic. However, additional moisture would be highly beneficial due to the lack of subsoil reserve.

Winnipeg wheat closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, but there was no improvement in the foreign demand. Liquidation was again in evidence in Liverpool, where prices were ¼ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, the approach of March delivery day being a factor in depressing the nearby futures.

Cash interests bought May and sold July corn and the reverse yesterday at 2 cents difference and this furnished a good part of the day's business in futures.

Trading in rye was restricted and prices held within a range of ¼ cent.

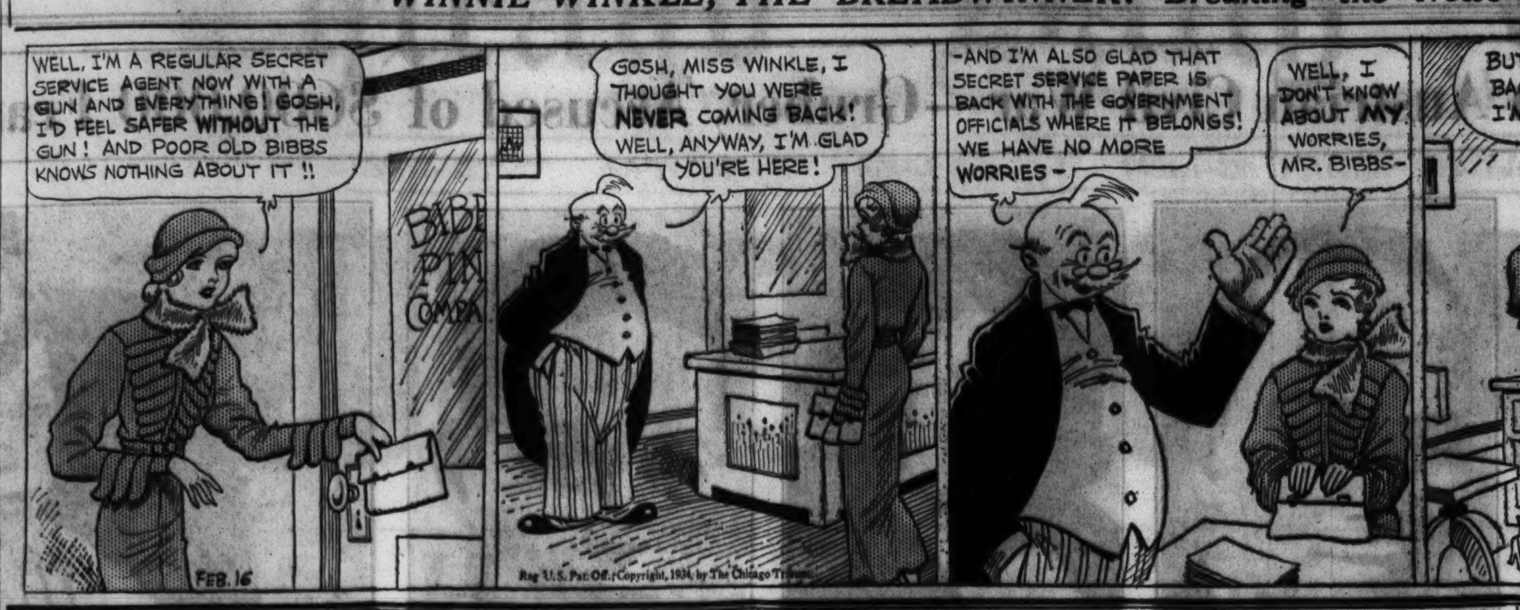
WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Breaking the News



WELL, I'M A REGULAR SECRET SERVICE AGENT NOW WITH A GUN AND EVERYTHING! GOSH, I'D FEEL SAFER WITHOUT THE GUN! AND POOR OLD BIBBS KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT IT!!
GOSH, MISS WINKLE, I THOUGHT YOU WERE NEVER COMING BACK! WELL, ANYWAY, I'M GLAD YOU'RE HERE!
—AND I'M ALSO GLAD THAT SECRET SERVICE PAPER IS BACK WITH THE GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS WHERE IT BELONGS! WE HAVE NO MORE WORRIES—
WELL, I DON'T KNOW ABOUT MY WORRIES, MR. BIBBS—
BUT I JUST CAME BACK TO TELL YOU I'M LEAVING!!

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

YOU'LL LIKE

1932 ROCKNE.

A de luxe sport model. We recommend this as the outstanding sedan value in town. It's in the finest of condition. Has wire wheels, side mounts, chrome covers. Special, $385.

1933 STUDEBAKER.

A recent 6 sedan that was used as a demonstrator. Has adv. free wheeling, automatic starting, automatic choke, safety glass. Positively looks and runs as though never driven a mile. It's a de luxe model. Only $745.

1932 GRAHAM.

A beautiful de luxe sedan, finished a smart cobalt blue. Every detail of the interior, motor, and tires seems brand new. Has wire wheels, side mounts, metal covers, etc. Only $675.

1932 WILLYS SIX.

This coupe has roomy rumble seat, white wall tires, dual horns, etc. It's a very sporty car, and has a sweet running motor. Just reduced to $315.

1931 CHRYSLER.

You'll be forced to admit it, if you see this convertible coupe, that it's a real beauty. And it runs like clockwork. Rumble seat. 6 wire wheels. It's a real buy at only $265.

1931 STUDEBAKER.

Some lucky buyer is going to get the bargain of a lifetime in this fine six sedan. Has free wheeling and a number of extras. It's 100 per cent in every detail. Special today, $295.

1931 HUPMOBILE.

Really, this Hupp is the last word for beautiful appearance and sparkling performance. Has wire wheels, side mounts, metal covers, shock absorbers, trunk rack. A fine purchase in a Victoria for merely $395.

1933 CHEVROLET.

1930 CADILLAC.

De luxe sedan with wire wheels, side mounts, trunk, etc. It was owned by a wealthy family who gave it the finest of care. Today it will still give new car satisfaction. Now $575.
